"The beast is very close indeed to certain specimens from New England both by eye and by multiple character analysis. Our paper on the N.E. Canis is just about completed, waiting only on numerical proof that it is highly variable ...As of now, we feel that what we have in New England is predominantly coyote, that any introduction of dog and/or wolf genes probably is not a local and frequently recurring phenomenon but happened as the coyote population was spreading show a shift from coyoteness towards both dog and wolf which is carried to an even greater extreme in our local population. For various reasons, which would take too long to spell out here, we feel that this is more likely an expression of ancient hybridization than of rapid evolution of the coyotes to fit a new niche. A few specimens from Illinois and Michigan and Canada fit into this picture. THE WEST VIRGINIA BEAST suggests that this eastward migration of an atypical, but predominantly, coyote animal is occurring on a rather wide front. The lower Mississippi valley canids surely need attention and behavioral studies . . .

"Size and profile seem about right for a wild specimen. We don't see anything 'peculiar' about the ears. They are very mobile, and apparently capable of assuming many different po-our beasts. There are so many things that mask the natural appearance of the living, healthy animal that without actual examination we hesitate to say, however, that there could not be some dog in it. We think that this is one case where internal characters would be of more value for identification.

We believe that it is related

A few weeks ago two men at different times told E. A. Tuckwiller, Jr. "You'd better check your sheep. I just saw a varmint."

So he is checking and so far his sheep are all right.

But there was this big one which they thought they had killed but it kept going up into Weaver's Knob and no one ever found it ...

Fossils Found Along Mountainsides

By DR. MARGARET BALLARD — Many billions of years ago, in Western Piedmont Mountainous Travel Country in the land we now call West Virginia, fossils are found in the state.

Fossils are found in the state Virginia, along the mountainsides, along the river banks and along every side the mountain or in the hanging cliffs. In the "dumps" of waste rock and the separating beds of waste rock. They are the remains of little animals and plants that lived and breathed around with the soil. Many are found on top of trees and covered by mosses and ferns. The little animals and plants were compressed and flattened. Finally with so much pressure the water and air were pressed out and only a thin film of carbonaceous material was left. The surrounding material is waste rock and the plant or animal was encased in hard layers of stone. When the rock is split apart, we find the "fossil," the rock the animal or plant has become, showing a compression or an impression of the animal and an impression on the opposite side. This is the most common type of preservation of prehistoric life in West Virginia.

Fossils may be defined as the remains, impressions, or traces of an animal or plant of a former geological age. We restrict the use of the word to "remains" at least as old as the "ice age" or about one million years.

Where does one go to find fossils in southern West Virginia? One of the best places is around coal mines, although with modern methods of mining, it is becoming more difficult to search there. Look through the "dumps" of underground mines or among the shale pushed aside in surface mining. Do not enter an abandoned mine alone. Search the material on the outside.

Other places to search are along the cliffs that follow the streams. Cliffs along the Greenbrier River are especially productive. Look also in the shale on the mountains along the highways. Peter's Mountain shale offers fossils of unusual perfection. It is said that the old owner "in patches."

West Virginia, Greenbrier

Marion County, starting at the bottom of the North Fork and Western Railway and west of Newcomb, starting and extending westward, and in Floyd County, starting at the bottom edge of Adams and extending westward down the highway to Laurel Creek and west end of Adams. In New Hampshire County (Marion County) they may be found starting at road fork one and one half miles northwest from Dalton and extending westward along highway to New Hampshire County. Marion County are found in Greenbrier County along Rockwell's Creek, and the Greenbrier River near Caldwell, Greenbrier County, starting at the top of Big Sewell Mountain and mile northwest of the old Mountain View Schoolhouse then north, westward to the schoolhouse, in the last fossil area.

For the beginning fossil collector, a valuable book is "Plant Fossils of West Virginia," published by West Virginia Geological and Economic Survey, West Virginia University, Morgantown, West Virginia. This book is still in print and is of great help in searching, starting, and starting fossils.

Lewisburg Church Named For Missionary

By MURLEY DUNNELLY

Albert T. Shuck of 1011 English Ave., Louisville, passed through Lewisburg the other day and had his attention attracted to the handsome Shuck Memorial Baptist Church on the town's main thoroughfare.

He appealed to the Rev. Norman Harrison, pastor of that church, for information as to the church that the church was named for, as he stated in his letter to me of March 20.

According to the Louisville man, Harrison told him that "this Shuck was the first missionary to China, in 1893, and that Dr. Dunnelly, of Oak Hill, W. Va., could tell you in on the details about that man."

What the Lewisburg preacher did is technically known as "passing the buck."

SHUCK MEMORIAL. Baptist Church was organized in 1827, if my memory clutch has not slipped overly much. When the present house of worship was erected, the minister was a Reverend Cook, a near kinsman of the Rev. Dr. Alvin Cook, late the minister of Beckley's First Baptist Church for many years.

He wanted to get the Shuck Memorial Church dedicated and was not having any luck at getting a minister to make the dedication address on the Sunday they planned the dedication service. He had tried to get Rev. D. W. Dursey of Welch but Dursey was tied up that day. Next he tried Dr. A. S. Kelley but the man had a previous engagement. Another minister was sought but his prior commitment for the time precluded his accepting the invitation.

Time was running out and the dedication Sunday was right on top of the Lewisburg minister, so, in desperation he wrote out the plausibly concocted that he could not get anybody whom he wanted to deliver the dedication address and wondered if I might not do it? He was told that if he could not get any one of those he wanted that I wouldn't mind helping him out.

It was on a hot Sunday in August, in the year 1920 or 1921, when the dedication address was delivered, using the text uttered by Jacob when he dreamed that night at Bethel when he saw the heavenly stairway: "This is the house of God." But to the story of the man for whom the church at Lewisburg is named.

REV. J. LEWIS SHUCK was born in Alexandria, Va., Sept. 4, 1852. In 1870 he was ordained and went at once to China as a missionary, having been sent by the Triennial Convention. In 1877 he baptised his first convert at Nanchang.

In 1880 the agent from whom he received his support failed. Shuck remained thereupon toiling hard and supported himself by selling a paper, but did not suspend his work as a missionary. In 1883 the church he organized had 28 members. In 1884 Shuck's wife died and in 1885 he returned to the United States to make provision for his children.

In 1886 he went back to Shanghai, under the patronage of the Southern Baptist Convention, taking his second wife with him.

In 1893 SHUCK returned to the U. S., having lost his second wife. In 1894 he was sent as a missionary to the Chinese in California, taking with him his third wife.

In California he spent seven years, discharging the double duties of missionary and pastor of Sacramento Baptist Church. As far as is known, he organized the first Chinese church of any denomination on the continent.

Having spent a quarter of a century laboring among the Chinese, Shuck returned to Barnwell Court House, S. C., in 1901 where he spent the remainder of his life.

For the surrounding churches. In 1902 he died in the 50th year of his life. He had a son, the Rev. L. H. Shuck who was long the pastor of the First Baptist Church of Charleston, S. C.

THAT SON of the first missionary to China was born at Singapore on the Malay Peninsula while his parents were en route to China in 1880. After the death of his mother in 1884 he was sent back to his grand father, Rev. Addison Hall, in Virginia and prepared for college.

He graduated at Wake Forest College in North Carolina from which he received the degrees of A. B., A. M., and D. D. After his graduation this man spent a year as professor in the United Female College in North Carolina and then became principal of the English Male Institute in that same state.

After the death of his father in 1893, he was sent over the pastorate of the churches which his father held at the time he died. In 1900 he assumed the pastorate of the noted First Baptist Church, Charleston, S. C., where he did the work of his life. Shuck Memorial Baptist Church at Lewisburg has had an up-hill pull between the Presbyterians and the Methodists have long had the large works there.

of the Old South. It had been particularly the playground and the home of southern people, and had been for a long while the real capital of the nation.

There presently had made their summer homes. All the old families came and he was master of the year the White Sulphur was their home.

They made no more visit as they do today, but an extended stay, with their horses and carriages, their manservants, their packs and rocks, and all the entourage of the homestead home.

There were assembled the South's youth and beauty, the rich and the poor, with their smiles and joys and tears, their engagements and partings, and there sat in conference for many years the men who really ruled the South, and, as a matter of fact, the Nation.

There were the women of the South, the democracy of whose smiles greeted the poet, and there, when the curtain was laid, awaited the men whose heart's work was the making of the great to grow on the dew-damp battlefields, and whose hands were weaving the broken pictures and lifting the fallen pillars of their home land.

It was a place that he had never before been used in this country, and he was well known about the situation.

BUT EDWIN SHELLEY had no sentiment for the South. He was married early to another woman. A Southern boy tried to kill him for the White man and he was in prison for a few months. He saw many buildings in the great South. He saw the great river, the Mississippi, the thousands of the colored population and the

A SPECTER brother, however, it was — a ghost that was a painter's dream. Enormous sat at the foot of the table, Martin's sat at the head of the table with a Southern beauty at his side. By Henry was a gorgeous creature on one side and a woman, one whose beamed features of the old days on the other side, a woman who could speak in gold as words of the departed Goring of the Old West.

James was treated with a glass of burning champagne as the only stranger in the party. Transmuted to "Voltaire" at Charleston spoke of the wisdom of our brother's declaration, and of the gateway and under eye were where the Old White had seen for a hundred years.

The Greenbrier Gets Top Rating

WHITE SULPHUR — The Greenbrier, mountain resort in White Sulphur Springs, once again has received the five-star rating of the Mobil Travel Guide and is listed in the 10th edition of the country's best-selling travel guidebook.

Over 23,000 restaurants, resorts, hotels and motels are listed and rated on a one to five-star basis in the seven-volume Travel Guide which will be available at Mobil stations and bookstores this month.

A special feature of the 1968 Mobil Travel Guide is a letter code system which tells the reader at a glance what major credit cards are accepted by the lodging and dining facilities.

Each of the seven regional editions gives valuable information on local history, sightseeing, amusements, sports and recreation facilities. They also include regional road atlases and detailed maps of major cities and special auto-tour sightseeing routes.

E. Truman Wright, vice president and managing director of the mountain resort, will accept the award for The Greenbrier at a dinner presentation to be held at the Forum of the Twelve Caesars in New York City May 22.

H. A. Dupont Saved Greenbrier From Being Burned Down In 1964

By KYLE McCOMBIE
Director of the Dept. of Archives and History

The Greenbrier Hotel at White Sulphur Springs, one of West Virginia's most beautiful resorts, was saved from being burned down in 1964 by H. A. Dupont of the French Army in 1864.

In 1864, Dupont became commander of the 1st Light Artillery and was sent to the Greenbrier Hotel to command a company of 100 men.

The Federal Army under the command of General David Hunter was moving on White Sulphur Springs for two days in the fall of 1864. The 1st Light Artillery was sent to the hotel to command a company of 100 men.

more, said the Colonel. "I mean the area. If we have any more of this kind of country, it will be the natural point for our army to move on. As so many roads converge here. Such being the case, the hotel was the place where the army could rest and wait for at least a brigade of troops."

And I had never thought of that.

And so the order was changed and the hotel was saved. Had it been burned to the ground, it is doubtful whether it would have been restored.

General Hunter had spent two of his last days at Leesport, Va., on the 1st of September and then gave the 1st Light Artillery the order to get down ahead of him and take the city. He spent the night at the hotel and the next day he was in the city. The hotel was burned down by the Federal Army in 1864.

If You Know Him, Write the Sheriff

Henry Arget, a prisoner in the jail, who was sent here from class for possession of moonshine liquor, was taken seriously ill with some intestinal disease and also seems to be affected mentally. He is being treated at the hospital. His home is said to be at Leonard Greenbrier county, but nothing definite has been learned about his residence or family, if any. He will probably be committed to the State Hospital, if his condition warrants his removal. Any one knowing this man, or any information as to his relatives, kindly communicate with the Sheriff's office, Marlinton, Pocahontas County, W. Va. He seems to have been chronically sick for a long time, and bears the scars of several abdominal wounds or operations.

JOE SPARKS IS WOUNDED BY SHOT

Joe Sparks Shot By Hugh Crouse
Last Thursday Evening Said Trouble Started Over Bad
Check Given Crouse

Joe Sparks, of Droop Mountain, was seriously injured last Thursday afternoon when Hugh Crouse fired a gun at him, and shot him in the side, penetrating the spine and coming out on the other side.

The state police were called immediately to the scene of the shooting and were informed that Crouse had gone toward his home, but when they reached his home he was not to be found. The search started immediately, but to this date nothing has been heard of him, although his horse was found just a few miles from his home, and it is thought that he is hiding somewhere in the mountains.

The latter part of last week it was reported here that they had located the fugitive on Droop Mountain, hiding in a cave, but upon investigation it was found that he was not there.

It is said that the trouble all started over a bad check given to Mrs. Crouse by Sparks.

NEW ELECTRIC PLANT IS NOW IN OPERATION

Ad New $20,000 Electric Plant Now in Operation—Much Improvement Noted Over Old Plant

ate
ercent

The new electric plant for the city of Marlinton is now complete and in working order. This plant now has one of the best units to be found in this section of the state.

The new plant has some of the most complete and best machinery for the electrical distribution to be found any where. Along with the building, which was erected for the new machinery, it is estimated that the plant will cost $20,000, of which $10,000 is to be paid in one year and the remainder to be paid on a profit basis.

The people of Marlinton should feel proud of this new plant for they have long needed a complete electric system in the town and one that could be depended upon to give complete service.

Paint Improves Appearance of Durbin Mercantile Building

The Durbin Mercantile Company has recently added greatly to the appearance of its business quarters, by painting the exterior in two shades of grey, the work being in charge of E. E. Oldaker.

Other improvements in the town include the remodeling of Mrs. Harriet E. Frazier's home, and the painting of J. Ed. Hall's cottage in colonial yellow with black trim. Each added improvement, makes everyone take more pride in the community.

It is a very beautiful thing to pay tribute to the mother of Abraham Lincoln, but in view of the fact that so much honor has already been accorded this illustrious family by every state in the Union, would it not be more fitting to do honor to some obscure, yet no less deserving historical character, who first saw the light of day here in our own mountains?

Surely some such character can be found in the section between Harlow and Franklin, or between "Traveler's Repose," the historical home of B B Beard, and Marlinton, for whom the new highway could be named. This would be all the more appropriate, as the new trail, is primarily a mountain one, winding as it does, in the trough between the ranges of the glorious Alleghenies.

Of course this project is merely an embryonic one as yet, and naming the road, at this time, is the counting one's chickens before they are hatched.

TWO BOYS HELD FOR STEALING 12 CHICKENS

Officers Intervene As Lads Are In Act of Exchanging Fowls for Cash.

Boys might steal a chicken or two and get away with it, but when they go to stealing them by the dozen and attempt to sell them, they are paying their own way to the jail house. It was found out Tuesday morning by Clarence Wargh and James Hal, two young chums, who live near here, after they had stolen the night before twelve of Mrs. Chas. Weatherholt's prize Plymouth Rocks and tried to sell them to the Home Products Meat Market, in this city.

Mrs. Weatherholt missed the chickens Tuesday morning and immediately went to every place in this section which purchased them was notified to be on the lookout for them. About ten o'clock, one of the lads put in his presence at the meat market and asked them if they bought chickens and paid cash for them. He was told that they did, and when he was given a list of prices for the dozen to pay for them, he was satisfied to

It starts with a general overview of the field, followed by a more detailed discussion of the specific issues at hand. The author then presents his own findings, which are based on a series of experiments. These experiments were designed to test the hypotheses derived from the literature review. The results of these experiments are presented in a series of tables and figures, which are then discussed in detail. The author concludes the paper by summarizing his findings and discussing their implications for the field.

Details of David Corbett's Death

In last week's issue of this paper a short account appeared of the death of David Patterson Corbett, beneath the wheels of the C. & O. manifest freight train No. 106 on Wednesday morning, February 20th, near Mass.

He had been employed in Charleston since October of last year, and was presumably on his way to visit his wife and two sons, Delmar and Granville, in Washington, D. C., going by way of Monterey, Va., where some of his other relatives live, as papers found on his body would indicate.

His mangled remains were discovered shortly after the accident occurred by the day watchman of the chemical plant at Decatur, who was on his way to work.

Mr. Sutton then prepared the remains for interment, which took place at Hamblton Chapel, Va., in the presence of a large crowd of friends and relatives.

Mr. Corbett was a cook by profession, and had led a colorful roving life, having cooked in the lumber

He was also highly educated, was

Basket Ball

The Greenback High School basketball team played the two closing games of the season with Bayard on Thursday and New River State on Friday, meeting these strong teams on the home floor of G. H. S.

At the end of the first half the locals had a margin of 15 over Bayard, but the visitors kept gaining until the final score was 20 to 10 in favor of Bayard.

Dillon P. Porter in his usual good work closely guarded by Duke Riley, and the stellar playing for Bayard was done by Winters and Jim Swartz, a brother of Austin Swartz of Durbin.

In the game with New River State the visitors kept a small margin over the locals throughout the game.

The score at the end of the half was 14-13 in favor of New River State, and G. H. S. suffered a defeat of 2 points at the finish, the score showing a margin of 29-27.

The locals yielded the victory with good grace however, taking a certain amount of pride in the fact that Laurence Stewart a former G. H. S. student, played forward for New River State.

Swago Community Meeting
The Swago or B... at the Swago Church for their month... meeting. The program was based on Health with Mrs. Carrie Morrison as chairman. The program was very interesting and there was a good attendance. The Buckeye school gave a very interesting health play entitled "The Muddies of Mussylund". The Swago school presented two musical numbers. J. Haynes Miller was the only speaker present so he gave us some pointers on our health. The next meeting will be held March 28, 1929.

Heap Big Rain

After a very hard rain Wednesday night, J. L. Howard awoke Thursday morning and found that his gas pumps and tanks had been washed out. The water had come up out of the ground with such force that it brought the big tanks up out of the ground, his knocking the pumps over. Mr. Howard expects to replace them immediately.

Think Fish Do Feel Pain

A German judge stated that fish have no feelings and, therefore, can not suffer pain. English fishermen disagree. According to J. K. Norman of the Natural History museum, South Kensington, London, fish have highly organized sensory systems and can suffer pain. The fact that fish dance about after being caught certainly seems to suggest pain, he believes. He also declares that a sick fish goes pale, and its eyes become blurred.

Frost Community Meeting

The second meeting of the Frost community held its regular meeting Wednesday night February 27. With all the unfavorable weather conditions with which we had to contend we considered it a great success. The community was well represented, and a real spirit of citizenship was shown.

We were unable to get any outside help, but our subject 'Citizenship' was very well mastered by our home talent. Some interesting talks were given by A. H. Sharp, A. A. Sharp, G. M. Sharp and Mitchell Sharp.

Miss Eula Hill and her pupils from Cove Hill school gave a very entertaining play on Washington, which was enjoyed very much.

Frost upper grades came in with their part on the life of one of our great Americans, Abe Lincoln. Also the 'Frost Orchestra' directed by Mrs. G. M. Sharp, gave some special music which was well rendered.

Our next subject to be discussed is Health. The meeting will be held at Frost Church, March 12.

THE EMPRESS TREE

Some years ago, Mr. Spencer found the plant growing in the woods on Cherry Hill. It was rooted over a stone. Several of these staves were taken out and brought. He took up the strongest and transplanted it in his garden. It grew but twice, reaching a height of 10 feet in a season, but freezing back each winter. The bark somewhat resembles the first year's growth of the poplar or white birch. The stalk is hollow, and it looks to be jointed like a reed.

While in Morgantown one evening last week, I sat and talked with Lester Shaght, the head of the Department of Botany at the University, and I showed him the saw shrub. Organ Cave, W. Va. — A new light plant has been installed at Organ Cave. It is the largest cavern in West Virginia, lit by electricity. It being lit for one mile.

The snapper hoppers used by soldiers during the Civil War seems to attract the most attention. About forty of these hoppers and troughs remain there in a remarkable state of preservation; just as the soldiers left them nearly seventy years ago. There are also many beautiful formations to be seen. One, a large pipe organ from which the cave takes its name is very interesting. By striking different notes remarkable sounds of purity and strength may be obtained.

This celebrated cave is three miles south of Roncoverte, one-half mile from Seneca Trail on good road, and eleven miles from White Sulphur. The drive from White Sulphur is one of the most picturesque of the Blue Hills. Many tourists have picnics on the cave grounds. Tables and benches have been provided by the owner for the convenience of tourists.

WITH STATE POLICE

Official Returns From Trip of Inspection Requested by the Governor

Conditions at state police posts and methods used in enforcing the state laws are satisfactory. Harry L. Brooks, chief of the state department of public safety, said recently upon his return from a two week's inspection trip through the northern and eastern portions of the state. The trip was made at the request of Governor Conley.

Chief Brooks visited 18 counties of the state where, on the trip, conferred with sheriffs, members of county courts, other law enforcement officials and prominent men of the counties cooperating for suggestions as to how the work could be improved.

Particular attention was paid to the work at Shinnston, one of the largest and considered one of the most efficiently operated posts in the state. There he met Captain Hobart A. Brown, a charge of company A and the two officers have visited stations at Charles Town, Elkins, Berkeley Springs, Keizer, Keywood, Buckhannon, Martinsburg, Petersburg and Romney. At Shinnston they abolished the company mess in the interests of economy and suggested other changes. He was particularly impressed with the department motor repair shop maintained at the town. All of the department's automobiles and motor cycles are repaired there.

Chief Brooks praised conditions in the eastern panhandle and the spirit of cooperation with which he was received.

OBITUARY

Charles Mearle Arbogast

Funeral services for Charles Mearle Arbogast aged thirty whose death occurred Tuesday morning April 2, 1928, following an attack of diphtheria, was held at 2 o'clock at his father, Dr. P. D. Arbogast, 100 University avenue, Thursday afternoon at two o'clock. The Rev. Dr. W. L. Brunk, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, conducted the rites. Temporarily the body was placed in East View Grave Mausoleum and later was interred in the family plot in Mount Liberty cemetery, Clinton District.

Mr. Arbogast was taken ill two weeks previous to his death but it was not until two days before he died that his condition was considered alarming. Death occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. W. Clark, 100 Jefferson street, North East where Mr. Arbogast roomed.

He is survived by his father and step mother, four brothers, Harry, Hoyt, Holt, and Garret of Morgantown, and one sister, Mrs. L. E. Frazier of Bridgeport, Connecticut. One step sister, Miss Viola McLaughlin, also survives.

Mr. Arbogast was born at Charlottesville, the son of P. D. and Helma Harner Arbogast. At an early age he moved with his parents to Dublin, W. Va. but in 1916 the family came to Morgantown and it was in this city that he spent most of his boyhood days, where he gained great popularity with his youthful companions. He attended Morgantown high school until the United States entered the World war when he enlisted in Company L, local National Guard unit. After a period of training at Camp Shelby he was sent to France, armistice was signed. Returning home, he was one of the first ex-service men to take the oath as a member of the West Virginia department of public safety, with which organization he served with honor until he was discharged with the rank of sergeant. Since that time he had been employed at the Sabraton plant of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, where he was also employed just prior to his enlistment in the army.

Mr Arbogast was active in local religious circles and held membership in the Business Men's Bible Class. At various times he had conducted services at the Scott's Run Mission church and had also assisted the local Salvation Army leader — Morgantown Post.

Green Hill Climbers 4-H Club members are starting on their illustrated booklets and their project circulars. This is supposed to be the last of the series under the title of the Hilarious Road. It is because I that I got stalled on that road and have not been able to get off of it since. There are at least two reasons for this. The first is that it is a popular dish especially with the aged and the other is that there is nothing else in the house to eat before the family. A large turkey in a small family usually appears in hash and if I have to eat turkey I prefer it in hash, for many cookings disguise the reptilian nature of the dish. And if it should hereafter appear that something else is offered on this subject it will be because the goods expected did not come.

I have a little book that I hope to publish sometime about birds. In it I have devoted the space to evidences of intelligence in birds, a phase of the subject which has been wonderfully neglected. I have a indefinite feeling that birds are the wisest of all animals and the most accomplished. They have even learned to speak human language and that is something that no other animal has ever done with the single exception of the donkey which Balaam heard. The bird is the oddest land animal. At first four footed like the rest of the reptiles they developed their front feet into wings and were able to escape their enemies in the air. Nothing else in the way of land animals has been able to do this. They have never been able to fly.

I sometimes wonder if they are not too near humans to be eaten as food.

with the one that came to Winchester, Virginia, there married Mary Frye and branched off from the rest of the family and settled at Mill Point during the Revolution. This was Valentine Cackley. He built the first mill at Mill Point. The place was first called Cackleytown but gradually took on the name of Mill Point. It was at a place where the swift flowing waters of Stramping Creek could be used for power. Valentine Cackley was the rich man of the community. He had a flour mill, a tilt hammer, a saw mill, a tannery, a store, and great farms. His house was where Lanty McNeel lives and where the fort was. It was to this fort that the Bridger boys were brought when they had been shot to death by the Indians in Bridgers Gap three miles north of this place. I have been trying to get a line on Sir Eric Geddes and the Huntersville road as so many insist that he was about here in the eighties or nineties. I cannot be absolutely sure, but I think I remember him being at my about here in the eighties or nineties. I cannot be absolutely sure, but I think I remember him being at my Uncle Andy McLaughlin's on the Huntersville road somewhere about 1890. I base this on the numerous reports that he showed up in this part of West Virginia, and on the strength of my identification of a photograph of the days of his prime. If I recollect aright he was a huge young fellow lumbering along with a still bigger Englishman.

There are some of the details of his American experience printed after he became England's right hand man in the Great war. Geddes is Scotch and was born in India in 1872. In 1889 he came to America and landed in New York. He traveled in the steerage. He left home against his father's wishes and when he left his father gave him a check for fifteen pounds to be used when he got home sick for a passage home from New York. His first job was in New

Red and not figure out whether this was the place that he worked first in West Virginia or where he got in charge of the station. And I cannot locate Nicolette in West Virginia. At the last station he worked on he had a chance to study train dispatching and telegraphy under a young woman operator and when she married and resigned her job Geddes was put in charge of the station. This is where he lived in an abandoned freight car. Later he left the railroad and worked in the woods. Probably on the waters of Gauley River. Later still he was in Alabama. After four years in America, in 1893, he went to Australia. That was about the time that Chalmondelay and Borden went there from this part of West Virginia.

He stopped there riding sheep range for a year, and then went to India.

It was in India that he got his chance. He found that some light constructed railway was to be built in the woods. You know about how

A true Elkhorn horse in the country I was very natural for him to make a unilateral trade and ride off on the good horse and leave the other in its place. And there had been a lot of good rides taken. It seems some times that the confederates fought with federal arms. Owens came on over Elk Mountain by way of Blaine flats and when he got to Martins Bottom, he made inquiries and found that William Smith was not there. That is correct. He was not in this neighborhood at any time so far as I

The first of these is the fact that the government has been unable to raise the necessary funds to meet its obligations.
 This has been due to a combination of factors, including a decline in foreign aid and a reduction in domestic savings. The second factor is the government's failure to implement effective economic reforms. This has led to a stagnating economy and a loss of confidence in the government.
 The third factor is the government's excessive borrowing from foreign sources. This has led to a massive foreign debt and a loss of control over the country's economic future.
 The fourth factor is the government's failure to address the needs of the population. This has led to widespread poverty and a loss of faith in the government. The fifth factor is the government's failure to maintain law and order. This has led to a state of chaos and a loss of control over the country.

The first Sunday School in Huntington was organized in 1823 by a man from North Carolina, who came here for his health. This was over one hundred years ago.

The first community meeting was held in Huntington on April 14, 1915 and 15 of this year. Some one will speak of this community meeting one hundred years from now. If the results of this meeting are as far reaching as I feel they ought to be there were good talks by Rev Roy Hestinger and others; the ladies with their good dinner and fine music. A great get together on Sunday. It should be a great help to all of us.

It is recognized that the homes of America are falling in training the children in righteousness.

The churches through the Sunday School are making an effort to reach the young people of the nation and mold their characters during the plastic days to the end that they may become useful Christian citizens and in their turn carry forward the work of the church and state.

School are making an effort to reach the young people of the nation and to mold their characters during the plastic days to the end that they may become useful Christian citizens and in their turn carry forward the work of the church and state.

The Sunday School with its schedule of one hour each week cannot make sufficient impression upon the lives of the red blooded youth of the land. It has been found necessary to give more time to religious instruction if youth is to be molded in Christian citizenship.

The community meetings have come into existence in response to a clearly felt need. It is proving to be an effective agency in extending the religious educational program of the churches.

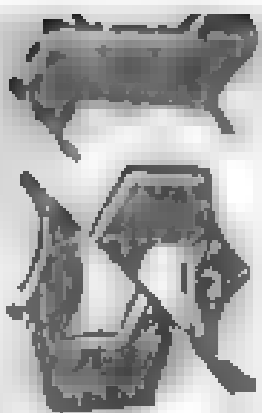

Roger Balson, a national business leader, says the need of the hour is not more factories or more materials; not more railroads or steamships; not more armies or navies, but rather more education based on the plain teachings of Jesus. The prosperity of our country depends on the motives of our people. These

Chautauqua Guarantors Expect Program to Put Chautauqua Over-the-top

The guarantors who bring the Chautauqua to Marlinton each year are busy over the prospects of having a good attendance at Chautauqua this year. The program when the Redpath Bureau brings to this city this season is said to be the best to be found on any circuit in the country, and for that reason the guarantors believe a large enough crowd will be drawn to put the thing over the top.

Following is a list of the guarantors:

Miss Mabel Osborne, who was her sister's only attendant, was attired in a frock of periwinkle blue chiffon, trimmed in silver, and wore silver slippers and hose. She carried a shower bouquet of varied colored sweet peas. Mr J R McCure attended Mr. Johnson as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Frame home. Mrs D M Faulkner, a sister of the groom, invited the guests into the dining room. White satin ribbons extended from the chandelier to the four corners of the table, in the center of which was the wedding cake, surrounded with sweet peas, while white candles in silver holders burned at each corner of the table.

SWINE EXHIBIT

With Mr. McClintic, superintendent of the Swine Department of the Pocahontas County Fair, wants to give notice to all that now is the right time to begin preparing the pigs and hogs of the Greenbrier Valley for the best exhibit of swine that the Pocahontas Fair has ever had.

The hog industry is a very considerable item of wealth of our people, and it should be a greater one. We do not yet begin to take care of the local markets for pork and pork products. Some of our own product at the Fair will awake this interest if anything will.

There is room for a lot more pigs in Pocahontas county. While we may not be able to compete with the corn belt in the production of pork for the great packing houses, there is always a demand at a profitable price for young pigs and shoats and for country cured hams and bacon, lard and sausage.

The Pocahontas Fair has always had a creditable showing of good hogs and Mr. McClintic and the other fair officers are anxious that this year's pig show will excel all others.

DAIRY BUSINESS

Not seeing anything in your paper or elsewhere, I will give you a few items from the home town dairy business

We see farmers bringing butter to town and selling it for 20 and 25 cents a pound. Why not keep the cream and get 40 cents. I think the farmer would give this a trial. It makes no difference whether we have but one family cow or whether we have three or four farm cows to furnish the family with milk and butter and sell what we don't use.

First test your cow and see if she is a paying cow. It takes just as much to keep a poor cow as it does to keep a good one. What we want is the most and best milk, the most and best cream, the most and best milk and the most and best profit.
Milk that tests 5 per cent per gallon at butter fat selling at 45ct would be worth per gallon 11 6ct, and a cow tests 7 per cent and butter fat selling for 45ct per gallon would be worth 12 6ct, we can see the difference in a good cow and a bad cow.

I will give a record of two cows for the month of June. One cow made 117 1/2 lbs. milk and gross $7 04—less profit $1 47. The other cow for the month of making for the will be less. In five weeks averaged $13 20 gross and gross $8 50 total profit $4 70.

I think more farmers should get into the dairy business. I think with good cows it is profitable.

THE CREAM BUSINESS

In one week recently no less than three farmers came to this editor to inquire if I knew of anyone who would buy the butter they had brought to town. Each of them had a bucket of as fine yellow country butter as anyone could wish to eat. There was no sale for it. The stores had more butter than would supply the demand, and the price was down. Many of the householders of town have a standing contract the year round for a certain number of pounds of butter each week at a fixed price per pound. Shipping butter has not proved satisfactory. Such being the situation there is poor encouragement toward developing the butter making industry as a farm home industry.

A number of progressive farmers have been shipping sour cream. The start was made two years ago. So satisfactory and profitable has it proven that the number of shippers is growing each week. The price received for unchurned butter fat is usually more per pound than butter is for and the demand for it is unlimited. Last week the price was 45 cents a pound net to the farmer, less twenty-five cents a cow handling charge by the local farmer's cooperative warehouse. If preferred the farmer can deal direct with the Last week the price was 45 cents a pound net to the farmer, less twenty-five cents a cow handling charge by the local farmer's cooperative warehouse. If preferred the farmer can deal direct with the creamery and save this twenty-five cent charge.

There is a farmer who lives near Warrington who has four cows, and his weekly cream check is from ten to twelve dollars. He ships two cans of cream a week. If he made this cream into butter he would not realize as much money for it and there would be the trouble of churning and butter fying and then the item of selling it in a market already over supplied.

Another thing, shipping cream will bring the local butter market up. It is a club in the hands of the farmer if he chooses to take advantage of it. When butter is scarce, the demand brings up the price.

will bring the local butter market up. It is a club in the hands of the farmer if he chooses to take advantage of it. When butter is scarce, the demand brings up the price.

Many a Pocahontas county farmer has moved away to a community where they produce and sell milk and cream. Others have said that if some good angel would put in a creamery plant here they would go into the milk and cream business. The truth of the matter is that we have already a better market for cream than if we had an expensive creamery plant, with heavy overhead, making out a miserable existence until there were cows in the county to supply a sufficient volume of milk to make a creamery a profitable venture.

The conclusion of the matter is that the output of butter is fixed by the strength and willingness and opportunity of the women folks to make butter and the demand for it by local market often over supplied. The output of cream is fixed by the number of cows the farm will support and the willingness to milk; the demand for cream is increasing all the time.

Mr. M. S. Woods and aged and highly respected citizen of the vicinity of Jacob died suddenly in the early morning of June 18, 1928 aged 80 years and two days, having been born in Clay county, June 16, 1848. In early manhood he came to this neighborhood and worked and wed, Mrs. Jennett Morrison the only daughter and child of David and Polly Deering Morrison. To this union two children were born, both dying in early infancy. Mrs. Wood preceded him in death, lacking but two days of seven months and to the passing of Mr. Woods that family and the family of David Morrison became extinct. He leaves one sister Mrs. Moffett Cutlip of Keokuk one brother, L. Wood of Loversidge, Greenbrier County and one or two brothers in Clay county, with a wide circle of relatives, neighbors and friends to mourn the loss of a friend. Mr. Woods was an honest, industrious man and had accumulated quite a good property and a good home. He and his wife contributed to the support of both the churches near them and entertained the pastors of same. Mr. Woods never recognized himself as a member of either church but talked to interested persons of having made the necessary prepara-

THE NICKLE CAME BACK

An outlandish argument advanced by those who advocate spending your dollars at home, is that they are likely to come back, whereas dollars spent away from home never return. It seems that a nickle spent at home likewise has this habit of returning to its spender. Mrs. Veneta Lally, of Mabton, Wash., carved her initials on a five cent piece before spending it for an ice cream soda. Inside of two weeks she received the nickle in change. She made a little notch in the rim of the coin this time and spent it again. Two months later she again received the nickle from a bank. She added another notch and again spent the nickle.

It was in 1918 that Mrs. Bailey spent the nickle the last time. She had forgotten all about it, but the other day while walking to the railway station, she saw a nickle lying on the sidewalk and picked it up. It bore her initials and had the two notches in the rim. She has her own nickle back again.

It is hardly possible to avoid having the money returned to you if it is spent in your own community. It is only when it is carried away and spent for necessities, comforts or luxuries that you should kiss it good-bye forever. - Petersburg Index.

W. Gorrell, of St. Marys, is in Pechontas County as the State Organizer of the Junior Order American Mechanics. He is also visiting the parents of his wife, Mr. and Mrs.
 Ellis N. Bussard, of Knapps Creek.
 Mr. Gorrell is not a stranger in Pocahontas county by any means. From 1910 to 1918 he was in the employ of the Warn Lumber Company. In the latter year he received a broken back in an accident on the Warn log train. His injuries were thought to be fatal, but he fought his way back to health. His legs are helpless, but he is making his own way in the world, nevertheless. In traveling over the State organizing Mechanic lodges Mr. Gorrell travels in his own car. He cannot drive it of course but he hires drivers as he goes from town to town. About the towns he goes in a wheeled chair, which he propels by means of a couple of cranks. In his home town he fills the office of sergeant and collector of taxes.

Robert Oleson, aged about twenty years, was before Squire Smith Tuesday morning, on a charge of forgery. He had signed McKinley Waugh's name on a $20 check and passed it at Roman's store, and John McKoy's name to a $15 check and had it cashed at Harvey's restaurant. Oleson was sent to the Lewisburg jail to await the action of the grandjury. He came here with the carnival to the Fair. He claims to hail from New York City.

Frank Kellison had his left leg broken above the ankle at the Marlin Lumber Co. mill Saturday evening. A large piece of timber fell on a truck on his leg. He is at the Coal Valley Hospital, Montgomery.

Randolph Citizens Ask Commission To Complete 50 Mile Gap on Trail

Efforts to have the Seneca Trail completed have revived, with George Ward, Mill Creek banker, taking the lead in insisting that the trail should be completed and that it is useless to have a road virtually completed at each end, with a fifty-mile gap in the middle such as is now to be found between Valley Bend and Marlinton. The trouble appears to have been that the State Road Commission has spent so much of its money in some of the large counties of southern West Virginia that there has been nothing but the mere county allotment in some other counties.

It is pointed out by Mr. Ward that "The road extends from Red House to Wheeling and each end of it is in need of completion. It is impossible to travel over a road with its ends and no middle, and that is where you are called upon to cross the gap."

From Valley Bend, in Randolph county, to Marlinton within Marion county, is a fifty mile gap of grade without a foot of surface. It is a tremendous gap when you consider the total length of the trail, and the grading of it was completed only last year.

The result is not what the effort caused for," continues Mr. Ward, "because it is not a through road at all and can never begin to render the service that it should and would render as a completed unit for tourists and long distance traffic, as well as for local travel."

The Seneca Trail is probably one of the most important in the state but there is probably a longer gap in it than in any other state road so that the road can be used only during half of the year, so that both through and local traffic is halted during a part of the year.

From the best information obtainable no money is to be expended upon the Seneca Trail in Randolph county this year and it is that fact which is giving Randolph people considerable concern. They are unable to learn of the proposed expenditure of any money in Randolph county this year and it is one of the few counties in the state that is without a hard surfaced road to no less than four different county seats—those of Pendleton, Upshur, Pocahontas and Webster so that many Randolph people feel that they have received less than perhaps any other county of the state especially in view of the fact that it is the largest county in the state.—

Banana Employed by the Serpent in Eden?

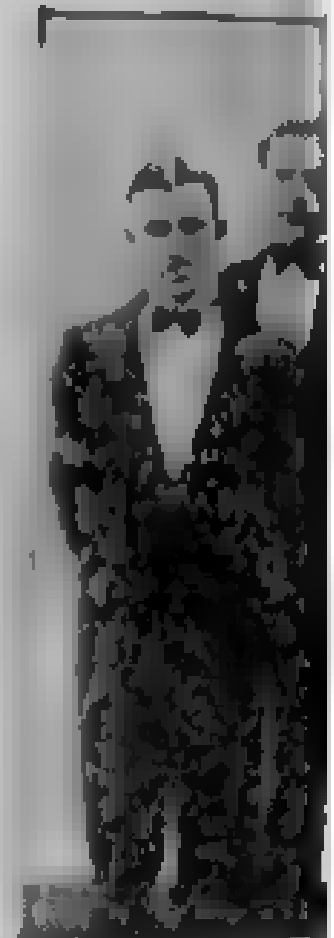

"Early inhabitants of the East believed that the banana plant was the source of good and evil and that the serpent which tempted Eve ate a bunch of the fruit as well as Adam. T. Pope of the Hawaii Experiment Station of the United States Department of Agriculture

Undoubtedly the second oldest of the enter composites was designated two species of the plant as Paradisiacum (fruit of paradise) and Musa sapientum (fruit of knowledge). The common name "banana" was adopted from the language of an African Congo tribe, and first came into use during the sixteenth century. Prior to that time the fruit was called "apple of paradise" and "Agave tree."

The name "mango" seems to have been borne for a long period by the fruit, which was eaten raw. The term "plantain" was given to a variety which, though closely related to the banana, is edible only after being cooked.

The generic name "Musa" for the banana group was bestowed by the botanist Linnaeus in honor of Antonius Musa, a learned physician of the early Roman empire. Chicago Journal.

FINED FOR SHOOTING

James Robinson, colored, was tried in Justice A. E. Smith's court on Tuesday morning on a charge of shooting in the public highway, and was fined $20.00 and costs. Robinson went out on Swago Monday in search of groundhogs. As he was stomping around in the road, close to some dwellings, he spied one and took several cracks at him. Game Protector Clarence Tyree happened to be in the vicinity, and immediately put Robinson under arrest for violating the state law prohibiting shooting in or close a public highway.

28 CANDIDATES REPORT FOR HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

With but sixteen working days until the first test of strength, the Friday District High School football team, under the guidance of Paul Lord, coach, started practice yesterday, and will undergo ten workouts on the new school athletic field.

Monday, with the opening of school Coach Lord called the candidates together and talked things over. Twenty-eight reported. It is thought that a crack team can be picked from this number.

This year promises to yield one of the best teams from Friday District High School to have ever graced the gridiron. Thirteen "old timers" are in the lineup. Five of this number played on the first team last year, and eight played on the second team.

Those listed as "old-timers" are: Randolph Kenney, Glen Shinnaberry, Reed McNeill, Roscoe Dilley, Layman Davis, Edwin Coyner, Sam Neel, Ralph Hebb, Fred Wilson, Everett Herold, Jr., Hilbert Hayslett, Chas. Miles and Jim Wilson.

Among the fifteen new candidates who have lined up for trial, there is to be found some better material plied by Fred Guthrie, of Cedar Rapids. In an effort to turn a sharp, in pulling road hit the rear of the car, but as he got out of the car, the car was broken wind of the left running completely and wheel broken, clear out of spring.

Among the fifteen new candidates who have lined up for trial there is to be found some hefty material, Coach Lord states.

The opener this year will be with Hillsboro at Hillsboro on September 29th.

Although the schedule is not yet completed, four other stiff games, Anstead, Ronceverte, Alderson and Rainelle have been contracted.

Coach Lord arrived in Marlinton
Friday from the Spears-Henderson coaching school of D. & E. In this school he fattened himself on good coaching ideas. During the next few days the local football machine will be given strenuous tryouts on the latest in football playing, and it is thought that they will grasp enough of it before the season opens to cause opponents to find "tough sledding" in each clash.

I have always appreciated the power of the press, more especially the 'country' press," said Mr. [Name]. "The home papers carry the news, and are read from coast to coast by those whose first interest is in home affairs. They reach the people and constitute a powerful influence of public sentiment."

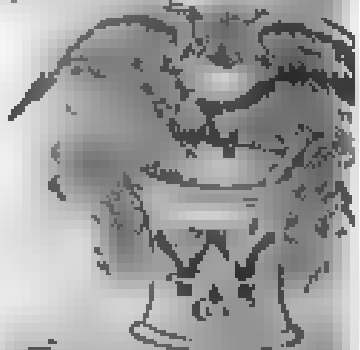

"A wonderful factor for good in the country newspaper; worthy of the pride and support of those at home and abroad of commerce and industry to those who would sell their goods to our people. President T. L. Turner in his annual address to you described its importance in these words:

"Out yonder stands a locomotive on the railroad track. Everything about it is in order, water in the boiler, coal in the tender, engineer at the throttle; but it can't move. All it lacks is steam. Remove the newspapers from Mississippi, take away the 'steam' and this state would soon be a state of idle people; its credit gone. Weeds would grow in the streets; our farmer would look for pastures newer, manufacturers would depart from us, and our people would see new fields of labor."

The "home town" paper is an integral part of the lives of the people it serves. It has been a tremendous factor in building up an American spirit and consciousness, and in turning public opinion into wise avenues

MRS. LILLIE SPRIGGS DIES

Mrs. Lillie Spriggs, one of Marlinton's most prominent colored women, died Sunday morning at her home off Seneca Trail after a brief illness from typhoid fever.

Mrs. Spriggs was born in Greenbrier county, a daughter of Amos and Harriet Crawford. She was converted in early life and became a member of the Methodist Church, in which she served as a member of the Ladies Aid and Superintendent of the Sunday School. She was also an active member of the Woman's Club.

Mrs. Spriggs is survived by her father, two brothers, two sisters and

She was a mother of whom we can truthfully say that her strength and honor were her clothing. As a counselor she opened her mouth with wisdom and in her tongue was the law of kindness. She looked well to the ways of her household and never ate the bread of idleness. It may be well said "Laud, give her the fruit of her hands and let her works praise her."

He was a party to the exposure of our State funds as he President of the United States and if Mr. Carey was coming to believe that he was telling his family in a Masonic paper which appearing in the rankest publication ever sent through the mails and entirely filled us with lying nonsense of Al Smith and the Democratic party, he should never be caught in such a hard run and sent it to be Governor.

Dear Doctor:-

We are enclosing a script clipped from a news paper which pretty well explains the present day standing of the "Ku-Klux" and also Mr Hoover with reference to the Tea Pot Dome scandal.

We are utterly surprised at the position you are taking against Al Smith, after the way the people here held you up as a faithful Democrat. and to think that you would betray them in the way you have is more than some can imagine, but after seeing how deeply you were absorbed in the bloodstained Ku Klux Klan, it is no wonder. Shinnaberry Suicides at Minnehaha Springs

Iago Shinnaberry, age 26, of Minnehaha Springs, died in the Pocatentas Memorial Hospital, July 19 from a self-inflicted gun-shot wound.

A period of depression and a changed mind culminated in him taking his life at the home of his father, Henry Shinnaberry, at Minnehaha Springs. The act came as a thunderbolt to his relatives and friends. No plausible reason can be assigned to the deed except that a mind steeped in depression and intemperateness, which characterized him being for the past several weeks, suddenly snapped under the strain, destroying all vestigage of reasoning power.

Iago was living on his father's place, about two miles above Pocatenta, on Knapps Creek, and was working at his father's store temperament, which characterized his being for the past several weeks, suddenly snapped under the strain destroying all vestigage of reasoning power.

Page, who was living on his father's farm, about two miles above Minnehaha Spring on Knapps Creek, was visiting at his father's store Thursday. Along in the afternoon he left the store and walked to the house a short distance away. He greeted his mother who was sitting on the porch and continued his way to the second story of the house. Here he secured a 25-20 Winchester rifle, and placing the muzzle against his right side, fired the fatal shot.

It seems as though the rifle pressed so close against his body muffled the report to the extent that his mother sitting on the porch did not hear it. She did, however, hear the noise as his body struck the floor and sensing something wrong investigated the source. Discovering her son mortally wounded, she quickly summoned aid, and as quickly as possible he was rushed to the hospital. But the bullet which had penetrated his side, coursing through the liver, and lodging in the back, had done its work and he passed away about two hours later.

Page was conscious almost to the very end and he never voiced regret for having committed the rash act.

house as his body struck the floor and sensing something wrong investigated the source. Discovering her son mortally wounded she quickly ran to his aid, and as quickly as possible he was rushed to the hospital. But the bullet which had penetrated his side, coursing through the liver and lodging in the back, had done its work and he passed away about two hours later.

Remaining conscious almost to the very end he never voiced regret for having committed the rash act.

Aside from a wife and two children, one girl about six and the other a mere baby, he leaves to mourn his departure his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shinnaberry, four brothers, Harry, Fred and Forrest, at home, and Everett of Denver, Colo.; and one sister, Mrs. Hughes, at Frederick, Md. Also a host of other relatives and friends in the surrounding neighborhood.

Funeral services were held at Minnehaha Springs, Friday, July 20, and interment made on the Shinnaberry farm on Knapps Creek.

INJURED AT SAW MILL

Barney Henry was severely injured at one of the mills of the Mountain Timber Company on Douthards Creek last week. While lifting one end of a switch tie the cant hook slipped and he was thrown on it. Several severe cuts were inflicted about the head and his left arm injured. He was brought to the hospital for treatment.

Mr. Henry is a resident of Bartow. The accident occurred at a camp on Douthards Creek about a mile above Minnehaha Springs.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

Lanty Hogsett, a well known young business man of this town and who has been employed as clerk at the Marlin-Sewell Hotel the past two years was found in his room early Saturday morning, July 21, with a gun shot wound in his breast said to be self inflicted. He was immediately taken to the Pocahontas Memorial hospital where treatment was given and on examination the wound was found not to be as serious as was first thought and barring complications which might set in he is expected to recover.

Henry Poague was also before the Squire charged with operating a motor vehicle upon the state highway while under the influence of liquor. In answer of the charge he plead guilty, and was fined $40.00 and costs and sentenced to 60 days in the county jail.

Lumberport in Harrison County with a population of 1250 is installing a new water system and treatment plant at an estimated cost of $25,000. A. Grafton a new filtration plant costing $140,000 will go into operation on November 1st. This will provide a safe adequate water supply and prevent the recurrence of such a typhoid epidemic as visited the city two years ago. The state health department recently conferred with members of the city council relative to the employment of a competent filter plant superintendent, which was considered of vital importance in the operation of this new and splendidly equipped plant.

To The Pocahontas

Flushing,
Sept. 15, 1928

Mr. Lancaster:

In 1917 Chas Grose and I, boyhood chums, met at the Fair, which was then known as the Horse Show, at Hillsboro, and planned to meet each year at the Fair, but our plans have went wrong as plans will, and while we have each been at the fair since then, we have never been able to get there at the same time, and it has become a habit that the one that gets there writes to the other through the Times.

This year I have made a copy and if you care to use it I would be glad to have you do so.

Both my wife and I had a wonderful visit in old Pocahontas this year, and I look back with much pleasure to the hospitality and Pocahontas hand shakes.

With best personal regards, I am

The programs this year were as a rule better suited to outside conditions than they were last year, and I think that any one who was there will agree that it was the features
"seen" rather than the ones heard, that made the greatest hit, with a few exceptions, one of which was the Colored Chorus. This was about the greatest singing I ever listened to,
and when they let loose on "Hold the Winds" one just sort of wondered what angels singing would sound like. Their singing alone was to me worth the price of a season ticket,
and if they install the microphone and amplifiers next year it is going to be one hundred percent better,
and will make other forms of entertainment possible, but as a whole
I am of the opinion that a program should be planned as far as possible

present conditions.

blue bloods, and every inch of space

provement was especially noticeable. Where last year one saw bare boards in the booths and on tables,
this year many of them were covered with wall paper or crepe, softening and beautifying the exhibits, making the entire building more attractive and colorful and emphasizing the fact that a pretty setting is almost as important as the exhibit itself. The canned goods depart-

"A Mystic Revelation," depicting two youthful lovers in search of an ideal community, visiting Ireland, Holland, Spain, Hawaii and Japan, but finding the ideal right in Pocahontas County, at the Fair—More Acres of Diamonds.

Thursday, and "Milestones" was Huntersville district's leading number, gotten up by Hevner Dilley, Beulah McComb, Mrs. Aaron Sharp, W. A. Hively, Mrs. Elmer Moore, Mrs. Wilson and others, and representing the various steps in the progress of the County's development. Both afternoon and evening programs were lively and full of interest and there was not a dull moment. A typical Huntersville district program.

On Friday it rained a little and did not look like a very good day for Edray District to put on the "Battle of Pt. Pleasant" but Mrs. Anna Hunter proved herself General, and with orders to "Trust in the Lord and keep your powder dry" she rallied her forces, and when evening came the contest was a close one.

Pleasant" but Mrs. Anna Hunter proved herself General, and with orders to "Trust in the Lord and keep your powder dry" she rallied her forces, and when evening came the report was "All present or accounted for" and there was enacted one of the prettiest scenes ever, with the forest, camp fires, square dance, soldiers and battle, and Generals Brill, Herold and Miller were sure dressed up. Our hats off to "General" Hunter.

And now, maybe you think that was all but it was not, for Saturday was County Day and the Logger Reunion. Mr. Wallace donated the grand stand and the band donated their services, and at 10:30 A. M. we met and organized "The White Pine Union" with Capt. Smith President, T. S. McNeel, Sec'y. and Andrew Price, Chairman of the 1929 meeting, it being the plan to meet one day each year at the Fair and keep alive

the friendship of the white pine days. There were about sixty present at the meeting; but by afternoon the number had increased to about eighty and it was a great bunch of men that carried our minds back to the days of "Sweet Marie" and "After the Ball", and I was mighty proud of the chance to stand before them for a few moments that morning, for in their young days they were the best of men, and they have not changed with the passing years. Long live the White Pine Union.

To mention all the interesting things of the week would take too much space as there was something doing every moment. It was all good, each act and feature adding its mite to the making of a banner week. There were of course some outstanding features. The band, under Tom Anderson's leadership, was unusually good. They had harmony, time and the will to please, and were complemented on every hand.

True, it comes in a busy season,
but if one looks forward to, and arranges for the spending of this one week of the year in recreation and pleasures, it can be managed, and is worth to anyone many times more than the time lost. In fact it is not time lost at all, but a week well

1. The first part of the document is a letter from the President of the United States to the Congress, dated January 1, 1861. It is a formal communication, and it is written in a very formal and dignified style. The President begins by addressing the Congress, and then he proceeds to discuss the state of the Union. He mentions the progress of the country, and he also mentions the challenges that the country is facing. He ends the letter by expressing his confidence in the Congress, and he signs the letter with his name.

Geo. Sharp's Position In Race For Governor As Seen By The Mail

Secretary of State, George W. Sharp, sits up the gubernatorial bee buzzing around his head and is said to be considering it as a serious matter. It is said that of late he has acquired some new backing coming from the southern end of the state. A report which seems to have been well founded is to the effect that a meeting was held somewhere in "the southern end" during the last 10 days, at which Judge J. W. Maxwell, of Berkeley was present. Later on it is said, Judge Maxwell saw Mr. Sharp and told him that he had been selected as the candidate for governor by a "strong group." Mr. Sharp, it is said, replied that he would decide later whether he could accept.

If Mr. Sharp declined to accept the backing offered by Judge Maxwell, so the story goes, the same backing would go to former Supreme Court Judge J. A. Meredith, of Fairmont.

This was the first time Mr. Meredith's name has been mentioned prominently in connection with the governorship.

Another story going the rounds is that if Mr. Sharp decides not to become a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, he will offer himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination as auditor.

While there is doubt about who will run for this or that office, numerous candidates are springing up for them.

Hefner Fined For

Beating Baxter Up

Quite an interesting trial was held in Justice A. E. Smith's court Thursday afternoon as a result of a fight which took place between Melvin Hefner and John Baxter at Stillwell early in the week.

According to the testimony, Hefner's children and Baxter's children had been having some trouble on the way to and from school. They had been rocking each other and flinging back and forth nasty remarks. The parents took it up. So one night when Baxter was returning home, Hefner was lying in wait for him at the lower end of the lumberyard at Stillwell. He attacked him and a fight ensued in which Baxter charged Hefner with using a pair of steel knucks. In the trial there was not enough evidence produced to sustain this charge, but a verdict was rendered demanding that Hefner pay a fine of $25.00 and costs. Upon failing to pay the fine and costs he was committed to jail until such time and costs were paid, but his friends were with him, and rallied to his support, securing the $11.20 necessary to release him from jail, and he went on his way rejoicing.

Huntersville Community Club Holds First Meeting

The first regular meeting of the Huntersville Community Club was held at the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening May 20th.

The prominent speakers of the evening were Judge S. H. Sharp and Attorney Allen Eggar. Their talks centered around "Community Spirit and Neighborliness", which if each citizen would follow, every Community would prosper.

Bethel and Huntersville 4-H Clubs stunts were put on with enthusiasm by the members and were much enjoyed by all.

The folks of Cummings Creek and Beaver Creek responded gladly and entertained with their musical talent and we hope that we may soon again hear these good folks sing.

It was a great pleasure to all those who gave their time and talent and helped make the program a success.

We hope to have these interesting programs each month and hope to have a good attendance at each meeting.

We were so glad to see so many from the Mainhatch Community and hope they will attend regularly.

Our next meeting will be June 27. Watch for further announcement.

COUNTY CONFERENCE

Pocahontas has had a County Life Conference. It began Sunday night at the Methodist Church. Rev. L. Riggleman of the Extension Division of the West Virginia University, was the speaker. Conferences were held Monday and Tuesday afternoons. Representatives from Hillsboro, Greenbank, Huntersville, Dunmore, the Kiwanis Club, Woman's Club, Community Club, County Hospital, and four H. C. Clubs of Marlinton were present and gave reports of their group organizations, their objectives, and the progress made the past year.

These conferences in the afternoon were informal and were splendid. We only wish we could have had a larger group to hear the reports. After the group discussions, Rev. L. Riggleman gave a brief summary of some community objectives for the county. One of these being to develop the "Tag Brother" idea with some neighboring group that is not organized and that does not have community and community activities. Several agreed to carry this idea out for the year. The Monday afternoon conference was held in the Presbyterian church and everyone enjoyed it. The program for Tuesday was in the Methodist Church.

BOY ON TRAIN IS STRUCK BY STRAY BULLET FROM RIFLE

Kernut Foe, a lad of 12 years was the reciprocant of a stray rifle bullet Friday, when the lad crossed through the train window, striking him in the right breast leaving a flesh wound.

Foe was going from Cass to Anthony and as the train passed near Thorny Creek a rifle barked and the bullet found lodging in his body. His wound is not considered serious.

Futile efforts have been made to determine who fired the shot but it is thought that the person who was using the weapon promiscuously did not fire intentionally at the passing train. Judging from the direction from which the bullet came, it has been concluded that whomsoever fired the shot, fired at a mark, and the ball struck a tree and glanced in the direction of the train.

Young Foe was taken off the train here and taken to the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital where he received medical attention.

Two hours after the shooting Benny Waugh was placed under arrest. When arrested he claimed that he was shooting at a hawk with a twenty two rifle. He was brought to Marlinton and placed under bond. The hearing will be held in Justice A. E. Smith's Court on August 24th.

THE NECESSITY OF GOOD SANITATION

A large number of our citizens assembled at Marvin Chapel Church Sunday, July 15th for community singing; at which time and place Hon. John D. Sutton, Chairman of the Droop Mountain Battlefield State Commission was invited to address the people. Mr. Sutton's subject was the necessity of good sanitation from every viewpoint. He handled the subject in a fine way and his address was well received by the people. Mr. Sutton had many strong points showing that neither town nor community can be sanitary without a good water system.

The new State Park is one of some grandeur and is reached by fine roads from all sections. The State road passing through the park is on the Seneca Trail, thus making it of historic interest in itself.

In order to make the Little Levels in which Hillsboro is situated more sanitary we must have a good water system. Mr. Sutton says one or more large artesian wells will supply Hillsboro and the entire community with an abundant supply of water. The people should give this due consideration.

He is enraptured of scenic grandeur and he is a traveler who appreciates the sublimity of the mountains.

On Droop Mountain he is entranced with the grandeur of the landscape and the mind soothed by the masses of the mountains.

The Grandeur of the country is a beautiful sight and the waters clear and silver and

In order to make the little level in which Hillsboro is situated more sanitary we must have a good water system. Mr. Sutton says one or more large artesian wells will supply Hillsboro and the entire community with an abundant supply of water. The people should give this due consideration for Hillsboro will be the "mecca" for the thousands of tourists who will visit this famous historic Battlefield Park.

Hillsboro is just four miles south of the Park. Its altitude is 2300 feet above sea level and no more beautiful spot can be found in our country for summer homes and tourists camps. Safe water will be the cry of the tourists.

The State Health Department recently issued information for the benefit of the traveler regarding the safe water supplies of the state. The careful check up on the public water supplies by the sanitary engineers has resulted in the placing along the main highways signs reading "Safe Drinking Water, West Virginia State Health Department".

Dear Editor:

I would like to correct the mistakes
which I read in your paper last week.

There was no little girl kidnapped
from my home. My brother, Sam Alderman's little boy came up amiss while at my home. We all suppose he took him but I want everyone to understand that I did not have any hand in it and knew nothing at all about it. Neither was Mr. and Mrs.
Landis invited to my home at that time but phoned over and said that they were coming. Although I have invited them to my home and they have been at my home more than once. Neither was Mr. Kellison on the North Fork, when the little boy disappeared. He was at church with his wife and family.

BIG CROWD CELEBRATES THE FOURTH ON DROOP

On last Wednesday July 4 the Droop Mountain Battlefield State Park was dedicated in due form Governor Howard M. Gore received it for the people of the State of West Virginia from Hon. John D. Sutton, chairman of the legislative commission. This commission was appointed at the last session of the Legislature to buy the battle site for a State Park, as a memorial for all time of the men who fought in the greatest battle of the Civil War, on West Virginia soil.

The crowd is estimated at ten thousand people. While the greater number of those present were from Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, there were many people from other West Virginia counties and the adjoining State of Virginia. great historical interest. It overhangs the beautiful Little Leve's region of Pocahontas county, and to the east are the forest clad ranges paralleling the main Alleghenies, with the waters of the Greenbrier showing in a few places; to the west and a thousand feet higher are the rich Back Allegheny Mountains. There are few views that surpass the outlook from Droop Mountain.

In the Park are a few fields, but the most of the area is woodland. Some of the undergrowth is being cut away, and soon it will be about the most pleasant spot in the whole Greenbrier Valley.

The positions of the various units of the opposing armies have been marked. Forge
For
The battle of Droop Mountain was the most important engagement in West Virginia in the war between the States. It marked the decline of Confederate strength in the mountains. The date of the battle was November 6, 1863. This was a battle between West Virginians. In some instances brother against brother in the opposing armies. In the Union army there was one regiment of Pennsylvania, the 14th and the 28th Ohio Infantry, but the brunt of the fighting was done by the 2nd, 3rd and 10th West Virginia Regiments. In the Confederate army were the 19th, 20th, 22nd and 14th Virginia regiments, which were all composed of West Virginians. The Confederate
commanders were General W. L.
Jackson and General Echols. The 20th, 22nd and 11th Virginia regiments which were all composed of West Virginians. The Confederate commanders were General W. L. Jackson and General Echols. The Union commander was General W. W. Averell, a military genius of the Civil War, second to Stonewall Jackson.

The Confederates occupied the mountain, guarding the river road to Greenbrier county, but leaving the Caesar Mountain side unguarded. The Union Army was camped in the Levels. General Averell made a feint against the front of Droop Mountain, and he sent three or more regiments around the end of Caesar and attacked the unguarded flank of the Confederates. Here took place one of the hardest fights of the war. The Confederates broke and made their escape by the way of Lewisburg, passing through that town by a matter of minutes before General Duffie could cut them off with an army he was bringing up over the Midland Trail.

The sudden death of John P. Moss, on Sunday, July 1, came as a shock to his many friends and relatives. Mr.
Moss had apparently been enjoying good health and his death was quite unexpected. He was found in his shortly after noon. He probably had sat down for a nap as was his cuswaking. Byers Moss was just start-notified of his death.

Mr. Moss was in his 71st year. He was born in Braxton county Feb. 17, was spent in Pocahontas county. Mr.

KILLS BIG RATTLESNAKE

Joe Symes killed a very large rattlesnake on Spice Run last Friday. Mr. Symes has been practically deaf for many years, but when the rattlesnake sounded his alarm, he heard as well as ever he did. Had he not heard, he would have stepped on the snake, which was the largest of its kind. Returning his walk he saw an immense blacksnake, which he killed. The latter was estimated to be seven feet long and the blacksnake five feet. Mr. Symes was in Mountain on Saturday, and his hearing appeared to be still pretty good.

Echoes From The Legislature

Dr. Geo. F. Hall, a member of the House, seems to have met with a measure of defeat during the past few days in his efforts to amend the country doctor bill presented by Delegate W. F. Crow of Marshall County.

He also took a decided stand against the Hallahan bill granting an annual pension of $6,000 to judges of the state supreme court, and stated in his speech before the House, that our taxpayers were already overburdened at the present time.

As we see it, he was right, and it is rather too bad that a few more of his constituents could not have been of the same opinion.

A judge of the state supreme court draws a salary touching the $10,000 mark, and out of this income he should be able to make sufficiently safe investments during his period of service to insure the comfort of himself and family, after his retirement at 65 years of age.

To quote Dr. Hall, "the state owes no man a living who is able bodied," and we might add that the fostering of bills of this nature, encourages a tendency toward parasitical growths on the finances of our state

The Airplane Arrives

The citizens of Marlinton, who think that the airplane may be in common use in the distant future are wrong. Recent figures show a rapid growth which indicates that the use of the airplane will become general much quicker than anticipated at this time.

According to figures of the Department of Commerce, there are more than 5600 airplanes in use today, not to mention those used by Federal agencies, and almost 20,000 miles of airways in operation. Moreover, 1,324 airports and landing fields exist at this time and almost another thousand are in the proposal state. There are 368 municipal landing fields included in his number but it does not include more than 4,000 fields, owned by various holders, up-

The latest development is the formation of finance companies to handle the sale of planes on a part payment plan. It would seem to the non-expert that the airplane industry has reached a certain point of stability when such companies come into existence. This is further indicated by the estimate of the Department of Commerce that 10,000 planes will be built in the United States during 1929.

It has been a long time since any thing has been said about the snow of woods, so far fear we will say, but we will proceed to say a few things.

In the first place there has not been much to write about it, and we do not like to write unless we can give something of interest.

So far we have had a very fine winter. To date there has not been any snow of any consequence. However at this writing it is snowing, and prospects are good for a considerable snow.

Lumber hauling has been the chief industry in this section for a considerable time, and it looks as though it was going to continue.

O. D. WARWICK DEAD

O. D. Warwick died at the Hospital at Montgomery on March 30, 1926. For a number of years he had been in failing health from ulcers of the stomach. His age was 67 years, having been born at Valley Center, Virginia, on December 22, 1858.

On last Thursday his body was buried at Mt. View Cemetery, the funeral being conducted from the Methodist church in the presence of a large congregation, by his pastor, Rev. S. R. Neel, assisted by Rev. H. H. Orr.

Mr. Warwick was the son of the late Peter H. Warwick and Caroline Matheny Warwick. Of his father's family there remain his two brothers, Forrest and Jesse Warwick.

On June 23, 1893, Mr. Warwick married Miss Annie May Carter. She and their three children survive him; Gladys, now Mrs. E. M. Baker, of Wheeling; Marjorie, now Mrs. R. W. Howard, of Sharpsburg, and Jewell, at home.

BATTLE OF DUNCAN'S LANE

As I understand it, the Duncan Lane fight was just above where Wm Gilmer, Jr., now lives, it being the Henry Duncan place; have heard it told that the Federals tried to rally behind the barn. The names as I recollect them were Walt Allen, Sam Young, C. C. Silva, Moffett Rogers, Jas. L. Rogers, John Armstrong, John E. Adkison, Bernard Sharp. The last four mentioned were wounded—Sharp fatally.

I do not recall ever having heard election mentioned in connection with the scrap at Duncan's Lane. It seems to have occurred later in the season than May.

Dancing and wild all the evening.

One of our old time fiddlers has gone. Edn Hammond used to rouse the spirits of the deep in the old days. There is a belief that the wilderness produces the best fiddlers. Many years in the depths of the forests enables an artistic soul to interpret the rustling of the leaves, the song of the birds, and the ripple of the stream and weave them to music. Hammond composed and his masterpiece, "Hannah Gutting Fish," we had with use for years on a record of a phonograph. It was complete even to the beating of the foot of the fiddler on the floor. It was soothing. It told of the home in the forest, and in the still of a summer's evening. The return of the master of the house with a goodly catch of mountain trout which he gave to his devoted wife Hannah tenderly places her babe in its crib to slumber and takes the fish and goes tripping to the side of a mountain brook, and there fights the black black

It is a beautiful conception.

The other day at the armory, Senator Chilton was called upon to make an address. Among his many accomplishments, is a love and an understanding of the fiddle. He did not play in the contest for the reason that his journal had sponsored the meet, and in that way he was barred from the pleasure of participating with the other artists.

Years ago I heard a story about Senator Chilton's fiddling. A long way from Charleston, on Elk River, there lived an old mountaineer who had a recollection of the keen pleasure he had experienced from hearing the Senator play. He looked on

Years ago I heard a story about Senator Chilton's fiddling. A long way from Charleston, on Elk River, there lived an old mountaineer who had a recollection of the keen pleasure he had experienced from hearing the Senator play. He looked forward to hearing him again, but the slow years slipped by so fast, that his feet were standing on the brink. But when he heard that the Senator was coming into his county, and he gathered his clan about him and told them that he wanted to hear the Senator play the fiddle once more before he died. His people understood and the Senator was communicated with and accepted the invitation to play. But when he tried to go to the old man's house, Elk river was in flood. There was no boat, and no bridge, and no way to get over. Then the Senator came down to the edge of the river on one side and the old man was brought to the other side, and there across the gentleman of Spanish birth and go on "Aces, do si do." It seems that his first card dealt turned down was an ace and his next card was another ace turned up. Thus he had his aces "back to back," the highest possible hand to go with.

Now if that is not what do si do means, find out for yourselves.

Fiddling was not only a question of skill but endurance. A fiddler added greatly to the joys of the young persons, but the amusement was not only frowned upon by the great majority of the best and most powerful persons, but absolutely forbidden the children. Thou shalt not dance, was an added commandment. The way it worked as a rule was that it was thoroughly impressed upon the child say of five or six years of age. He must never dance. That and the alternative of hell-fire took strong hold upon his imagination, and he pursued the noiseless tenor of his way, until he became hazy with youth. Then he would fall and trip the light fantastic too and find great sport in some fine, mountain girl, and when they had children, they would tel-them about the time they were five and six years old that under no circumstances must they ever dance.

Under this good old plan the mountains raised the best men and women the world ever saw, and it is to be hoped that there is enough of the iron left in the present hectic generation to save us after the days of this cataclysm have passed, and reason has resumed her sway.

Sinful as it may be, wicked and worldly, and sad beyond conception
it is only honest to say that I wished the other day that I could meet with a couple of dozen other youngsters on a smooth floor, with one of those old stand for it. Grandpa must behave.

I am sure the fiddler would have enjoyed it more for there in that great room he was like a lamb in a large place. It took more than a fiddle string to fill that aching void.

The perpetual motion of a good bow arm in the old days, was one of the long distance tests. Along about the sixth hour of the dance, the fiddler would take time out for refreshments. This was about two o'clock in the morning, and the shank of the evening. At this time he would probably get a surreptitious drink or two,
and the bucks would make him up his purse. Being thus refreshed, encouraged, and strengthened he was able to furnish music for the dance

that the fiddle music is the of dancing. That king of instruments, the piano, be it played ever so cunningly, could not furnish the wild abandon to a mountain dance. I can remember occasions when the fiddler was absent, that the piano was substituted, and it was like church music and the danced bogged down and quit. But let the fiddle speak and bright eyed beauties respond.
There is something haunting and compelling about it. No wonder that the pulpit thundered against the insidious temptations of the devil's own instrument the fiddle, and the innocent young lads and lassies hardly knew what to do, with the fiddle tugging at their heart strings, and

It was very hard in the old days to find among the staid householders of the mountains, homes that would countenance the dance. One of the great drawbacks was that it meant an all night affair, and there would be no sleep for anyone in the house.

This gave rise to the platform dance.
A plank floor was laid in the shade of the trees and there the dances were held, but that had its draw backs. Chaperone it ever so carefully, there remained an outlaw element who would insist on bringing jugs to the picnic, and the surgeon would say it in stitches. The old time doctor sewed some of the finest seams you ever saw as a result of parties of this kind. They say in the city, that certain lawless youths carry something on the hip. They ought to have seen the full bellied jug of the old days.

That fiddle music the other night carried me back. The boys and girls were taking it with a rather bored look. But I could see old fellows standing on tip-toes and trying to get a fill of the music, and getting along about as well as if they were eating thin soup with a splinter. I felt like saying to the old boys to

Here is one solution of the craze for fiddle music. For something near a hundred years it was the only music known on the Western Waters. It stands to reason that none of the larger instruments could be imported to the log houses of the wilderness. That was to come later. They could not pack them in. The fiddle could come in adding only a few ounces weight, and if one was not brought with the frying pan, the axe, and the sugar, and the rifle gun, and the knife, then one could be made out of the native woods without trouble.

There has been much said about the Cremona violins, and the immense price that they bring today.

weight, and if one was not brought with the frying pan, the axe, and the auger, and the rifle gun, and the knife, then one could be made out of the native woods without trouble.

There has been much said about the Cremona violins, and the immense price that they bring today. But it takes a more discriminating ear than mine to sense their superiority over the ancient fiddle whittled out with a pocket knife on the head of Bitter Creek. At Cremona in Italy, the fiddles made by some of the neighbors have attained a great reputation, and they are favorite themes for song and story in modern times. At Cremona, the Amati, Stradivari, Guarneri, and Ruggieri families, all fine old Italian hands, could make good fiddles, and they sell at a fortune now. The older the better. They have been at it over three hundred years.

Filippo Molwag, of Erbacon, in the adjoining county of Webster, went to the market the other day carrying his prize fiddle. He took a taxicab. Got out of the cab and forgot his fiddle. He discovered his loss and was wild about it. It was a Cremona. A Stradivarius, worth twenty thousand dollars. I know this to be true for I saw it in the paper. He had to play on a borrowed fiddle. After the big show was over, the priceless fiddle was discovered in a pawnshop, where it had been put up for fifty cents by some old timer crazy to get money to attend the fiddler's concert.

I can remember plenty of cases where organs and pianos were carried to people's houses slung on great poles. There is no question about the universal longing for music with a Kentuckian's exception. The boys and girls in the mountains found in the fiddle the highest expression of melody and it had a strange and fascinating effect upon them, which was thoroughly well understood by their spiritual advisers.
The Scotch intellect controlled.
While it is said that Oliver Cromwell had a fiddle, on investigation, it seems that the facts are these. That once when Oliver Cromwell was at a castle, that in a hidden apartment
from which no sound could issue, was a noble fugitive who played tunes on a fiddle unbeknownst to old Ironsides, and after the restoration, he went by the name of Oliver's fiddler.

ians guarded by a savage race had

For more than a hundred years the hardwood forests of the Appa'ach-ians guarded by a savage race had stopped the advance of the Christian people. It remained for the Scotch to conquer it and to bring about the formation of a republic.

At that time these immigrants had been raised in a faith that taught that everything that was pleasant was sinful. It was wrong to laugh.
It was wrong to write poetry. It was a sin to visit a friend on Sunday.
While it was right to bathe, to swim for pleasure was sinful. It was a sin to travel on Sunday, even to cross a river that was rising. It was a sin for a tavern keeper to entertain as a guest a Roman Catholic. It was a sin to shave on Sunday. The list of things that were prohibited includes almost everything that is encouraged now, except possibly that whiskey was classed as a food at that time. And use. These laws were not the secular laws of the land, were far more binding. The Church took over the control of the country. Organized legislative bodies, later to furnish the initiative in America for the most powerful of all nations. The Church, and I speak of the Presbyterian church, had power of imprisonment, to impose fines, to whip, or to brand with a hot iron. Doing penance before the congregation was one of the usual ways of getting right with the Church.

To even listen to music was prohibited, much less to make music. There could be no music in the churches, and not even at weddings was it permitted. A special act was passed making it an offense punishable with a fine and such further punishment as the session saw fit to have music at weddings. See register of the Presbytery of Glasgow and other records.

ter of the Presbytery of Glasgow and other records.

Dancing was especially prohibited and condemned and singers were to be put in prison.

At the same time down about London way, for instance, there was another set that was headed towards Fiddler's Green, a particular enclosure of the Elysian fields, where there is to be perpetual mirth, a fiddle that never ceases to untiring dancers, plenty of grog and unlimited tobacco. This section assigned especially to sailors.

The only fiddle known in Scotland was the Caledonian Cremona, a name for the itch, so called from the scratching movement evoked.

It was in the plan of life that these two elements were to meet in the New World, and to form a race known as the American, to which we are all proud to belong. We are surely the children of immigrants, it was the plan of life that these two elements were to meet in the New World, and to form a race known as the American, to which we are all proud to belong. We are surely the children of immigrants, though now that the word is abhorred.

Then came the fiddle and desire and duty conflicted, but both played their parts. It resulted in a civilization that with all its faults is the best that the world has yet seen.

Gradually the instrumental instruments found their way into the church building, though I do not recall having seen a fiddle in church. And the new fangled dances have dispensed with the fiddle. The hope of the land hug each other to fixed music.

THE FIRST SETTLER IN HILLSBORO

A Biography of John McNeel

By Elizabeth C. Sheet

John McNeel was born in Frederick county, Virginia, in 1745, and passed much of his early life in Cumberland, Maryland.

Mr. McNeel seemed to be fond of athletics and in a contest his antagonist was badly injured. To avoid arrest and trial for murder he fled and followed the trend of the Alleghenies. A long while was spent in the wilderness without much food, causing suffering of the mind and the shape his body was in cannot be imagined by any of us. Finally going deeper and deeper into the Wilderness, he came at last in view of the Levels in 1765.

The place was covered mostly with trees surrounded by large mountains. This seemed like home to Mr. McNeel and he decided to settle here. He chose a place to build his cabin near the present home owned by Neel and he decided to settle here. He chose a place to build his cabin near the present home owned by Hon. M. J. McNeel. Traces of his cabin have been seen by many people yet living, between the gate and the public road and his residence. If this spot could be traced, it would be well to mark it with a piece of marble gotten close by to show that he was the first settler in Little Levels District.

Here Mr. McNeel prayed over his guilt and prayed with a broken heart, and hunted for food, subsisting mostly on venison and trout.

One day while hunting he met Charles and Edward Kennison from his old home, who had come here prospecting for a situation. From these men he learned that the man he had been boxing with was not killed and not even seriously hurt. This was indeed good news to him, because he felt free from all bloody stains.

In a few years the Dunmore war opened up. McNeel and the two Kennisons went into camp at Lewisburg and joined the expedition at Point Pleasant, October 10, 1774. They went across the Eastern mountain and enlisted in same company that went from Frederick county, served through the Revolution and then took up the peaceful trend of their lives where they had left off.

is one who on the people that Mr Hill should represent them there, he will occupy a place of power and influence. He is a leading lawyer of this valley and this state, and a fine speaker.

Professor Wilson, of the University, was doing field work in Pocahontas county last week. His message was to urge the shepherds to take better care of their sheep by treating for stomach worms, and to prepare their lambs for market in a workmanship manner by docking and castrating. From now on the market for undocked and buck lambs is going to be less than for lambs properly cared for. If the market is high everything goes at a good price, but if the supply is greater than the demand then the undocked, and buck lambs will be marked down in price.

In talking about the road, the citizens directly effected are pointing out that the hazardous condition diverts through traffic from the Linwood and Mingo sections in another direction, causing them to have to go twenty miles out of the way to get to Cass. This, they say, is the shortest route to Cass, and as that town draws from these sections, the road should be improved sufficiently to allow traffic to go through that way without any great amount of difficulty.

STEALING CAR TO SEE GIRL LANDS LAD IN CO. JAIL

George Miller Finds that Love Wins
a Way—But Sometimes a Few Guys Is Being Held for Theft of Buick Which Ran Out of Gas

There is a way—and you know it—might make him
and a law which might be the night another night a in jail. You can never tell what a man who is in love might do. It affects his judgment. One will refuse to do anything which he might have done. He might have his place in the world. Love is a double-edged sword.

But it makes no difference what the law is. Mr. Miller now has a Buick which he has not taken to the garage where it was too far away from the garage and was not getting the proper care. Mr.
Miller had a Buick which he had taken to the garage. He had to see his girl. At last that is what he said he stole it for.

George Miller, son of Jerry Miller, is being held in the county jail here awaiting the action of the grand jury on some part of a charge preferred against him for doing the thing he did. Whether it will be breaking and entering, theft, or "having a late date" will be determined when the grand jury meets.

Inquiry of the theft of the car was made early Sunday morning when a man passing the garage found the door standing wide open,
and in his curiosity he entered where he saw some person might be, entered and found no one.
He called the garage proprietor and an investigation revealed the missing car. Then further investigation it was found that the person who stepped in the night had removed a Buick which was in, and had a Buick which was in before and one which was of steel. As he was in the inside,
was easy enough for him to make a get away.

Friday every one attended giving them their best job and some chicken sandwiches, and they were all very happy. In the evening there was a hearing of the case. Mr. Miller had a Buick which he had taken to the garage. He had to see his girl. At last that is what he said he stole it for.

Theodore Carr Pays Penalty Friday; Faces Gallows With Steady Nerve

Theodore Carr was hanged at the state prison, Friday, June 14 for the slaying of Lock Sharp on October 30, 1929. In contrast to demeanor while in the death house, when he appeared unnerved he walked coolly to the gallows and paid the penalty. The trap was sprung at 8:55 and he was pronounced dead nine and one half minutes later.

Carr was the last man to be executed when asked if he had any statement to make before the trap was sprung. He had been praying throughout the day with Rev. W. C. Herold, prison chaplain, who accompanied him on his death walk. He walked the fifteen feet from the death cell to the execution chamber unassisted.

The body was claimed by his son, Cecil Carr, and was shipped to Clawson, this county Sunday. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the home of Carr's mother, Mrs. K. V. Bowen, pastor of the Marion Presbyterian church.

At the prison a number of men were present to witness the execution. Carr was accompanied by two brothers, John and William Carr.

Carr had been in the prison since

Wednesday by Dr. J. V. Guthrie, superintendent of the state hospital. In his report the Dr. said, 'Carr is somewhat depressed but he is not insane and is the sane and quantity of his acts and the difference between right and wrong.'

Appeals from the decision of the Porthontas county court were denied by the state supreme court and a petition for executive clemency was denied by Governor Wm. G. Conley.

The shooting occurred on the Carr property. Carr had become involved in financial difficulties and had become separated from his wife. The property had been sold under court order and had been bid in by the wife although she had yet received confirmation by the court. Max Carr, Sharp, her son and Unah Bud a surveyor were on the farm for the purpose of laying out a tract of land which had contracted to sell to Sharp when Carr appeared armed with a shot gun.

Without a word, the evidence showed, Carr went close to Sharp who was driving a stake in the ground and shot him through the heart. Young Howdyshell started to "Goodbye" was the last word uttered when asked if he had any statement to make before the trap was sprung. He had been praying throughout the day with Rev. W. C. H. The body was claimed by his son Cecil Carr, and was shipped to Clawson, this county Sunday. The funeral was held Monday afternoon by Rev. K. V. Bowen, pastor of the Marlinton Presbyterian Church.

At the invitation of Warden L. M. Robinson, twenty persons were present but none witnessed the execution.

The condemned man's last hours were spent with his son, two brothers and the prison chaplain.

Carr Pays Penalty Friday; Gallows With Steady Nerve

As reported at the criminal examination Wednesday by the doctor for the Dr. L. V. Guthrie, superintendent of the state hospital. In his report the Dr. said, "Carr is somewhat depressed but he is not insane and understands the nature and quality of his acts and the difference between right and wrong."

Appeals from the decision of the Pocatentas county court were denied by the state supreme court and a petition for executive clemency was denied by Governor Wm. G. Conley.

The shooting occurred on the Carr property. Carr had become involved in financial difficulties and had also become separated from his wife. The property had been sold under a chamber court order and had been bid in by the wife although the sale yet required confirmation by the court.

Mrs. Carr, Sharp, her son and Uriah Rad, a surveyor, were on the farm for the purpose of laying out a tract the woman had contracted to sell to Sharp when Carr appeared armed with a shot gun.

run and two shots were fired at him, both missing. Still without a word Carr turned around and started up the hill toward his boarding house. At the same time Mrs. Carr began running away in an opposite direction and this attracted Carr's attention. He pursued her and Mrs. Carr stopped and awaited her husband's approach. They had a few words and the shot gun again became an instrument of death. Leaving the body of his wife in the field Carr walked up the hill meeting his daughter on the way. She asked about her mother.

Plead Temporary Insanity

Temporary insanity resulting from brooding over his financial and marital troubles formed the basis of Carr's defense. The attorneys contended that Carr became obsessed with the idea that Sharp was endeavoring to ruin his wife in her actions toward him and that the two of them were the victims of a conspiracy.

At the drawing for the Ford car at the Wilbur Sharp pool room, which took place several weeks ago, the numbers were drawn for the prize but failed to show up. JOHN BRADSHAW

The Address of Prof. G. D. M. Noel at the Grave of John Bradshaw
at Huntersville, May 18, 1920

We are come today to set a marker at a tomb, and by the act of assembling here in a reverent sort of way, do whatever of honor we may do to the memory of John Bradshaw, soldier of the Revolution. We do not honor John Bradshaw because of the name he bore, but because of his achievements. Since we deem his deeds meritorious, it seems fitting that upon this occasion we refresh our minds somewhat in matters pertaining to his history.

John Bradshaw was born in 1750, February 2nd. His birth place is unknown. Tradition has it that he was born in England. If this is true he was brought to America in his infancy for it is rather well established that the Bradshaws were established in the Colony of Virginia in 1700. The original Bradshaw plantation was some fifteen miles from what is now McDowell, Virginia. It was then in Augusta county, but the location is now within the borders of Highland and very near the Pendleton county line.

Young Bradshaw appears to have spent his boyhood on this plantation. At the outbreak of the Revolution in April 1775,

John Bradshaw was born on 1 January 1759. His father is known to be a "Trinitarian" as it is said he was born in England. It was as though he was brought to America in his infancy, for it is related well established that the Bradshaws were established in the Colony of Virginia in 1750. The original Bradshaw plantation was some fifteen miles from what is now McDowell, Virginia. It was then in Augusta county, but the location is now within the borders of Highmant and very near the Pendleton county line.

Young Bradshaw appears to have spent his boyhood on this plantation. At the outbreak of the Revolution in April, 1775, he was sixteen years of age. With the landing of the British invaders upon the Atlantic coast the able bodied, fighting men were hurried to the seaboard. This movement left the western border of Virginia exposed to the attack of the savage tribes dwelling beyond the Ohio. The killing of Cornstalk at Point Pleasant in 1777 aggravated the situation and the Virginia frontier found itself scourged by tomahawk and flame. To afford protection against these savage attacks, companies of border scouts were organized. The savages did not frequent this Allegheny region in winter, so these border rangers were required to serve from April until November.

commanded by Colonel Henderson, Captain John McCoy and Captain Lewis. Much of the time while he was engaged in this scout duty he was stationed at Cook's Fort, which was located on Indian Creek, Monroe County. From Bradshaw's deposition we learn that the scouts went out from the fort by twos and remained away four days. Under the scout oath required they were obligated to fight no fires, by day or by night, no matter what the weather. On one occasion he pursued a band of marauding Indians out of Pendleton and across the upper waters of the Greenbrier. Again he was with a company sent against the Indians in the neighborhood of Backhannon and Clarksburg. He was stationed at Warm Springs for a time.

It appears that Bradshaw did no military service in 1780. The explanation of this may be that he had just married Nancy McNamie and young Bradshaw devoted the year 1780 to the erection of a new log house on the South Branch plantation.

But in the very first days of January, 1781, Bradshaw entered the regiment. He was stationed at the winter quarters of the army at Muddy Run where he was in one month.

In December he was sent to northward and the Army went to the Pendleton area. On March 1781 he captured the House of Representatives. He was not detailed to handle the turning of the army and on April 15, 1781, he was ready to fight himself between the British and the Greenbrier. Carolina.

In order that we may better understand the portent of this enlistment,
I shall, at the risk of being tedious, review briefly one or two phases of the Revolution.

With the surrender of Burgoyne at Saratoga in the autumn of 1777, the British abandoned hope of conquering the northern colonies, and it was determined to shift the war to the south where many of the inhabitants were loyal to the British Crown. In accordance with this plan a British fleet and army captured Savannah, Georgia, in 1778. In the course of the military operations of 1778-79-80
Georgia and South Carolina were almost completely subdued. In the autumn of 1780 the British determined to inaugurate an extensive campaign early in 1781. By this plan, Lord Cornwallis, then commanding
the British forces in the South was to move northward through North Carolina and Virginia. He expected to accordance with this plan a British fleet and army captured Savannah in Georgia, in 1778. In the course of the military operations of 1778-79-80 Georgia and South Carolina were almost completely subdued. In the autumn of 1780 the British determined to inaugurate an extensive campaign early in 1781. By this plan, Lord Cornwallis, then commanding the British forces in the South was to move northward through North Carolina and Virginia. He expected to drive the American army ahead of him so that when he had subjugated North Carolina and Virginia the British would be in complete control of the country from the Chesapeake Bay, southward. In order to prevent the Virginians from advancing southward to oppose the march of Cornwallis, a British army commanded by the traitor, Benedict Arnold, invaded Virginia in the very first days of the year, 1781. Arnold advanced upon Richmond, captured the city and plundered it, then devastated the country on every hand.

of the country from the Chesapeake Bay, southward. In order to prevent the Virginians from advancing southward to oppose the march of Cornwallis, a British army commanded by the traitor, Benedict Arnold, invaded Virginia in the very first days of the year, 1781. Arnold advanced upon Richmond, captured the city and plundered it, then devastated the country on every hand. The Virginians rallied hurried in defense of their homes and Arnold was forced to retreat to Portsmouth.

You will understand now the significance of the statements contained in the Bradshaw depositions. Bear in mind will you that Arnold was raiding in the vicinity of Richmond in January, 1781.

This Bradshaw's statement made under oath:

Deposition of May 7th: 1833:

Cornwallis immediately began a series of raids. On one occasion Tarleton with his dragoons moved in this direction as far as Charlottesville and even threatened Staunton and the South Branch region. I read again from the Bradshaw deposition:

That he again entered the service in the later part of the summer of the same year, 1781, that he again marched through Rock Fish Gap, thence to a place called Bowling Green, thence by Page's Warehouse, and thence to Little York where

Nancy, daughter of John Bradshaw, married Levi Cackley of Melpont, and the Cackleys of Stamping Creek, are descendants. Margaret Bradshaw married John Gwin of Virginia. This marriage connects the Gwin and certain McLaughlin families with the Bradshaws. Elizabeth Bradshaw married Samuel Hogsett and the Hogsetts of Pocahontas county are Bradshaw descendants.

Now, my friends, while it is very appropriate that we assemble as we have, all must realize how futile, after all, are our efforts at honoring John Bradshaw. John Bradshaw in his lifetime builded his own monument more sublime and more endur-

October day in the very long ago when he stood on the bogland at the mouth of the James and watched the shattered battallions of Cornwallis march by and saw the Stars and Stripes lifted triumphant in the sky, John Bradshaw and thousands of the like of him set a marker that will endure long after this marble we set today has crumbled into dust. He aided in the establishment of a new nation consecrated to the principles of human liberty, and so long as liberty and equality survive upon the earth John Bradshaw shall not want

And while we stand here today above his ashes, we should remind ourselves that the greatest honor we may do him; the greatest honor we may do ourselves, and the greatest blessing we may bequeath to those who come after us must be in our resolution that since he risked his life in order that our flag be lifted on high; we will so live as to keep that flag unsullied, resolve that since he risked so much to establish a government by the people, we will do all that we can to direct the destinies of this Republic that America may ever be the home of the free.

Henry Wright, a prisoner in the jail who was sent here from Cass for possession of moonshine liquor, was taken seriously ill with some intestinal disease and also seems to be affected mentally. He is being treated at the hospital. His home is said to be at Leonard in Greenbrier county, but nothing definite has been learned about his residence or family, if any.

He will probably be committed to the State hospital, if his condition warrants his removal. Any one knowing this man, or any information as to his relatives, kindly communicate with the Sheriff's Office, Marlinton, Pocahontas county, W. Va. He seems to have been chronically sick and for a long time, and bears the scars of several abdominal wounds or operations.

Medicine and equipment by the county are being furnished at Marlinton.

I was talking to Hevener Dilley the other day. He gathered 440 bushels of Green Mountain potatoes from less than two acres of ground. He only got around to spraying this crop two times. He happened to be lucky, and he made a bumper yield. He has a good part of his crop stored, and he can fill orders for ~~local seed~~ of the Green Mountain variety.

I was talking to a farmer who got about a third of his potato acreage drowned out last year. I was talking to a farmer who got about a third of his potato acreage drowned out last year. In spite of that piece of bad luck he marketed over 1200 bushels of number one potatoes; got paid for his work and expense and had a modest profit beside. He told me he entered the depression years in debt. After three crops of potatoes, he owes less than he did four years ago. This man intimated to me, that the thing of greatest value to him in the three years experience as a big time potato planter is the knowledge of potato growing he has stored up in his head to be used in the future.

I have printed it before, but it is worth telling again. Only a year ago this month a discouraged farmer came to town. He had bought good land at the height of the boom. He had worked terribly hard, and banked on cattle. The depression caught him

For more money to take a snuff on potatoes. The two or three thousand bushel crop, cleaned up what was be- hind that farmer; gave him working capital, restored his credit, and gave him a sunshiny outlook on life where all had been clouds before. Natural- ly, it is going to be spuds again with that man the coming season.

The missionary work of Dee Crane the potato specialist of the Extension Department, and John A. Syden- stricker, local business man with a vision, who has not spared time and expense in urging our farmers to learn to grow potatoes, is beginning to bear fruit.

Since I wrote the above, some sci- entific data relating to the potato has come into hand. The first is to the effect that a physician in Den- mark has found that "potatoes are not only excellent food, but is a well as chalk, and is able therefore to cure different forms of gout and rheumatism. It is also a food remedy in the treatment of biliousness and constipation."

Over in the Michigan State College a lady professor says that in comparison with certain other foods the potato is less fattening. Comparing an eight ounce potato with eight ounces of the following, I found:

Macaroni is four times more fattening.

Rice, three and a half times

Oat meal, four times

Pie, three times

Doughnut, two times

Then a good doctor over at Battle Creek Sanitarium, figures out that a pound of baked potato is equivalent in total food value to—1 pound of chicken, 5 ounces of boiled beef, 2 pints of oysters, 4 pints of beef juice, 1 1/2 pints of whole milk, 8 eggs, 4 pounds boiled cabbage, 5 pounds tomatoes.

THE WITCHES OF DROOP

Early in life, I heard about the ghosts, hauntings and witches on Droop Mountain, but I never could recall enough of what I had heard to write a piece about it. That is to say I could not remember the details for a truthful account of the fearful experiences of certain people there about seventy years ago. Last week, my friend Lincoln Cochran was down on Droop and he most kindly brought back the details to me. And here is the truthful report of the actual happenings:

In the year 1865, Betty and Nancy Snedegar, daughters of James C. and Rebecca Kellison Snedegar, lived on the west side of Droop Mountain. They went to the Doucy place, over on the east side of Droop, to gather berries. On their way back they found two guns, and carried them home. These guns had evidently been lost during the battle, which had been fought there in the fall of 1863.

When the girls started to carry off the guns, rocks were thrown at them but they saw no person. After getting home and going out to milk, more rocks and clubs were thrown at them, and they saw the sleeves of army blouses flying in the air. At the house, rocks came down the chimney knocked the lids off of pots and bounced on the floor.

The house was a structure of logs, and rocks came through the walls and hit the occupants. These stones were gathered together and thrown into a sink hole behind the house. This sink is several hundred feet deep, but the same stones would be thrown back into the house.

The dog irons would come from out the fire place and race around over the floor, and then go back to their places again.

Dick and Abe Snedegar, twin boys, six or seven months old, were usually sink is several hundred feet deep, but the same stones would be thrown back into the house.

The dog irons would come from out the fire place and race around over the floor, and then go back to their places again.

Dick and Abe Snedegar, twin boys, six or seven months old, were usually placed on a tanned sheep skin on the floor. This sheep skin would get from under the babies and stand up in the floor and bawl.

The back wall of the chimney would open up, and through the opening could be seen the grass in the back yard.

Samuel C. Kellison, brother of Mrs Snedegar, went to the Snedgar home to investigate the cause of the trouble. A rock came through the wall and hit him on the arm. He cursed and told them to try that again. Just then another stone whizzed by his head, and he decided

The guns were taken to the barn, but the trouble continued. Then they were taken back to the place where they were found, and the trouble stopped.

In those days there was a great deal of trouble with witches. Cows would become bewitched and lose their cuds. The owner would then send for the witch doctor. There grows in the woods a very bitter root. The witch doctor would dig one of these bitter roots and push it down the throat of the bewitched cow. That would drive the witch out.

To keep a witch from entering your home, it is necessary to get a nail from a horse shoe that has been lost off a horse's foot. Drive this nail in your door sill. Mr. Cochran says there is an old house on Droop that has its sill driven so full of these nails, he doubts if there is room to drive another one in.

If a witch comes to your home and asks to borrow something, and you lend it, you are under the power then.

STONY BOTTOM

This community was shocked to receive word of the death of Mr. R. H.
Bailey of this place on last Tuesday, February 13th 1914. Mr. Bailey was born in Riverbend, Va., and was 77 years old. He was one of the oldest residents in this section. He came here at or near the time the C. & O.

home here from that date.

To this union were born six children. Mary Bailey, Mrs. Ruby Mason,

ing and James of Akron, Ohio. Paul,

eral years ago. Funeral services were conducted in the Alexander Memorial Church of this place by his pastor
Rev. Pharr of Cass. Some years ago during reviva services conducted by Mr. Pharr Mr. Bailey joined the Presbyterian church. In all his dealings and transactions among his neighbors and friends, he was always very considerate and fair, being well liked and a useful man. He will be greatly missed in this community.

SISTERS GIVE PROGRAM

Margaret and Frances Brill of Marlinton, senior and freshman college students respectively, presented an interesting chapel program yesterday morning. Both girls proved to be versatile in the field of music, playing the piano and singing vocal solos and duets. Frances also presented the oration with which she won the state prize in the recent state contest.

Frances Brill opened the program playing a group of piano selections, "Two Part Invention," "Three Etudes," Heller, and "Within the Walls of China," Lively.

Margaret who is a soprano soloist, sang "The Answer," Terry; "Lullaby," Scott; and "Fluttering Birds," Mana Zucca.

"A New Kind of Patriotism" was the subject of the oration which Frances presented as the third part of the program.

The piano group played by Margaret for the next offering include "Prelude", Chopin.

Frances, who is a mezzo soprano, sang a group of vocal selections, "Take Joy Home" Bassett, and "An Open Secret", Woodman.

The girls sang for the concluding part of the program, duets entitled, "Starry Night", Donsmore; "Only to Thee", Saint Saeens, and "Fly White Butterfly", Felix White. They were accompanied by Irene Grahnus at the piano for the concluding numbers.—

The Mt. Pleasant Busy Bee 4-H Club held it's meeting at the Mt Pleasant school house February 9th. The meeting was called to order by the president; she read the 8th chapter of Matthew; all stood and repeated the Lord's Prayer. Song, Down in the Valley.

Interested in your notice concerning the camping ground of General Lee at Huntersville I am disposed to add an item or two of information.

As a boy I played often under the 'Lee Tree' on the property mentioned. This was a rather large apple tree at about the center of the lot as it was at that time. The tradition was that Gen. Lee's tent was pitched under or near this tree and that he sat under its shade during the heated hours of the day.

Over in Berkeley County, a prominent citizen got stuck for ten dollars and costs in the justice court. The charge was catching suckers with a d p net in Opequon Creek. The defendant was not so well pleased with the affair, according to the Shepherds town Register. He claims few persons do more to protect game fish and birds than he and his neighbors, who have extensive land holdings along the creek, and who have been to much trouble to care for trout and other game. That they should be arrested and fined for catching a few suckers
from the creek on their own property seems to be going too far. The creek is said to be full of suckers and carp, which are known to destroy the spawn of game fish, and it is believed by many persons that it is a real benefit to take them out. The worst of it is,
since the men were fined the suckers
have been carrying on very impudently, and while crossing the creek the other day several of them deliberately splashed water over Mr. VanMetre with their tails; while one of the boys said that a big carp thumbed his nose at him—that is the fish put one of his fins at the end of his snout
and waved it most contemptuously.

HILLSBORO HIGH FINALS

The Twentieth Commencement of the Little Leves High School was held on Monday night. A fine class of seventeen young ladies and gentlemen were awarded diplomas. These diplomas were presented by H. M. Harr, of Benck, a former principal of the Hillsboro High school. The members of this graduating class are Lucile Arzogast, Lucy Auldridge, Laurel Katherine Bartholomew, Claude Bruffey, Summers Barr, Helen Carlisle, Earl Dorman, Henry Lee Harr, Jr., Wyatt Jones, Merritt Kellison, Cleo McMillon, Virginia Moore, Benjal Pyles, Gladys Rock Noble Shradder, Garnet Wade, Ray Workman.

The address to the graduates was made by Judge George W. McClintie, of Charleston. He chose as the basis of his remarks "The Old Order Changeth." He reviewed the great changes that had come about in almost all the phases of life in the span of years since his childhood days in Peach County. The Judge always makes a speech well worth listening to and well worth taking to heart. But I think he never speaks so

For County Court

In this paper is the announcement of Harper H. Hudson, of the Greenbank District, as a candidate for re-election as Commissioner of the County Court. Mr. Hudson has served faithfully and well in his most important office, and this editor hopes and trusts he will be re-elected.

Greenbank District is one half the population of Pocahontas County and miles of road with it end. Mr. Hudson has always had the interest of his district at heart and at the same time he has ever been faithful and far to the interests of the county as a whole. He is a good road man, and the highways of his district show the good effect of his personal supervision of the work the court has had the means to do. It does not lie in the hand of this editor to even suggest to the Greenbank District whom they should have as their member of the Court, but as a citizen of Pocahontas county and as a member in the Democratic party, I can and will say that we can go farther and fare worse in the way of number of the County Court if Harper H. The pollution of Greenbrier river, which has been the subject of complaints since 1907 when a group of farmers from Lewisburg and vicinity protested to Governor William M. C. Dawson, has been eliminated to a great extent by the state water commission. Plans for the construction by the Pocahontas Tanning company of a modern waste disposal plant at Durbin, at the headwaters of the Greenbrier river, have been approved by the commission, E. S. Tisdale, secretary, said. Wastes from this point, he said, have been responsible for a large part of the river pollution. This plant, officials of the water commission have been advised, will be in operation by July 1.—Greenbrier Independent.

The Allegheny Club

Minnehaha Springs, W. Va. —
The past week has been the record maker of the season, the number of arrivals exceeding that of any previous week since the opening of the Club.

A. S. Yardly, of Columbus, O.
his, was here this week, putting up awnings and screening the entire building with copper wire screens. This has improved the appearance of the building and added a great deal to the comfort of the guests. The front veranda is now the favorite resting place for all the visitors.

Judge A. G. Dayton and party, after a three weeks' stay, left for Phillippi. They expect to return next year and spend their entire vacation here.

Among those who registered
this week are, W. B. Rector, secretary of the Allegheny Sports-

FROM IOWA

Editor Pocahontas Times

About one year since I wrote The Times regarding Uncle H. M. Moore, of Big Rock, Ia., having received a stroke, and while we from time to time entertained hopes for his recovery until July and August of this year. Since then he has failed rapidly in mind and body. However the writer visited him on July 11th at which time he would, periodically, talk as rationally as when in perfect health. Then his memory would become a blank.

Towards the last he suffered a great deal, until August 31st when his voice was stilled in death.

H. M. Moore was born in Pocahontas County, West Virginia, April 8th, 1833. On April 3rd, 1855, he was married to Miss Martha Young in the house now owned and occupied by George C. Moore, on Stony Creek, near Onoto post office, W. Va., where they resided until he erected the log house upon the mountain, just above the residence of the late James Duncan. This same old log house, now the property of W.

above the residence of the late James Duncan. This same old log house, now the property of W. C. Cochran, remains an evidence of pioneer days and a happy home of long ago.

In 1862, during the saddest and most terrific period of the war of 61-65, H. M. Moore, with his wife and their three children, Joseph W., George H. and Sallie, came to Cedar County, Iowa, where they made their home until 1893, when they moved to Big Rock, Scott County, Ia., their present home.

Funeral services from the Big Rock Church, interment being in the old Inland Cemetery, in the presence of a large gathering of people, from far and near.

There remains to mourn his loss his aged wife and their five children, three sons and two daughters. Jos. W. and Geo. H., of Omaha, Nebraska; Mrs Sallie Clements, of Carroll City, Iowa. Andrew E. and Araminta, both single and at home. Six children preceded their father to the grave.

The above is written for the benefit and in the interest of their relatives and friends, especially the older readers of The Times in the two Virginias.

The decision, it is declared by politicians, is a set back for Progressive activities in the state. Three county courts in West Virginia appointed Progressive registerers on the ground that as the Progressives received the largest number of votes in the last general election, they should have preference over the Republicans. The decision was taken to the higher court by the Republicans.

INSTITUTE RESOLUTIONS.

We, the teachers of Pocahontas county in Institute assembled, do this fourth day of September, 1914, adopt the following resolutions.

First, that we believe the school law should be amended, raising the maximum levy of the teacher's fund to 30 cents and the maximum levy of the building fund to 16½ cents.

Second, that we favor the enactment of a law providing for a small state levy for school purposes.

Third, that we favor a law providing for a nominal tax on the coal, oil and gas produced in the state, which tax shall go into the state school fund.

Fourth, that we favor a law making it possible to place a tax upon the water power privileges granted by the state.

Fifth, that we condemn the statute making the County Superintendent the county financial secretary to the various district boards of education, since it interferes greatly with his work as supervisor of schools. We deem it very necessary that he be provided with an office and supplies.

Sixth, that the compulsory school law be so amended as to require the attendance of all children between

Sixth, that the compulsory school law be so amended as to require the attendance of all children between the ages of 8 and 16 for five full days each week, and for the entire school term; provided, a school be in session within three miles of the pupil's home by the nearest traveled road. Punishment for the violation of this law should be so increased as to make the same effective.
Seventh, that we favor a law making the county the unit of taxation and providing for a county board of education to displace the various district boards. The county board of education to be composed of a president elected at large, and a member elected from each magisterial district such members to be elected by the voters of the district which he represents.
Eighth, that we believe the school children of the rural districts will be given better educational advantages by requiring boards of education to consolidate schools where possible.
Ninth, that we commend the idea of the district high school and district supervision to the various boards of education.
Tenth, that we are in sympathy with any legislative movement where

Ninth, that we commend the idea supervision to the various boards of education.

Tenth, that we are in sympathy with any legislative movement whereby the use of tobacco and intoxicants
may be reduced to a minimum.

Eleventh, that we favor the plan of our state superintendent to provide a two years' course in our normal schools for the benefit of the rural teachers.

Twelfth, that we extend our thanks and appreciation to our instructors, Thomas C. Miller and O.

JACOB W. BEARD DEAD

Jacob W. Beard died at his home at Beard Tuesday night, September 8, 1914, after a short illness of typhoid fever, aged about 45 years. His wife is also very low of the same sickness. His body will be buried today in the family lot at the Oak Grove cemetery.

The deceased was one of the more prominent and prosperous citizens of Pocahontas county, and a man who will be greatly missed. He was the eldest son of the late Moffett Beard and is survived by his mother, his wife and several children and a number of brothers and sisters.

O. B. Mann, of Poyges Lane, reports fine success in growing the soy bean as a forage plant. Last spring at corn planting time he sowed an acre of ground in soy beans.

County Clerk C. J. McCarty, who as the reward for six years of hard work in office, got a swift kick from his party last spring, will after the expiration of his term of office conduct the large McNeel flour mill at Millpoint. He is already in charge of the mill and will devote such time as he can spare from his office to keeping the mill running. He did a big day's grinding Wednesday. He is an expert miller and machinist, and a first class blacksmith, and skillful in most every line of work. On the whole, we think that Clerk McCarty will be happier with a different kind of machinery than he has lately been monkeying with.

Travelers passing through the counties on our eastern border on the Virginia side tell us that the road workers on the roads of Bath and Highland counties get their road work in shape much earlier in the year than we. The result is that the winter ruts are obliterated and dirt roads firmly packed and in shape for travel by now. There can be no manner of doubt that dirt roads should be put in shape early in March or April, as this allows the roads to dry and settle uniformly. Working the roads later tends to leave a layer of mud and loose rocks on the hardened road bed, which does not incorporate well with the road, the result continued misery with the travel till well along in the summer. Road contractors should get busy early in the spring to get best results.

TO THE REPUBLICANS OF WEST VIRGINIA

As a candidate for the state ticket that I will be running for the Republican ticket

I want to say to you that I have been most loyal. They are the things that I have bought by money or the promise of a reward. I have no other promise but that every interest I give care to is for the betterment of the state. And this is my only promise.

I want to say to you that I have no personal or community by letter with the large majority of voters. Those who know me best are my staunchest supporters. And those who do not know me I desire to say that my qualifications for the office have not been questioned. I hope to be of some real service to the state. I am making my own fight. I am not slanted with any other candidate for office. I have no political prejudices to gratify and no personal favors to bestow.

I am not making my campaign as a military man. I was an enlisted man in the Spanish-American War. When the World War broke out I resigned as a Lieutenant General of the state and went into France. Many Republicans feel that, other things being equal, I should have a man who was in service on the state ticket.

I ask the support of all Republicans regardless of their choice of candidates for other offices.

Sincerely yours

JOHN C. BOND

The Mountain Lick Lumber Com-

Western Maryland Railroad, two miles north of Durbin, W. Va., on Mountain Lick Run and its tributar-

in compact form, suitable for a fine greater part of the surface is what is known as the Red Shale Formation

This piece of land we have recently

Also one large store building and four other houses (Dwellings).

There is a large amount of Hem-which can be hauled on the old railroad grades to Olive Station, an aver-

Upon the recommendation of Rev. Elmer C. Sloane, the quarterly conference of the Huntersville Circuit M. E. Church, South, at a recent meeting decided that a church should be organized at Minnehaha Springs, that the society on Browns Mountain be merged with the new church. A committee composed of C. P. McElwee, Mrs. Elmer Moore, Mrs. P. A. Rexrode, Mrs G. M. Ervine, Mrs A. P. McLaughlin, John Smith and Otho Gum was appointed to take such steps as they deem wise looking toward the securing of lots and the erection of a suitable church building.

ARBOVALE, W. VA.—Rev. P. W. Arbogast, of Circleville, is visiting his home folks in Greenbank district. Upon his arrival, he found that Squire Aaron A. Sharp was a candidate for the office of Assessor. Mr. Arbogast wishes to say for publication that when men of the type offer for public office they should be encouraged, as he thinks much of the unrest now so prevalent in our country is due to the fact that we oftentimes are not careful as to men we elect to office. For two years Mr. Arbogast served as to the church of which Mr. Sharp is an official member. He recommends him as a man who has always taken an interest in church and community work, and a public officer who has attempted to do his duty without fear or favor.—Political advertisement.

BIG CAR BURNED UP

At about midnight the big Hodson car, known as a Big Six, and was comparatively new, it was probably the best car in the county. It is the same car that was recently driven by Mr. Poe from Baltimore to Maratton in the day between daylight and dark.

Mr. Poe, with a party consisting of Dr. J. W. P. and Mrs. Ann Gibson, and Forrest Gibson, was coming from Elk in the direction of Maratton and had stopped down to the foot of the mountain near Mr. M. S. Sharp's farm, when the car was discovered to be on fire. The machine was under good control at the time it stopped, but in a very short time the whole car was on fire. It was so quickly enveloped in flames that Dr. Price lost his medicine case.

The theory of the ignition is that a leak in the tank caused gas to gather under the hood and that a spark from the electric battery set it on fire. There was twenty-gallons of gas in the car, and the car is a total loss.

The ladies of the M. E. Church South renized nearly a hundred dollars at their dinner at Maratton.

Robert Simmons, chief of police at Durbin, brought down two prisoners for the county jail this week. One was an Italian committed under the name of Sam Girusso, who is charged with having an unusual quantity of liquor in his possession during the month of August, it being shown that he had received eight gallons during that month. He claimed to have drunk it up but that being more than a quart a day the justice did not consider his defense plausible and sent him on to await the action of the grand jury. The other prisoner was George Costalche, a big Austrian, who had been followed from Horton by a man who accused him of stealing his watch. The watch was found and returned to the trailer, but as a razor and a 38 cal. revolver was found upon him, somebody had to go to jail, and the court said let George do it. So he was sent to jail for eight months and required to pay a fine of $100, which will cut in upon the reserve.

It becomes more apparent every day that there was really no cause of war in Europe, and that it is just a case of too much powder lying around loose in the shape of armaments and military and it was either war or a general disarming. There is a pretext for war in the murder of the Austrian Prince. If the United States had intervened in Mexico, that might have been used as the immediate cause, and that would have found us in a predicament, sure enough. And the waters, clear as crystal, Springing from the hills above it Gather there at last together, Forming there a fairy fountain,
Peering down unto the bottom
One sees there a fairy city,
Every little street and alley
Carpeted with strips of mosses,
While above them tower the build-

Buildings of a thousand windows,
On whose silvered domes and turrets

Sunbeams play in summer weather.

Here is about the best hunting tale that has come out of the woods the recent deer hunting season. About the first day of the season, Ressie Wilfong saw a big buck in Marlin Mountain, and he shot at it with a load of buckshot. The deer fell, but got up and went on. It was found that one antler had been broken and there was blood on the ground. About a week later, a deer again ran by Mr.
Wilfong and he killed it. It had a broken antler which the piece the hunter had carried around for a week just fitted. A shot had gone through the deer's ear when his horn was broken.

Raw Furs

Never before have we made greater effort to handle raw furs in large quantities to advantage than we have at the beginning of this season.

Don't be misled by rascals' high quotations. A great number of those who sell out quotations know they can't and won't pay the prices they quote. They call your fur a lower grade in order to get by with it.

We solicit the patronage of large shippers, merchants and all trappers of raw furs. If you have furs caught in season for sale, please write how much you have and what you want for it. If you are not unreasonable we will try and buy it. We feel sure we will give you more for your fur than you can get by shipping it. So hold your fur for us. If we cannot buy it, you have a chance to sell it to some one else. If you ship it, you are not likely to have any more chance to get its worth.

I would like to name a lot of fur companies that send their lists to almost every trapper, to cheat them out of their fur, but I can't publish them. So we are going to do our very best to please you.

If we can't get your fur by giving you an honest grade, we don't want it. Our old customers know us and they know we give them more for their fur. We want new customers.

Yours very respectfully

His many friends wish him success in his profession and new home.

HILLSBORO

Our football team was defeated by the Greenbank Eleven at Greenbank last Saturday, the score was 26-6. Our team scored however, something they had not done this season. Summers Burr carried the ball across by means of bucking the line. Captain Hill made the extra point by putting a drop kick over perfectly. At the end of the third quarter the opponents were almost all in, but Hillsboro was still there. Three of Greenbank's men were knocked out. Quoted by a Greenbank fan: "If Hillsboro was just a little heavier there would be no stopping them." In spite of the fact that a teachers meeting held at Marlinton several attended and backed up the team.

And a letter of August 14, 1755 from Dinwiddie to Col George Washington in regard to the same matter. I particularly would like to see the letter from Col Dinwiddie to Major Andrew Lewis dated September 11, 1755 in regard to the numbers of thirteen settlers at Chambersburg and a few weeks later a letter from Col Dinwiddie to Lieutenant John McNeil in which Dinwiddie expresses surprise at the contents of McNeil's letter to him from which he learns that there were fifty six people in the fort on the 17th of October when the party were killed.

It was in the year 1885 or 1886 that this panther attacked the late Samuel C. Baxter, on the waters of Williams River, leaping on him and his horse, as he was riding near his farm after night fall.

An account of the killing of the panther by Col. Clay is to be found in Theodore Roosevelt's works, in the book entitled "Hunting the Grisly," page 151. In that case Col. Clay owed his opportunity of making the shot to the courtesy of Francis McCoy. When the panther fell from the tree wounded, it seized a hound, and Mr. McCoy, who was one of the strongest men who ever lived, seized and held the panther with his bare hands until a second shot could be given — Editor

Let me know whether or not you have, or have ever seen a copy of Virgil A. Lewis' Report to Governor Dawson dated Oct. 1, 1906, when Lewis was State Historian and Archivist. If you have not you must get a copy of this some how, at once.

I never saw a copy of it until I ran across one of them down here in the Clerk's Office and it straightens out lots of matters for me. One of which is the name Coal River. It seems that this river is properly called Coal River and that it was first found in 1712, by John Peter Salley, who with John Howard and three other persons came to New River from near Natural Bridge, descended it to Richmond Falls, where they crossed to Coal River and went down Coal River to the Ohio, and in their report they state, "In these mountains we find plenty of coal for which we named it Coal River." Later on the stream seems to have been called Cole River for Col. Cole, who was at the mouth of the river, where St. Albans now is, at one time, but the river soon got back to its original name of Coal River.

Appendix No. 1 also gives in full

... now is, at one time, but the river soon got back to its original name of Cole River.

Appendix No 1 also gives in full
the exploring expedition of Thomas Batts, September 1671, who came as far down as Kanawha Falls, which they reached on September 17, 1671.

Also in the appendix he gives the pioneer forts, stockades and block houses in West Virginia, during the periods of the French and Indian Wars and Pontiac's Conspiracy from 1754-1763. He gives none of the forts that we know in Pocahontas, and in his list of the forts, stockades and block houses from 1774-1795 he gives none of the forts in Pocahontas county that I knew. He does, however, give Fort Keckley (32), "A small fort situated in the Little Levels in Academy district, Pocahontas county. It appears to have been erected about the year 1772.
Later it became known as Fort Day,
or John Day's Fort. Still later it

or John Day's Fort. Still later it appears to have been called Fort Price, or Prices' Old Fort. It is doubtless known locally, but the Literature of the Border Wars contains little regarding it."

Fort Warwick (63) is stated to have been in Huttonsville, District, Randolph County, and its builder is named James Warwick. He gives the location of twenty-three forts up to 1774 and from 1774 to 1775 gives the location of sixty nine forts.

GREAT FILM BATTLE

It was a hideous night of carnage! Ronald Coleman and Wyndham Standing were both seriously wounded as the roar of artillery, the whine of shrapnel and the staccatto rattle of machine guns reverberated over the rolling, erstwhile peaceful slopes of the California coast. All night the battle raged.

For George Fitzmaurice and his two vallant armies were staging a reproduction of one of the mightiest battles of the recent war as a sequence of "The Dark Angel", which First National will present at the Seneca theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday. Hundreds of ex dough-boys composed the two armies. With the dawn a truce was declared, the troops discharged and another thrilling ep'sode of this great drama was completed.

 eastern side of the county was black with the white pine timber, and these dark green monarchs of the forest were very much in evidence along the road running from Huntersville to Greenbank. Up to that time there had been but few engines of any kind in Pocahontas county. One or two portable sawmills. The year after that it seems to me that an engine was brought to run the threshing machine in this part of the county,
 though there had been steam thresh-

 Here we threshed with horse power.
 But Smith & Whiting had brought a

The railroad was constructed by laying light rail on stringers and it was a powerful improvement on the horse sides. It was a round little engine, and it was named Jim in honor of the Captain's youngest son then a baby. It was a wonder.

In that November there came a Saturday and we hauled a wagon load of oats to the log camp and got a splendid big feed at the camp, and started home in the latter part of the day, and it was after night when we got in and it was a very dark night. It had been a beautiful day but there had been the haze over the sky, a sure sign of a weather breeder. The next morning it was cold and windy, and snowing to beat the band, and no wood prepared for Sunday. So we

So we harnessed up the team and went around back of the hacking and brought in a load of good dry wood, and the whole family were cautioned and instructed in the gravest manner not to let the word get out that we had done some work on Sunday.

FIRST BEAR BOUNTY

Flord B. Gragg, of Back Allegheny was the first man to claim the $30 bounty on a bear, offered by the county Court of Pocahontas County for every big bear killed between October 1, 1927 and September 30, 1928. On Tuesday, October 4, Mr. Gragg was before County Clerk S. L. Brown with the head and hide of a monster bear to prove up for the bounty.

Mr Gragg lives on the Staunton and Parkersburg turnpike three miles west of the town of Durbin. In the past few weeks he has lost ten head of fine sheep by bears. On last Friday a big bear came off of Cheat and killed and partly ate a sheep. This was within a quarter of a mile of Mr Gragg's residence.

A bear trap was set at the carcass of the sheep; Monday night the bear came back, and he stuck a hind leg in the trap. The bear traveled down the mountain, across the pike, but he had gone less than a half mile when Mr Gragg found him Tuesday morning. When the man came up the bear made at him, but a load of shot ended things. He was an immense creature, weighing around 400 pounds in thin flesh. The fine pet will be made into a rug.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

A Sunday School Rally was held at Marys Chapel on Elk last Sunday, October 2. The morning exercises consisted of Sunday School services. The Superintendent is Mrs. Allie Gibson, and with the cooperation of the teachers, children and people it was a delightful service. A bountiful dinner was spread on the church lawn, and it was greatly enjoyed by a large congregation. In the afternoon a sacred song service was held, with addresses by Sunday School workers. L. D. and Ivan Sharp, Misses Goldie Gay Hannah, Miss Ruble May Hannah and O. W. Kellison led the singing and Charles McGuire was the manager of the round table discussion about Sunday School work. Great praise is due the superintendent of the Elk Sunday School and her co-workers

OPEN SEASON

There seems to be some confusion about the open season for game in Pocahontas county, caused by not reading aright the notice of the State Game Commission published in this paper. First, there will be an open season for deer in Pocahontas and ten other counties, from November 1 to November 10, both dates inclusive. Second, the open season for turkeys in all the countries in the State is the month of November. Third, the open season for ruffed grouse or native pheasant in Pocahontas and ten other counties is from October 15 to November 30, both dates inclusive. In forty four other counties the season is cut down to the month of November. Fourth, turn to page two of this paper and check this statement up with the official notice of the Game Commission.

Dear Andy:

I had no idea when I talked to Sam Stephenson last spring, and later wrote you what he said about seeing a sure enough panther whatever kind that is—headed for Pocahontas in the fall of 1880, that it was going to bring on a this panther de uge that we have had since then.

Now as to Old Red Sandstone. One of the Pocahontas Deans figures conspicuously in history in connection therewith—physical connection. His first name was Abner, and he went west with Jim Bridger. He was a member in good standing (until he sunk to the floor) of Diet Harte's "Society upon the Stainlaus", where you will find him referred to as follows:

"Then Abner Dean, of Angels, raised a point of order, when A chunk of Old Red Sandstone struck him in the abdomen; He smiled a kind of sickly smile and curled upon the floor. And the subsequent proceedings interested him no more."

It is said, on what authority I don't know, that this chunk was thrown by Jim Bridger, and that it was a chunk that he and Abner Dean had taken west with them from Pocahontas and had been used by them to scotch their wagon when needed, all the way from Price Hill to the Rockies, and that it is still some-

On last Wednesday a bear killed a sheep for Withrow McClintic at his home place on Swago. On Thursday morning a hunt was organized. Dick Smith and Reed Moore responded with their packs of well trained bear fighting dogs. The bear was trailed as far as the Barlow Top. The day was then so hot the dogs could trail no further. The sheep have been driven out of the Cranberry and Williams River ranges, and an old sheep eater had come into the settlement for his mess of mutton and then went back to his denning place in the Cranberry wilderness.

GAUJOT-WARWICK

On the evening of Monday September 26, 1927, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Annie Warwick, in Marlinton, Claude Leon Gaujot, of Huntington, and Miss Eula Hill Warwick, of Greenbank, were united in marriage. The officiating minister was Rev. S. R. Neel, pastor of the Marlinton Methodist Church.

The bride is a daughter of Forrest H. and Bertie Nottingham Warwick. She is a bright, promising young lady. For three years she taught at Green Bank, and this year she is teaching the Curry School, near Dunmore. She and Mrs. Gaujot met while she was going to school at Marshall College. Mr. Gaujot is from a well known family of Mingo county; his father was a mining engineer, and the second mayor of the city of Williamson; his mother a Miss Flournoy, of Virginia. He was in the World War, serving over seas in France with the A. E. F. His home is now in Huntington; he is assistant sales manager for the Mingo Paint and Varnish with guns to be absolutely sure what they are shooting at before they shoot. He said to bear down hard on the pencil when I wrote it too. This thing of shooting at every bush that shakes has laid many a good man in his grave and clouded every day of the life of the man who shot too quickly. There will be thousands of people in the woods in this county this year, especially during the time of the open season for deer. Many of them have not been brought up with a gun, and do not realize how dangerous it is. They do not have the wholesome respect for and dread of fire arms that the experienced hunter has. There are a lot of old time hunters who will stay away from their favorite hunting grounds this season because the woods will be full of people ready to shoot at the shake of a leaf. A term in prison or even a life time of regret will not bring back the life or limb of a fellow man. Again let me say to the young and to the inexperienced, save your fire until you see the forks of his horns. If it turns out to be a man you will be glad if it is a deer you will have an opportunity to place your shot and bring down your quarry. Act like an experienced hunter. See what you are shooting at before you shoot.

Being one of the few people now living in Pocahontas County who have any recollection of having met with Col. Clay, I was requested by Andrew Price to tell about it. My father, H. C. Herbert, lived at the Meadows on Williams River from 1874 to September 1878, and it was during these years that I remember seeing Col. Clay. I don't know how many times, but I remember the first time better than any other. One reason for this is that, boy like, I was struck with the beauty of his blue uniform trimmed with gold braid. This was my first knowledge I ever had that soldiers wore clothes different from those in civil life. Another reason was that he carried the first Winchester rifle I ever saw. He cut a block from a curly maple tree on Laurel Creek and took it to the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876. The tree stood on the lower side of the public road, opposite the old mill dam, and was shown to me by my father when I was a small boy. Years later in 1891, Adam Young, Auburn Friel and myself cut the tree and the stump can still be seen. Col. Clay was evidently a man of high mind, an ardent sportsman and a lover of the wilds.

Mrs. Mary Margaret Kimball Friel passed from the Great Beyond on June 2, 1927. She was 37 years of age and is survived by her husband and their five children, Joseph Edward, Leola, Viola, Olive and Audrey; also her father and mother and two brothers. She united with the Brethren church when quite young and passed from this life with the full assurance of a brighter and better world awaiting her just over the border land. Her remains were laid to rest in the Fairview cemetery. Let us cherish the thought that when our life work is ended we will join her in that "better home awaiting in the sky."

The battle of Elkwater was the Civil War battle that was never fought. There was some slaughter but both sides drew back without going on with the great conflict that was staged. Both sides were on the defensive. The federal forces were dug in in Tygarts Valley, Randolph county, below the mouth of the considerable creek called Elkwater, for the purpose of holding the confederates from marching into the northwestern part of West Virginia, and the confederates were entrenched on Middle Mountain to hold the federal army from marching through Marlinton, Huntersville, and Warm Springs, and taking possession of the Virginia Central Railroad at Millboro. the confederates were entrenched on Middle Mountain to hold the federal armies were content to face each other for eights weeks during the summer months of 1861.

Robert E. Lee to the end of the war shone more as a defensive strategist than he did in his offensive movements. In this he was the antithesis of Stonewall Jackson who came down on them like a wolf in the fold. Note Lee's failure in the Gettysburg campaign.

The federal forces were flushed with the victories of Philippi, Rich Mountain and Carrick's Ford. Mc-Clellan had won these and it made

Chester had won these and it made him commander in chief, so he went to Washington to take charge of the far flung battlelines, and left General Reynolds to make a fortified camp at Elkwater, while General Rosecrans marched on to Kanawha.

The road from Marlinton to Elkwater, now called the Seneca Trail is almost due north and south. From Marlinton it is more or less uphill for seven miles until it tops Elk Mountain. Then it descends a short distance to the upper waters of Elk River and follows the Old Field Fork down for about nine miles to the forks, crossing Slaty Fork near its mouth, there to the Big Spring of Elk Fork. The pike follows this stream to the postoffice Linwood, four miles, and then continues north ascending Middle Mountain two miles, then across a head of a hollow about a mile to the top of Valley Mountain, the line between Randolph County and Pocahontas County, and thence about ten miles to the Elkwater fort. It was an important pike at the beginning at the Civil War, being one of the Commonwealth's highways, under the internal improvement schemes that Virginia had engaged in so heavily for thirty-odd years immediately prior to the war.

The country is, and was at that time nearly all cleared and the road lined with fine farms between Marlinton and Elkwater.

The Union army had won signal victories in Randolph and Tucker counties July 11, 12, and 13, 1861, and the news had just time to spread over the nation for a general rejoicing, when on July 21st, the confederates won a big battle at Bull Run and convinced the north that there was serious trouble ahead.

McClelland was ordered to leave some one in command in the mountains and get the war going again.

He arranged to hold the confederates back. The immense size of the ditch and bank at Elkwater is still to be noticed. So it is not surprising to find an order to the effect that this was to be an extra big barrier, as well as the one on Cheat mountain.

McClelland was ordered to leave some one in command in the mountains and get the war going again.

He arranged to hold the confederates back. The immense size of the ditch and bank at Elkwater is still to be noticed. So it is not surprising to find an order to the effect that this was to be an extra big barrier, as well as the one on Cheat mountain. That is evidence enough that the federals did not propose to advance any farther into the enemy's country that summer but would hold what they had won in the northern part of West Virginia and concentrate on driving Wise and Floyd out of the Kanawha Valley.

Keynolds made the fort at Elkwater, and Kimball of the Fourteenth Indiana regiment, made the one at Cheat Summit generally referred to as White Top, where a man by the name of White lived. The Cheat Summit camp was on the Staunton & Parkersburg turnpike and this ter, and Kimball of the Fourteenth Indiana regiment, made the one at Cheat Summit generally referred to as White Top, where a man by the name of White lived. The Cheat Summit camp was on the Staunton & Parkersburg turnpike and this road ran south east from Huttonsville, gradually leaving the pike from that place to Marlinton. Cheat Summit is almost due east from Elkwater where the camp was and a trail led down the mountain making a short cut seven miles long between the two places. The wagon roads around by Huttonsville between the camps covered a distance of eighteen miles.

These camps were formed on or about the 13th or 14th of July. The first troops of the confederates to arrive at Middle Mountain were the 14th Cavalry on July 28th, followed by Col. Stephen Lee, with the Sixth North Carolina regiment. The plan of fortifying Valley Mountain and Middle Mountain was the result of a report made by William Skeen, an attorney of Huntersville, who furnished a map of the country, and who pointed out that the Virginia Central Railway was exposed to an attack at Millboro as much as it was at Staunton' and that the distance by turnpike much less than to Staunton.

In the meantime troops had been pouring into Staunton from all over the south and had been routed by way of Monterey on the Staunton and Parkersburg pike. tion furnished by Skeen was seized upon immediately by Robert E. Lee at Richmond, and he had a good deal of trouble getting the officers at Staunton to cease to send troops by Monterey and to detrain them at Millboro. His preemptory orders finally resulted in long columns of men being marched by the southern route by Warm Springs, Huntersville, Marlinton and Edray. William Skeen was a prominent man in the history of Pocahontas county. He had been clerk of the courts before the war, and then practised law. He was noted for his fine penmanship and his flights of oratory. The Commonwealth was referred to by him as the "virgin daughter of a virgin queen," and he was fighting for the idea of states' rights.

This was the officer who had outranked Robert E. Lee but who took his orders from Lee. But it was not long until Lee himself came to the mountains and took over the command. He arrived at Valley Mountain August 8th, and from that time to September 14th, that was Headquarters of the Forces, that title traveling with Lee from Richmond to the Big Spring.

Here is a list of the headquarters in West Virginia during the wet summer of 1861. Lee was at Valley Mountain from August 8 to August 17; at Meadow Bluff on September 21, and at Sewell Mountain, on October 21. During 1861, all of Robert E. Lee's activities in camp were confined to West Virginia, the rest of the time being spent at Richmond.

At Clarksburg was another West Virginia lawyer who was willing to advise the war department from the federal side. John S. Carlile on Au- gust 15, 1861, wrote to Simeon Cam- erton, secretary of war, for God's sake to send more troops and a gen- eral to command them or they would be whipped in ten days. That four confederate armies were marching on the northwest by Mingo Flats, and that the Mingo Flats road was not guarded. And about this time another dea bushwhacker. By a letter dated July 19, 1861, General H. R. Jackson wrote to headquarters that he had recruited home guards to the number of one hundred and eighty men, and that as all of them had corn to work, he had agreed that if they left eighty of their best riflemen that the rest might return to their crops. These eighty riflemen were familiar with the country and were to "annoy the enemy from the hills and bushes."

So the mountain armies filled the part of September. In the federal camp at Elkwater were two companies from Indiana who were in gray uniform and these men mingled with the confederates in their big camp at Valley Mountain. On Sunday the 8th of September a scouting party got as far as Mingo from the Elkwater and had a skirmish at four o'clock in the morning of the 9th in which they reported having killed fifteen secessionists and wounded as many more. And they learned that a gen-

day and they fell back with the news.

And it is now seen that Lee made a general order to advance dated Sep-

A few weeks ago, I had a chapter on the way the confederate forces got lost in the Cheat River jungles about Cheat Bridge and thereby prevented Lee from having a pitched battle at Elkwater. These troops were from the army at Bartow and they were to pass through the laurel and the hobbleroed in the night time to the south of the camp at Cheat Summit and that after much suffering and many hardships they came straggling back, defeated, weary and discouraged. In studying the evidence that is left of the Elkwater affair, I have found out something more about that lost legion. They attempted to go through the wilderness on the night of the 11th of September. None of the pickets or sentinels of the federal camp on the mountain knew that any

the 12th, three army wagons started from Cheat Summit for supplies, and they rolled into the confederate army about a mile west of the encampment and were captured. The number of confederate soldiers on the pike west and in the rear of the confederates were estimated by the federal officers to be twenty-five hundred men. They took the horses and men and disappeared in thick forest.

From this time on the skirmishing in the big forests of Cheat assumed the character of Indian fighting. Later in the day a company of Indiana troops caught sight of some confederates four miles west of the camp at the summit and had a battle with them, the federal troops remaining in the road and the confederates disappearing in the timber.

It now appears that these Indiana troops had been camped in the dense spruce for full two months and the active young soldiers had nothing better to do than to become thoroughly acquainted with the wonders of such a wilderness. Few of them had ever seen a mountain or a forest

It now appears that these Indiana troops had been camped in the dense spruce for full two months and the active young soldiers had nothing better to do than to become thoroughly acquainted with the wonders of such a wilderness. Few of them had ever seen a mountain or a forest of any great extent before. They had roamed in the mountains hunting and fishing and having as good a time as they could under the circumstances, and in the battle in the woods they had the soldiers who had come from Arkansas and other southern states at a great disadvantage. The object of the confederate flanking movement was to get in behind the Summit camp and take another

About half way between the Valley Mountain camp and Elkwater fort, is the town of Valley Head. This is the point that the Webster county road, the Point Mountain pike, joins the Seneca Trail and the federal forces had been maintaining an advance guard at that point.

The confederate army at this point was about nine thousand strong, and after a battle at the forks of the road at Valley Head, the federals fell back and the confederates did not advance. Along the road which follows the river bottom the land was cleared, but between that strip of settled country and the great Cheat Mountain there is a great stretch of broken wooded country through which many streams flow down from Cheat Mountain.

Along the road which follows the river bottom the land was cleared, but between that strip of settled country and the great Cheat Mountain there is a great stretch of broken wooded country through which many streams flow down from Cheat mountain to the Valley River. Some of these are small runs and others are considerable creeks. At Valley Head, Lee sent three regiments north along the base of Cheat mountain through the woods to join the flanking army that was to cross from Hartow. These regiments marched all day and came to the Staunton & Parkersburg pike to the west of the Summit and cut the telegraph wire between the two federal camps. General Reynolds found by night fall on the 12th, that he was in a precarious position. Both roads to the Summit camp were in possession of the enemy. The wagon train had been captured, and his own wagon train loaded for supplies for the Summit camp and which were badly needed, had no chance to get through.

So about three in the morning of Friday, the Thirteenth, he sent one army to open up the wagon road, and another army to open the bridle path.

As a matter of fact, it would appear that the confederates had about fifty five hundred men in the woods around Cheat Summit and that they were literally scattered all over a rugged country like a band of sheep that had lost their shepherd. It was the second night in bad weather and there was no way to form a cohesive force out of them. In the meantime those Indiana boys who had been loafing there all summer and probably knew every trout up there by its given name, were ready to harry the

those Indiana boys who had been bly knew every trout up there by its strangers out of there, and at break

of day, on Friday, the Thirteenth,
they commenced to hunt the confederates. About this time some confederates appeared on the pike about a mile east of the summit and surrounded a picket post and a lieutenant and a private of the federals were killed.

Learning that a whip chase was underway to the west and that the

mander at the Summit sent companies of soldiers east over the pike and had them line Cheat River above the bridge, and a battle was fought on that river about two miles above that bridge at a point near where the Cheat Mountain Clubhouse
now stands.

The confederate reports are missing as to this encounter, but the federal reports are very positive. They are sure that all the regiments, both from Valley Mountain and from Camp Bartow had been rounded up and were being driven toward the Greenbrier, and that when they were stopped by three hundred men at some point on the river near the clubhouse, that the confederates numbered fifty-five hundred men.
These men were driven back into the wilderness and it was not until about back to Camp Bartow. Kimball says that the result of the panic in the confederate ranks was that the woods were literally covered with the baggage, coats, haversacks, and other articles abandoned by the enemy.

Not if this is true it is not to be wondered that Lee looked in vain for his proud regiments to come stepping up the broad fields of Tygart's Valley, with flags flying, and drums beating, to take the federals in the rear, while he marched his victorious legions down the valley to storm the federal works and take West Virginia into the confederacy.

It is no wonder that Col. John A. Washington rode down by the mouth of Elkwater with a squad of men, to get around the bend so that he could see the confederate columns advancing up the river to support the attack. And that not seeing such an army that he should have ventured nearer and nearer the fortification so that he could make a thorough search, until so close that he was shot and killed.

Col. Rust was ordered out of Cheat mountain with his command to get to Bartow as soon as he could and send a dispatch to General Loring by the "near way", Loring was no doubt that day at Valley Mountain. "Get Mr. Arbogast to take the dispatch, if possible." Probably J. H. Arbogast, whose plantation was on the site of the town of Durbin. He is described as the postmaster.

MINNEHABA COMMUNITY MEETING

Minnehaba had her first community meeting in the M. E. church, Friday night, November 8. J. C. Harper was in charge. The subject was Community Spirit. The County Agent discussed the subject of working together and the value of community work. Papers were read on Community History, Churches, by H. Lee White; schools, by Miss Marie White; Community, by J. C. Harper.

An entertaining program was given by the school children entitled "The First Thanksgiving in America," which was appropriate and well prepared.

Mrs. E. J. Wilson is general chairman for the community. A good crowd was present and a great deal of interest was manifest. The Extension Division is going to publish for this community their history when prepared.

The subject for the next meeting will be a Community Christmas Tree. Mrs. Wilson in charge. Minnehaba has caught the idea and as the Greeks expressed it in a proverb—"Arise and move" or going for this is not our resting place. Minnehaba is moving forward.

were camping on the hunting trip. A shot was fired from a high powered rifle which struck her in the head as she sat in her tent. Mr. Barlow is a native of Pocahontas county. Many of our older readers will remember him.

George P. Edgar reports the killing of fourteen lambs by a panther on his Cranberry River plantation. The throat of each lamb was cut. There were no tracks or other sign as would have been the case if a bear had done the depredation. Some of the carcasses were covered up. A panther was seen last summer just across the mountain from where the sheep were killed.

Layman and Reed Davis saw a fine big doe on the Jericho Flat, about a half mile from the county bridge last Saturday. The young men were rabbit hunting and came upon the deer. This is the first time in thirty years since a deer was seen on this place.

DEATH

Wm. Minnie B. & Phillips was born at Greenbank, Pocahontas county, September 1, 1876. She died November 1, 1927, having reached the age of exactly one year, two months, and five days. She was the daughter of the late John E. and Mary Kenyon Hicks, deceased. For several years she had made her home with her son, W. J. Phillips of Huntersville.

During her early childhood she professed faith in Christ and united with the Methodist church of which she remained a faithful member until God called her to join the church triumphant and rest with the redeemed.

Funeral services were conducted in the Methodist church at Huntersville by her pastor, Rev. Mack Thomas on Friday afternoon, November 11. Her body was laid to rest in the Huntersville cemetery.

HUNTING AND FISHING

Dear Editor:

In regard to dogs running deer, this can be stopped if the true sports men of the community will cooperate with the game wardens. If a dog is seen after a deer, catch him if you can and take him to the warden. If you cannot catch him, I will lend you my 35 caliber Remington and if you put one of these bullets behind his shoulder he will forever hold his peace.

In last week's paper the Slaty Fork correspondent says the hunters have killed off all the deer and turkeys in that locality. I say it is not the man who hunts in the open season who destroys the game. It is the sneak thief who slips out after the season is closed and kills anything he sees. This is the time for the game wardens to be busy when there are no sportsmen in the woods.

Last fall when the deer season opened, I did not get to go until the eighth day was here. My son and myself went to my old hunting ground, and there we ran into a bunch of fellows who asked us what we were hunting for. I says deer. They says what kind? And I says the one with the chair on his head. They says we shoot and look afterwards. We left them right then and there.

On the Huntersville road as you approach Marlinton the boundary of town is crossed just round the sharp turn of the hill, and before there is any intimation that a town is anywhere near. The next turn shows a large, twenty acre, unfenced clearing on the prehistoric river terrace, something like a hundred feet above the level of Knapps creek. This is called the Marlinton field, and at the time the town was projected was a part of the A. M. McLaughlin farm. The field comes down close to the court house being bounded on that side by a beautiful natural grassy bank. This twenty acres will form the next important annex to the town. It is already encircled on half its boundary by a hard surfaced state highway, in other words the Huntersville road.

It is in turn bounded by a higher terrace or flat of several hundred acres all of which is in the city limits and it would seem that it was the natural place for the center of the town, but the town is now located on a hillside overlooking the river.

When Mary McLaughlin married McLaughlin in 1841, on the site of the present town, she had a large family of 14 children, 7 sons and 7 daughters. Mrs. McLaughlin died in 1880.

She had ten children in all, 7 sons and 3 daughters. The oldest son, Thomas, died in 1880.

It was on the 15th of March 1880 that the great-grandmother of the present editor, Mrs. Price, died. She was the widow of Thomas Price, who died in 1824.

Mrs. Price was 74 years of age when she died. She had a large family of 14 children, 7 sons and 7 daughters. The oldest son, Thomas, died in 1880.

Thomas Price was a Revolutionary War soldier. He was killed in 1781. His wife, Mary, died in 1880. This late war hero's name is now on the wall of the town hall.

It is in turn bounded by a higher terrace or flat of several hundred acres all of which is in the city limits and it would seem that it was the natural place for the center of the town, but the fact that the railroad follows the river left it to one side of the court house while the building was done on the other or railroad side. There is another reason too why it was not built upon. It was reserved for the millionaire's row, and in those days when hopes ran high, it was considered to be but a matter of time when there would be a millionaire set in town and so we determined to park them on the beautiful heights on the eastern border of the town. But the millionaire did not materialize. The time came when the height of the average man's ambition was to have a car and a gallon of gasoline and the world was his'n. So it looks now as if the natural growth of the town would reach out and take in the Hamilton Road and that it would be occupied by the workers of the world, instead of the workers of their fellow men.

On the terrace next above the Hamilton field is the site of the farm once called the Powell place, now generally referred to as Cemetery Hill. It was the part of the plantation on which my father was born, and he rests within a few steps of his birth place.

The names of these fields are from the men who cleared them. I do not know who Powell was but the Hamilton field was named for William Hamilton who married into the community.

Sam Houston was born in 1793 in Rockbridge county. Hamilton was born in 1811 and died in Blanco county, Texas, in 1894. Houston died in 1862. But Austin, the capital city, is next to Blanco county and Houston was governor of the state of Texas in 1859, and up to his death, and they must have been together a great deal. Houston was governor when the state seceded and he refused to sign the order, and the secession of the state broke him so that he died. Houston had worked for many years to bring Texas into the Union and he could not survive the action taken to secede.

When the first company was formed for the confederacy at Huntsville, the home of Sam Houston, he was asked to review the troops. This he consented to do. He put on his light blue army uniform. He called

My stepgrandmother married as a widow Big Foot Wallace and he was a great hero. Once when captured by the Mexicans the order was death to one half of the prisoners and liberty to the other half to spread the news of the penalty. It was to be determined by drawing beans from a bag, a black bean, death, white bean, liberty. Big Foot Wallace drew a white bean. Wallace drew another white bean. In after years he said that he had noticed the difference in the shape of the beans.

William Hamilton was certainly a good citizen and a worthy man. He married Medora Sabina Price, May 14, 1834, on the edge of his clearing, she being my great aunt. They lived in Bath county for a number of years and had seven daughters and three sons. Mrs. Hamilton died in Blanco county in 1882. I am trying to find out about this family. With those ten children there must be a wonderful lot of Texans that date back to the sheriff of Blanco.

She was much younger than her husband who had raised a large family by his first wife, Elizabeth Taylor. At the time of the death of Thomas Price, they lived in Botetourt county.

Thomas Price was one of the five Thomas Prices who fought in the Revolution. He was known as the Thomas Price of Botetourt county. This late marriage with Margaret Beard puts me one generation closer to the Revolution than most men of my age, and gives me a great grand father as a soldier in that war.

The record for the nearest to the Revolution is held by Judge Lively, of the Supreme court. His grand father was a soldier of the Revolution. His ancestor was Goddall Lively who was born in 1762. He entered the army from Albemarle county in 1780, and served three campaigns, the last of which was for twenty two months.

He was married in 1794, and Judge Lively's father was born in 1815, and Judge Lively was born in 1864. The Judge's father fell dead of heart disease while reading the dispatch that announced the surrender of Lee at Appomattox.

Margaret lived at that place seven years and the four Kelley children got the advantage of a splendid school at Hillsboro under the instruction of a Mr. Brown and later Rev. M. D. Dunlap, both noted teachers. My father also attended school at the same time from his grandmother's house. Mrs. Kelley only lived a year at the Levels and the four children were thrown on Margaret's hands, and the rest of her life seems to have been spent caring for them. She sold the farm in the Levels in 1845 to James Lewis for eight hundred dollars and moved back to the house on Powell Hill, where she departed this life in the spring of 1848, aged about sixty years.

She made a will that was witnessed by her brother Josiah Beard and by Woods Poage. She was concerned about the schooling of the Kelley children and mentioned the matter in the will.

Like the Hamiltons, the Kelleys scattered out in the wide world. William Scott Kelley was the oldest. He was born in 1827, and was eighteen years old when Margaret died. He got the gold fever and made it to California where he stayed a few years. He was next heard of as one of the famous sporting fraternity on the steam boat lines between Cincinnati and New Orleans. William Scott Kelley turned over a new leaf in the fifties, and graduated in medicine in Cincinnati in 1828, and located in Buchanan county, Missouri. He was a friend of Gen. Sterling Price, and was appointed surgeon general of Price's army and died during the war. Dr. Kelley stood high in the estimation of the people at the date of his death. He left one child a daughter who married Geo L Rector of Arkansas and who was the mother of seven children so Dr. Kelley has many descendants in that state.

T. S. McNeel K. K. McLaughlin

Margaret was concerned about Samuel Henry Kelley and provided for his schooling. But in 1848, he too got the gold fever and left for California, and after a considerable period he settled at Los Angeles and was keeping a store there in the year 1861. One night in the year 1861, a band of Mexican bandits attacked the store and the place was defended by the owner, but the store was broken into, Kelley was killed, and the store robbed, and the building burned. We do not know whether he left any descendants or not. But that night was the forerunner of Hollywood and the western light pictures.

We hear that Margaret was not popular and that she had a temper and that she could not live with her

Hollywood and the western light pictures.

We hear that Margaret was not popular and that she had a temper and that she couldn't live with people. But a study of her life leads me to a different conclusion. I think that she was a noble woman. She was married as a girl of about twenty years to a man over sixty years of age, and a man who had had a wonderful war record as an Indian fighter and soldier. He seems to have been constantly on the fighting border for something like thirty years, and you can trace him through the Indian days of the sixties, and at Point Pleasant, in the Virginia militia, and in the Continental army, and at Kings Mountain. He had raised one large family and had a son who was in the 1812 war.

After a few years of life married to a man old enough to be her grandfather she was left with four sons in the 1812 war.

After a few years of life married to a man old enough to be her grand father she was left with four small children and no means to speak of.
There did seem to be some slaves who were kind and loyal and helpful to her. Her oldest son having married into a land rich family here at Marlinton gave her an opportunity to escape from Botetourt county back to the valley in which she was born, and here she saw her daughters happily married. But soon Virginia came home a poor widow with four small children and from that time on Margaret lived for her grandchildren.
There were ten of the Hamilton grandchildren, but they were no burden to her, for William Hamilton, were smart and so she moved to the best school in the valley, the school that Greenbrier county patronized so well. Then in a year after that time, Virginia Kelley overworked herself at the washtub one day, took brain fever and died, leaving Mar-

Seven years seems to have been the period that Margaret lived in the Levels. Then she came back and lived three years more on Powell

But in that time she had her plantation in order. She had a black man by the name of Jerry. William Scott Kelley pulled out for the setting sun about the time she moved back. He was undoubtedly gone for she wills him the money she had loaned him, but does not provide him with a feather bed, underbed, and bed clothing and bed linen. It is apparent that he had lit out for a place where there were no feather beds needed or desired. He was one of the Argonauts for the golden fleece.

She was careful to provide for each one of her descendants and her will shows that she was mindful of each and every one of them. She remembers them all and goes into detail about her estate. She to

WAR TIME LETTERS

Arbovale, W. Va.
November 30, 1928

Mr. Price, Editor Pocahontas Times
Marlinton, W. Va.

Dear Mr. Price

I am enclosing copies of two letters written by my brothers, Henry A.
Yeager and Will A. Yeager during the Civil War, to my mother, Mrs.
John Yeager and my sister, Mrs.
Eliza A. Arbogast. Would be glad if you would copy them in The Times.

Thanking you, I am

Yours very truly,
Evelyn Yeager Board

Camp 21st A. S. Regt.

May 14, 1864

I received your letter dated April 25th and also the money $10.00. I was sorry I did not get the letter before I wrote to Fannie. I had just the day before I received your letter, but will write again.

I was sorry to hear of Mrs. Heman's death. She was a clever woman and no doubt would have been alive yet if she had not exposed herself at the sugar camp. I think people ought to take care of themselves in such sickly times as this. Don't expose yourselves too much to make anything ahead, but only try to get along somehow until this old war comes to an end.

You said you have made a good deal of sugar. Now don't be in too big a hurry to sell it for it will bring almost any price. It is selling from 10 to 12 dollars a pound here now and if you have any more than you want you can exchange it for any other articles in the way of provisions.

Mother you need not send us any more clothing for we have sent away what we had except what we can carry and you know we don't want much to carry. This time of year so we have plenty in that line. I have even the things you sent to George for beverage and to buy a few things with a half each at 60c possibly for 50c. Write soon selves more sickly times

P. S. If you send me soon I can turn will be more new issues for all you. To Mrs. Jo

We have had no fight yet but have just rec'd an order to be ready to march at a moment's warning. The enemy is reported to be moving to our right. During last night their tents disappeared from our front in Calpeter and we thought that a general engagement will take place in a day or two. I hope we will be able to give them a good thrashing, for on this fight depends greatly our future safety. I think if we are successful it may be one of the most important battles of the war. If we should be forced to see the light through I will write you immediately and give you the particulars. This leaves us all well. The weather is beautiful. Frost & Roanoke 0

The Frost Old Timers and Roanoke played an interesting game of soccer football at Covington, Virginia Saturday, December 24th. The Roanoke team was made up in part of English and Scotchmen who are all lovers of soccer football. Mr. Goggins of Lynchburg, Virginia, refereed the game is, as we understand, State Superintendent of Soccer Football Association. Covington has one of the best grounds the writer has ever been on. Roanoke got choice of goals and very naturally took advantage of the wind. After the toss-off, it was soon apparent that the Old Timers had the edge, as other game bagged, but of course, not without effort against these well trained and scientific players who were always alert to the advantage point.

If present is materialize Frost will play Roanoke at Roanoke, Va. December 25th!

The corn crop in our county this year was perhaps the best ever grown, and we think it would be most interesting to have it shown, and it would be a medium of supply for seed corn.

We have therefore decided to hold a corn show at our banking rooms on the date named and offer the following prizes:

- | | |
|----------------|---------------------------------------|
| Class 1 | Red & Yellow Dent, 10 ears |
| | First prize $2.00 |
| | Second prize $1.00 |
| Class 2 | Any Other Dent, 10 ears |
| | First prize $1.00 |
| | Second prize $1.00 |
| Class 3 | Any Variety, single ear |
| | First prize $1.00 |
| | Second prize $.50 |

Exhibits will be judged by the State Corn Expert, and the exhibits ranking highest will be sent to the State Corn Show for entry.

FOR SHERIFF

Fred W. Ruckman, of the Love's District announces this week as a candidate for the office of sheriff of Pocahontas county, subject to the will of the Democratic party. For deputies he offers J. C. Wooddell, of Greenbank, and George H. Waugh of Elray; for jailor, Lock Herold, of Huntersville; for office deputy, M. C. Kincaid.

A better and stronger ticket would be hard to find. It comes out in response to a general call. It now looks like it will go over with general unanimity, and this editor hopes it will.

Mr Ruckman is a prominent citizen of Little Levels District. He is a farmer. Also a banker. As a young man he fitted himself for a business career, but was called from the city back to the farm on the death of his father, the late Mathews Ruckman. He applies business principles to farming, and he is now one of our most progressive and successful farmers.

J. C. Wooddell is just completing a term as deputy sheriff for Greenbank District. He has made good in every respect. He is one of the most popular and efficient officers the county has ever had.

George H. Waugh is a son of the late Levi Waugh. He is the proper kind of man to fill an office, but he has always been too busy scaling logs to think about serving his county in this way.

Lack Herold, of Minnehaha Springs will make a good jailor. He is kind and considerate, but with plenty of firmness to hold things down.

AN OLD PLOW

The other day Neal Pritchard of Knapps Creek, brought to this office for identification a curious looking iron implement. This editor put it down as the bottom of an old wooden mould-board plow. It is an interesting relic. It is on display at this office.

Mr. Pritchard found the plow in the woods on the hillside above the Knapps Creek Methodist Church. Along about the time that such plows were in common use, the farm where it was found was occupied by one William Moore, who was the great grandfather of J. H. Buzzard.

J. J. Ramsey died at his home on Cummings Creek on Thursday, February 23, 1928. His age was 50 years. About two weeks before his death, Mr. Ramsey was working in the woods and was struck on the head by a falling sapling or small tree. While he suffered constant pain, he continued to work for three days. Then his condition became such that he could no longer work and he grew rapidly worse until death relieved his suffering. On Friday afternoon his body was laid to rest in the Beaver Creek Cemetery. Mr. Ramsey was a respected and industrious citizen. He was a native of Greenbrier county, but he has been a resident of Pocahontas for the past twenty-five years or more. He is survived by his wife who was a daughter of the late Charles McComb, and their two daughters. A grown daughter died about a year ago.

To the Voters of Pocahontas County:

A few weeks ago I announced my candidacy for Sheriff of Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Democratic party in the primary election. Since my announcement was published I have come to the conclusion that I should not enter the race for the office mentioned, though I have the assurance of the support of my friends. I now understand from Mr. F. W. Ruckman of Millpoint, that he is going to offer for the office, and believing that he is well fitted for it and will be acceptable to the people of the county as a whole, I am withdrawing from the race in his favor and in doing so I want to thank my many friends for their words of support. I feel that the people of Pocahontas County have been exceedingly kind to me for the last eight years. They have honored me and I greatly appreciate this honor.

In the graveyard sweetly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave
Lies the one we love so dearly
In his lonely silent grave.

He shall never be forgotten,
Nor at all in memory fade:
Sweetest thoughts will always linger
Around the grave where he is laid.

Now we know how much we miss him
Now we know the tears we shed,
For in heaven we hope to meet him
Where no longer tears are shed.

My plans for writing and illustrating my booklet are I think the club is a lot of help to me in my work at home and at school. I want the back of my booklet to be different from all my other booklets or any I have ever seen. I am going to have my booklet completed by the time school is out, my mind will not be bothered. I am going to make it the best booklet that I have made. I think my club and school can help each other by having hot lunches. We are having a Valentine party and celebrating Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays. We have club meetings and are giving each pupil some part in the work to get them interested, and they will want to be a 4 H Club boys and girls. Our club has discussed the matter of a community library and decided that club members want to get the people interested in establishing a community library. We could have socials and some may have good books that they would add to the library. Our school has a good library and we give the people of the community the privilege to have a book out for a certain length of time. This is one way that our school and club can serve the community.

Most of the geology belongs to the period referred to generally at B. C. At that time there was no one living here that we can definitely determine. So to bring the conversation down to the times known as A. D., I want to make some mention of a citizen who so far as I can figure out has the right to be known as the father and founder of Huntersville, and that is John Bradshaw.

The name of Bradshaw has faded out of Pocahontas county, but a large number of citizens of the name of McLaughlin, Cackley, Gwin, Hogsett and Tallman are direct descendants of the old pioneer. It is safe to say that enough descendants of this Soldier of the Revolution could be named who would far outnumber the members of the societies known as the Sons of the Revolution and the Daughters of the American Revolution in West Virginia, as large and prosperous as those societies have become. John Bradshaw had four sons who removed to foreign countries, two to Missouri, one to Virginia, and one to Lewis county. He had four daughters who married here and left a host of descendants. At the time that the Revolution broke out John Bradshaw was eighteen years old. At that time he was scouting around on the western waters somewhere about Wolf Creek, in Monroe county.

Early in that war the Indian armies appeared on our western frontier, and the backwoodsmen were organized into a branch of colonial service known as rangers, but officially designated as Indian spies. It was their duty to watch the country along the Seneca trail from Monroe county to Preston county. Along this line a large number of stockade forts were built. The eastern border was watched in this way between the line of forts extending from the Tennessee country to northern Pennsylvania Bradshaw went in company with James Ellis at times and on other occasions his partner was Col. Samuel Estell, of Kentucky. Each tour of duty made a circle of about thirty miles. His service was for six months each in the summers of 1776, 1777, 1778, and in 1779. In these months he engaged in no civil pursuit. The service lasted until November of each year, when it was considered that the country was safe from Indian raids on account of cold weather. If the weather stayed warm, or a warm spell occurred in the winter, the thoughts of the pioneers would turn to the danger of an Indian raid and they would call it Indian summer.

At the end of 1779, Bradshaw went to the east side of the Alleghenies and married Nancy McKamie, and settled on the Bull Pasture river about ten miles below McDowell in the part of the country covered by Fort George, one of the forts of the line of forts built by Dinwiddie in the French and Indian war. Bradshaw seems to have had about a year at home. From November 1, 1779, to January 1, 1781. That was about the time that Col. Bradshaw joined the company of Captain Thomas Hicklin, in Col. Sampson Mathews regiment, and served an enlistment of three months from the highlands to the sea. He was in a battle at Portsmouth, with John Slaven, and a lot of other mountain men, and being discharged he came home for the summer. The Americans formed a double line and the Cornwallis army marched out of Yorktown between the lines and reached a place where they were required to lay down their arms. Some of the British soldiers threw their muskets down with force enough to injure the gun. Then the British marched back between the lines into Yorktown.

The next day the British prisoners were marched off to Winchester under guard and Bradshaw was one of the guards, and when these prisoners were duly delivered at Winchester in the Valley, Bradshaw was discharged and came back to his home.

Soon after the Revolution, John Bradshaw moved west of the Allegheny and founded Huntersville. He got for his mountain home the plantations now owned by Sherman P. The Bradshaw home was placed on a bluff looking down on the beautiful waters of Knapps creek, at or near the place where Isaac Barlow lives. Bradshaw was monarch of all he surveyed.

About this time, John Bradshaw had a stroke of luck which made him one of the richest men of the mountains. A ticket that he held in a State lottery drew him a prize of ten thousand dollars and that was an immense fortune in those days.

He was a prominent figure in Bath county and in this county after its formation. My father remembers seeing him. My father was seven years old when John Bradshaw died the seventy-nine years old. In his old age, he was a large portly man, with elegant manners, and fine dress, and he walked with a crutch richly inlaid with silver.

When Peconic county was organized in the spring of 1822, the commissioners met at John Bradshaw's house, and they took from him a deed for about an acre of ground on the bluff across the lane from his house, for the county buildings. This site was accepted and a brick courthouse built on it that lasted until the county seat was moved six miles west on the Huntersville road to the new city of Marlinton.

John Bradshaw had another immense tract of land in the Dilley's Mill community.

One of the first orders of the new county court was to grant license to keep a house of private entertainment at his residence for the year ending in May, 1823. For this he paid a license of $1 50. But the next year he was licensed to keep an ordinary at the same place for a license fee of $18 00. In the meantime, Bradshaw sat as one of the county court, being a justice of the county. The main difference between a house of entertainment and an ordinary was that that the ordinary could sell spirits and wine by the small measure. The court fixed the tariff. For a half pint of whiskey the charge was 12 1 2 cents or one bit. There were plenty of half cent pieces in those days. Meals were 25 cents and lodging 12 cents. A tall unlettered native slab of rock is at the head of the grave, and a smaller one at the foot, both standing. Between the two stones, exactly over the center of the grave there is a large wild cherry tree, perhaps thirty inches in diameter. This tree is showing signs of great age, and is ready to fall. There is some talk of cutting it down on account of its condition.

You know there is a great deal of talk about the extreme age of forest trees that is mostly all guesswork. Here is a tree that we know to be less than a hundred years old that shows signs of old age and which has reached its full size.

It is a large wild cherry tree on the brow of the terrace back of A. H. McComb's store. I went there the other day with James A. Reed and as he looked around at the beautiful valley surrounded by the numerous mountains, he said: "All Bradshaw land!"

I then came on my way home and stopped at the mouth of the nameless little run on J. H. Buzzard's place where there are millions of small stones, the talus washed down from the hills above, and I stopped to take my daily breath of fresh air, and keep on with my continuing hunt for a perfect trilobite, which will probably be the millineth stone I turn over.

The Green Bank High school basket ball team was defeated by Sutton high school at the tournament held in Philippi last week. The boys returned to their homes here on Saturday.

On Friday night the Elkins Mountaineers were victorious over the Green Bank Independents, the score being 38-19.

The Green Bank girls were the winners in a game played with the Marlinton girls on the local floor Saturday night. At the half—the score was 18-4 in Green Bank's favor, but Marlinton thought that would never do—so they got busy and when the final whistle blew the score was 26-22 in favor of Green Bank.

Teachers Must Go Without Pay

No drafts for the teachers of Huntersville and Little Levels Districts will be issued for the sixth month of school, due to a shortage of funds. The amount of taxes raised for teachers' fund purposes by the Boards of Education has been exhausted and no State Aid has as yet been received. There will be sufficient funds to pay the teachers of Edray District for the sixth month and about enough money in Greenbank District to pay about three-fifths of the teachers for the same period.

It is likely that no action will be taken in the present situation until more definite information is received from the State.

300 TONS ICE WASTED IN THE TOWN YEARLY

300 Tons Ice Yearly Waster By Local People—Poorly Refrigeration Is Main Cause

Marlinton poured 300 tons of melted ice down the drain pipes of its refrigerators during the last year without housewives getting any good from it.

This amazing figure, arrived at by the Leonard Institute of Food Preservation, is the annual ice waste in Marlinton, due to faulty refrigeration. It is based on a survey of ice meltage in Rochester, N. Y., showing a per capita waste of 500 pounds of ice. The American public is literally pouring water into a sieve, the water being in the form of ice and the sieve being the leaky uninsulated refrigerator that does not keep out hot air.

The average family should use about 8,000 pounds of ice a year if the refrigerator is well insulated and the doors fit tightly, according to food specialists. This provides for keeping the ice chamber well filled in winter
as well as summer. Although the ave-nt, the survey at Rochester, a typical American city, showed that an alarming portion of the ice purchased is wasted each year in the average home. For the nation this involves a loss of millions of dollars in ice alone, besides the even greater loss in spoiled food caused by the poor refrigeration.

Purchasers of refrigerators too often consider price alone, say food preservation experts. Like an automobile, the refrigerator should be purchased on performance as well as appearance. The use of modern all-steel refrigerators with approved insulation would go far toward doing away with this heavy loss, they state.

In selecting a refrigerator, one with neither the minimum or maximum ice meltage should be chosen, according to the Leonard Institute. The refrigerator that consumes the most ice is, naturally, too costly to keep filled and will not maintain the desired temperature of 50 degrees or less, while the one that consumes the least ice probably has faulty circulation and will not do its job of keeping the food in perfect state of preservation. A reasonable rate of ice meltage is essential to keeping food good. The ice should never be covered with a blanket or paper to retard its melting.

TRAIN DELAYED

Last Monday evening, the five o'clock train, running from Durbin to Ronceverte, was delayed on account of engine trouble. A few miles above Marlinton the engine of the gasoline locomotive went dead and had to be relieved by a freight engine which was called to its assistance.

LOCAL GRIDDBERS DEFEAT RENICK

Visitors Outplayed Throughout The Strong Team

The local High School gridblers overwhelmed Renick by a 39-0 score in an unimpressive game of football at the Fairgrounds field, last Saturday.

Marlinton displayed an aggressive offense, gaining almost at will, thru any position of the opposing team, and a "rock-wall" defense which held the visitors powerless. Time and again the Marlinton line broke through and smothered plays before they gathered momentum, or hurrying passes and punts, which detracted greatly from the showing made by the visiting eleven.

On the opening kickoff, Slaven, Marlinton end received the ball and made a very pretty run back before being downed. A series of plays resulted in the first touchdown. From then on it was more of a procession than a football game—featuring long runs by Gay, Wilson, and Captain “Bo” Coyner and some terrific line smashing by “Bones” Hamrick, the versatile fullback of the local eleven. Sam Neel Neel and “Pete” Spitzer, the diminutive halfback also showed up well.

Captain Burr and Holesapple were the luminaries for Renick.

Coach Lord used the entire squad in the game, and the second team played the entire fourth quarter.

RICHARDSON'S CAR STOLEN; IS RECOVERED

State Police Overtake Thief Near Renick; Man Gets Away.

Corporal Jack Tidd and H. R. Shields, of the local detachment of the State Police, did a swift piece of work Saturday night when they overtook the thief who stole C. J. Richardson's Buick sedan from in front of the Marlin-Sewell hotel in less than one hour after the theft had been reported.

Driving up to a parking place beside the hotel about ten o'clock, Craig Richardson, son of C. J., at home from Randolph-Macon for the holidays, stopped and as is customary in these parts, where automobile thieves are few and far between.

thieves are few and far between, failed to lock the vehicle. When he went back for the car it was gone. Thinking someone was playing a practical joke, and had borrowed it temporarily, he waited patiently for its return. Others, too, scoffed at the idea of it being stolen. Finally the State Police were notified, and they at once set out in their little Chevie to find the big sedan.

As luck would have it, they started in the right direction—toward Hillsboro. On the way they took a squint at every sideroad to see what they could see. Giving up hopes of finding it in this vicinity, and being unable to find anyone who had made notation of the passing of a Buick sedan, they decided to drive to the end of the hard road, on the other side of Droop. There were no other cars on the road, they said, so Jack stepped on the gas, and away they went. In descending Droop, far in the distance, there was the light of a car. Punching the gas to the floor to see the license number, they knew they had found the car, but the problem confronting them was how to stop it. They were on the bad road now, and there was no driving up beside it. Mary M'Neel Beard 97, Passes Away

One of the oldest residents of Pocahontas county passed away on Thursday, December 27, 1928, when Mary McNeel Beard, age 97, who was a daughter of Richard McNeel and Mary Edmiston, died at her home at Hillsboro.

Mrs. Beard was one of the pioneers of this section. She was a resident of the old state and the new. For almost a century she watched and served the progress of a nation, state and county. Through it all she has been very active, doing her part in the community in which she lived.

She was the widow of the late M. L. Beard, and is survived by two sons, M. L. Beard and C. E. Beard.

For 45 years she was a member of the Presbyterian Church and always took an active part in church affairs.

Funeral services were conducted at the Oak Grove Church at Hillsboro Saturday, December 29th, and interment made in the McNeel cemetery.

ADVERTISING BRINGS NEW CUSTOMERS

1 year later New customers increase the volume of business and increased volume brings increased profits. The following story is told of the Hart-South Garment Co., by its vice president, Leo Fleming.

"We manufacture overalls and work pants. It took us 12 years to build a business from a scratch to a certain volume without advertising. With advertising the volume increased 500 per cent in two years. In our first two years we built our production up to 1000 dozens a month and our overhead and selling cost was $4000 a month.

"That made a selling cost of four dollars a dozen. Two years after becoming advertisers our volume increased to 5000 dozens a month. The overhead and selling cost increased 100 percent to $8000 a month. As a result the overhead and selling cost was reduced from four dollars a dozen to one dollar and sixty cents a dozen. We reduced the price a dollar a dozen to the retailer, paid 50c a dozen to the advertising appropriation and had 90c a dozen extra profit as a result of the advertising."

TWO CARS COLLIDE ON HUNTERSVILLE ROAD; 2 INJURED

An automobile accident, in which two cars collided, occurred on the curve opposite Ted Smith's residence early Tuesday morning when Earl Sharp,* driving a 1935 Ford Coupe and Chris Beard's Chevrolet Sedan taxi came together.

According to information concerning the accident, Sharp was coming into Marlinton at a high rate of speed, and in cutting the curve was not over far enough on his side of the road to avoid hitting the approaching car. The taxi driven by J. H. Wuner, of Durbin, and had one passenger. Sharp's car was occupied by Fred Hamrick and Ted Guthrie, of Cass.

In an effort to avoid the accident, Sharp in pulling to his side of the road hit the left front wheel of Beard's car, but it seems that in doing so he got the worse end of the bargain. His car came out with a broken wind shield, broken windows, the left running board and fenders completely smashed, the right front wheel broken, the left door knocked clear out of place, and one broken spring.

In the smashup Sharp received bad injuries about the left arm and shoulder, and one other occupant of the car received severe bruises. The other escaped uninjured. They were brought to the Pocahtontas Memorial Hospital, where their wounds were given medical attention.

VIOLATES GAME LAW

Fishing for trout out of season and without license is rather expensive, even if you don't catch anything, judging from the case of Cecil Rankin who was caught by game protector, Clarence Tyree, who happened along Tea Creek on Wednesday of last week and found Rankin casting in the stream with a green fly and spinner. He was arrested, but all the time the officer was making the arrest Rankin was making a noble effort to convince him that he was only fishing for suckers. The fish law violator was brought to Marlinton and tried Saturday in A. E. Smith's Justice Court and was fined $20.00 and costs. The costs were $7.00, thus causing his little trial for ~~violation~~ cost $27.00, enough to buy ~~license~~ for twenty seven years.

Not until the first month's reports come in will Superintendent Flynn know exactly how many are enrolled in the Purnhewitt County schools this year, but he is of the opinion that there are some four or five hundred out of school at the present time, and if they do not voluntarily enroll during the next few weeks, an effort will be made to induce them to.

DAVE BARRETT TAKES OWN LIFE; BLOWS BRAINS OUT

Head Almost Amputated; Skull is Found in Rose Bush Nearby

(Special to The Journal)

Hill-boro—Dave Barrett, 63, took his own life by shooting his brains out with a twelve guage shot gun at his home on Droop Mountain about 11.00 A. M. January 2nd.

His body was found by his little grand child at noon on the front porch where the tragedy occurred. The head was mangled and mutilated terribly. There was nothing left of the head except the nose, mouth, and chin, the rest being blown completely from his body. A large piece where the tragedy occurred. The head was mangled and mutilated terribly. There was nothing left of the head except the nose, mouth, and chin, the rest being blown completely from his body. A large piece of the skull was found in a rose bush near by. Pieces of his brains, and hair was found in various parts of the porch and yard.

No one witnessed the tragedy, nor did the neighbors hear the discharge of the gun. His body was found near the edge of the porch, and the shot gun near by. Neighbors, who arrived later concluded that he had tied a piece of binder twine to the trigger of the gun and to a bench in such a manner as to cause the trigger to snap when the gun was pulled slightly forward. The muzzle was placed near, or at the base of the ear pointing slightly upward. It is evident that the tragedy occurred about 11:00 o'clock because the body was near the edge of the porch, and the shot gun near by. Neighbors, who arrived later concluded that he had tied a piece of binder twine to the trigger of the gun and to a bench in such a manner as to cause the trigger to snap when the gun was pulled slightly forward. The muzzle was placed near, or at the base of the car pointing slightly upward. It is evident that the tragedy occurred about 11:00 o'clock because the body was still warm at noon. Number four shot was used according to comparison of the shot that was found to that of number four shot.

A coroner's jury was summoned by Dr. H. W. McNeel, local physician, for the holding of an inquest. The verdict rendered by the jury was suicide beyond doubt. No reason is known why he took his own life as he was apparently sane before the had seen the body, which was found in the yard of the home at that time. The New York Times reported that on the night the deceased went to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ken Brown, who lived very near his residence, and asked to borrow a shot gun, explaining that a weasel was bothering his chickens. Later, near midnight, he returned with the gun, stating that it would not break down for him. He then asked if there was not a better one he could borrow. Returning home with the other gun he was not seen alive again.

It was a habit of Barrett's to visit his daughter and family (Mrs. Ken Brown) every morning and inquire how they were. However, on the fatal morning he did not appear. One of his grand children on his way to school passed through his yard, and saw no signs of him, trying the door he found it locked and no signs of life inside.

The deceased has five sons and daughters to mourn; they are: Holly, of Philippi; Gilbert, at home; Tom of Spice; Mrs. Ken Brown, of Spice; and one daughter who lives near Ed-

FLU EPIDEMIC REACHES 500

Disease Not in Virulent Form; Claimed as Bad as in 1918.

The flu epidemic has assumed great proportions in Marlinton and surrounding community, according to medical authorities, who report more than five hundred cases in this immediate section. It was hoped that the epidemic would soon reach its zenith, but instead new cases are being added daily.

The local doctors, who are doing everything within their power to relieve the host of sufferers, are experiencing a session of the hardest work since the epidemic of 1918, according to the physician.

Although no deaths have been reported as being directly from the flu, the epidemic is being regarded as a very bad form, and much attention is being given to the cases to prevent death from some other disease which might be caused by the flu as a case.

TOWN OFFICIALS RECEIVE 48 VOTES

"Scratching" in Evidence; Man Not

Marlinton will be served for the next year by the same mayor and council as during the past year, it was decided Thursday of last week when the city election was held and forty-eight voters went to the polls and cast their ballots in approval of the last year's administration. No other ticket was in the field.

No kind of an election, with or without opposition can be held without "scratching", it was revealed when the vote was posted in front of the place of voting. Two of the forty-eight scratched the names of some of those on the ticket and inserted a name of their own choice.

Was Ill Only Few Days. Funeral to be Held Thursday

One death resulting from influenza occurred last night when Mrs. Susan Bird, 40, wife of Uriah Bird, passed away after an illness of only a few days. She had been in ill health for several years, and her condition was such that the disease could not be fought by physicians successfully.

Mrs. Bird was a daughter of Eli Hudson of Durbin. She was born in this county. Fifty-eight years ago she was married to Uriah Bird, and to this union was born eight children, six of whom survive.
The surviving children are J. H.

Wheat, of Lynchburg, Va.; Mrs.

Mrs. H. R. Terry, of Canton Forge,
Mrs. Osa Vogel, of New Philadelphia, Ohio, and Mrs. Frank King, of this city. The deceased children were Mrs. Henry Gay, of Backhannon, and Mrs. W. W. Tyree, of Eikona. Besides the children, her husband and one brother, Squire J. L. Hudson, of this county survive.

Mrs. Bird was a lifelong member of the M. E. Church, South, and was very active in church and community work.

NEW THINGS

Ruby Sharp,
Fairview Workers,
Marlinton, W. Va.

(November, 1928)

My plans for succeeding in club work this year are: To write my Illustrated Booklet, write my project circular, and complete my project that I have selected for the year of 1929 and take it to the Pocahontas County fair next fall. I am also going to study my Four-H Suggestions better in the future than I have in the past and try to get every main point in them.

In order to do the following things I must keep healthy. I am trying to keep healthy by obeying the health rules. I have gained three pounds every month since school began.

I have been able to earn all my money since I joined the Four-H club this year.

What New Ideas

1. The members of our club spread Christmas cheer by singing carols at Christmas time, visiting the poor with presents, and helping with the Christmas program.

2. We discussed the Health Crusaders' Plan and made a list of things to develop our Health H by and organized a club. Each member is supposed to complete each one of these.

3. The main things listed on our club's plan of work for 1929 are: several parties are scheduled for 1929, a health play is to be given and we help with each community program every month.

4. After discussing the Big Brother and Sister League suggested by Sanitary Sam we decided to organize one at our next meeting as every one thought it a very good idea.

FORD PLANS 5- DAY WORK WEEK

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 2.—To manage a five-day week for employees and at the same time operate factories six days a week an additional 10,000 men will be employed by the Ford Motor Co., and production increased 20 per cent.

The plan of the company announced
last night.

The factory here will be operated on a five-day basis at this time, but it was intended as a trial plan to be carried out. It is transferred to the new plant to be built and increased.

Employment of the additional men,
it is said, will bring the Detroit employment up to 100,000. Preference will be given to men now in Detroit, the management said, and agreed that men coming here from other cities would find little opportunity for employment.

The plan calls for assignment of six men to five jobs, in order that each may have two days' rest a week.
"A six-day week is all right for machines," said Henry Ford in explaining the plan, "but a five-day week is enough for men."

It is estimated that under the plan production can be increased 6,500 cars a week and the lowered cost resulting from the machinery.

News From Durbin and

(Mrs. S. A. Willhild)

Durbin will now have an organized fire department, with 1000 feet of hose and four hose wagons. This is something the town has needed since it became incorporated, but it was impossible to have any protection beyond a "bucket brigade", until last fall when the fine water system was installed.

At the last meeting of the town council, on January 3rd, R. R. Dodd was appointed fire chief with O. P. Slaven as assistant.

The ringing of the First Methodist Church bell, will be the signal, should a fire occur.

Boys In Trouble

A rather deplorable incident occurred on one of our streets Saturday afternoon, when a crowd of younger boys made sport of Sol Rexrode, a Bartow man who is a little deranged mentally

It seems that Rexrode was making imaginary arrests among the boys, and they tormented and taunted him to the extent that he began throwing stones at them to defend himself against their jeers

This started a "battle royal" which ended when a rock thrown by one of the boys cut a bad gash in Rexrode's head.

Rather aghast at what had happened, the boys made themselves scarce, while the injured man looked up a doctor to dress the wound above his left eye, which was bleeding profusely.

It is reported the boys

... fusely.

He afterwards reported the boys to Mayor H. H. Hudson who held them over for the grand jury under $100.00 bond.

The boys, who were chiefly to blame, regret very much what happened, as the stone was not intentionally aimed at Pexrode to injure him. However, what occurred should be a lesson to them, and they should receive a severe enough reprimand to convince them that rock throwing,
even on general principles, is a dangerous pastime, especially when the target happens to be a person who should be protected, rather than tormented.

Flu Claims Many Victims

The flu has been raging in and around this community during the latter part of December and the first of January. However, the disease is subsiding somewhat at present and there are few critical cases. Some claim this epidemic to be due to the weather conditions, while others believe it contagious.

Mrs. Mattie Bright, a very aged lady of this city had a severe accident on New Years Day, in which she fractured her leg just below the hip bone. Durbin Tannery Super is Fined for Polluting

Because a bucket of minnows lived only four minutes after being placed in the river opposite the Durbin Tannery, Superintendent H. M. Widney accepted an invitation Friday from State Game Protector Ernest Angelo and District Protector Theodore Moore, to appear before Justice of the Peace J. A. Patterson, at Arboreale, on that day and receive punishment for polluting Greenbrier river to the extent that fish life is endangered.

According to the story of the protectors, they suspected that the water opposite the tannery was rank poison, and to verify their suspicion spent an hour or so seeking minnows to give it a trial. After getting a good supply of healthy minnows, they confronted Mr. Widney and invited him to help perform the experiment. He told them where to put the minnows, and four minutes after they were placed in the water all signs of life was exterminated.

Mr. Widney was taken before Justice Patterson, and after much argument only the penalty was fixed at

Bank of Marlinton Builds $10,000 Vault

With the completion of a new vault, costing in the neighborhood of $10,000, the Bank of Marlinton now offers its customers protection equivalent to that found in any bank in the country. One month ago, a contract was let to A. G. Killingsworth, local contractor, for the construction of the vault, and he immediately set to work renovating the banking room, and constructing the massive fire-proof walls of the vault. The huge door at the entrance of the new security chamber is built of two kinds of steel, one layer of which can not be penetrated by the most powerful torch. On the inside is another safe in which money is kept, and it is so uniquely arranged that day time burglars would find it impossible to gain

Mr. Forrest Pritchard, manager of the store, sent to Staunton, Va., for blood hounds and when they arrived they followed a trail to Olive, the site of an old lumber town a few miles north of Durbin. Here the dogs seemed to lose the scent and the man hunt was abandoned. No other trace or clue as to the identity of the thieve was found until Sunday morning when Lloyd Kisner, of Frank, had a saddle stolen from the back of his horse which was tied to a post at the ear of his place.

Kisner followed tracks leading from where the horse was tied to Mountain Lick Run, where he discovered a camp in the woods.

He noticed a new thermos bottle and some other articles which tallied with a description of the stolen goods from the Durbin Mercentile store, so immediately notified Deputy Sheriff

HOSPITAL NOTES

National Hospital Day was observed by our hospital, Friday, May 12, by open house all day, and while the morning hours did not give promise for many visitors, as it was raining, the afternoon cleared and about 150 guests called.

National Hospital Day is in remembrance of the first nurse, Florence Nightingale, who gave up the luxuries and the flattery of the English Court life, and went to the Crimea, and nursed the soldier boys, lifting them from the filth and squalor of an unsanitary military camp, to some degree of cleanliness, and back to health. Her work has stood out to the nursing world as an incentive to thousands of young women to take up this work, and while they may be unable to be a Florence Nightingale, many women in the profession are doing just as great work without the applause of the nations.

This day has been set aside when the hospitals, big or little, all over the country are encouraged to demonstrate their worth to the public. On this day the public becomes—not patients—but the guests of the hospital. They do more to inspire confidence, respect, and appreciation of our institution than any month of the year. This relationship must be cultivated and nurtured with all those careful concerns that a good hospital

TEACHERS UNIFORM EXAMS. TO BE HELD HERE ON MAY 25 & 26

Examinations To Start At Eight O'Clock In Morning—Teachers Should Take Examinations Either In May or June Term

The first uniform examination for teachers will be held at the grade school building in Marlinton on May 25 and 26, beginning at 8:00 o'clock according to an announcement made here this week by County Superintendent C. E. Flynn.

The state board of education, at its meeting on May 13 and 14, ruled that on and after the first day of July, 1918, all applications for second and third grade elementary certificates by examination unless they have taught five or more years, should have credits for four units of high school work and eight semester hours of approved professional work.

Because this information does not seem to be known generally throughout the state, the superintendent of free schools has ruled that this requirement will not be in effect prior to July 1st. It will, therefore, not apply to applicants taking examinations on May 25 and 26 and on June 20 and 21.

The superintendent has ruled also that he will not exercise his authority granted to him to accept grades from high school and other schools in lieu of grades made on examinations. Applicants therefore, will be required to take examination in all subjects named by law for certificates.

There will be no action taken

HEARS. AND THINK OF THE BILLIONS OF TONS OF ROCK AVAILABLE IN PUTNAM COUNTY!

I am given to gloominess, at times approaching despair. I heard a blind minister address a gathering the other evening. He followed that with a selection of difficult music on the piano, which he played beautifully, masterfully. I was told he had degrees from two institutions of higher learning. The man was cultured, engaging, inspiring to an unusual degree. I thought of the great difficulty he had so completely surmounted and, the more I thought of it, the more ashamed I became, sitting there feeling sorry for myself while this man was pushing onward to higher and nobler things. The truth is that most of us amount to nothing because we are lazy and unwilling to use the gifts of God.

CLIFFORD SHARP CLEARED OF CHARGES OF MURDER HERE

Clifford Sharp, of Frost, who was being tried for the killing of Leroy Sprouse near Frost, last June, was cleared of all charges against him by a jury which took more than three and a half hours to reach a verdict.

Sharp was tried at the October term of circuit court and the jury failed to agree, hanging seven to five, and was dismissed. This trial started on Monday of last week and continued throughout Thursday, when it was given to the jury at nine o'clock Friday morning.

When the verdict was returned and read, Judge Brown, who presided in place of Judge S. H. Sharp, called Sharp to the stand and shook his hand and congratulated him on his victory.

We present herewith a list of the streams closed against fishing in the five counties adjoining Pocahontas.

These small tributaries or feeder streams have been closed and properly posted and will be used as a refuge or breeding ground for various species of fish native to the particular section where the streams are closed.

Sportsmen will not fish these streams that have been closed and you will be doing yourself and your commission a great service if you will report any and all persons found fishing in any of these closed streams.

It is the opinion of the commission that none of the bass streams of the state should be fished for any kind of fish during the spawning season of April, May and June. While the commission has not made that a state-wide ruling, it has, when petitioned by local groups of sportsmen.

the

While the commission has not made that a state-wide ruling, it has, when petitioned by local groups of sportmen, made this ruling in regards to a number of streams. Notwithstanding that there are some bass streams open to fishing for other species during these months, the commission hopes that all true sportmen will refrain from fishing during these three months on account of the danger of hooking and injuring the brood bass.

MRS. CORNELIE BUZZARD IS KILLED INSTANTLY TUESDAY

Mrs. Cornelie Buzzard Hayes, wife of the late Franklin Hayes, of near Marlinton, was instantly killed Tuesday morning about 10 a. m., when she was struck by an automobile driven by John B. Ham, an electrical engineer for the Ford Motor Co., of Curtistown, Pa., when Mr. Ham lost control of his car on the icy road near Swago.

Mrs. Hayes was going toward Buckeye, presumably for groceries, when the accident happened. The car was going down the hill in the same direction and when Mr. Ham sounded his horn, it was stated that Mrs. Hayes stepped from the side into the road and when the car started to go around her she was caught by the bumper and thrown into the guard railing, crushing her skull and it is thought that her neck was broken, killing her instantly.

She was the daughter of Sherman Buzzard of Knapps Creek, who survives her, along with one brother, Jake Buzzard, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary E. Grimes of Cloverlick, and Mrs. Mattie A. Barnes, of Valley Center, Va.

Funeral services will be held on Saturday afternoon at the Methodist church in Marlinton, at 1:30 p. m., with interment in the Mountain View cemetery.

down their tables next winter unless there is a poor season.

It is remarkable how farmers continue to plant in excess of their own needs after all the years of discouragement. I suspect that this explains why there is usually an ample supply of the products of the soil for everybody. If the farmer was actuated by the purpose to hold down production in order to get higher prices, a crop failure would spell famine.

The government is attempting to teach him some such trick but my guess is that he will forget the trick
as soon as he is no longer paid for it.

Karl Kincaid, 30 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alice Kincaid, who live on West Main street, died in Moundsville, Tuesday, December 12th, following an operation for stomach ulcer. The young man was serving a two year prison term, and it seems rather like the irony of fate, that his death occurred at the expiration of his term. His body was brought to his home on the Sunday in which he had previously notified his family he would return.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. C. H. Parker in the Methodist Church, Friday morning, December 15th, in the presence of a large crowd of relatives and friends. Burial was in the family vault. Karl is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Ralph Marshall and Clarence, Charlotte, Maryanne and Mable.

All attended the funeral except Gertrude, who is in Chicago where she has a position. Interment was made in Oakland cemetery, Darbin.

Lambert-Whitlock;

Miss William Gertrude Whitlock, youngest daughter of Mrs. C. P. Kerr, became the bride of Odeth H. Lambert on Wednesday, November 29.

The ceremony uniting the two young people in marriage was performed by the Rev. O. L. Couchenour, pastor of the M. E. Church, south, and took place at the home of the groom's brother, Mr. Rennie Lambert. Miss Whitlock wore a gown of blue crepe de-chine, with harmonizing accessories.

The newly married couple will register at the home of the groom's father, William Lambert, for the present.

This is one of the few counties of the state putting on a regular testing program in the schools, which is now made mandatory by the state board of education in all standard schools of the state. In this county, the system has been worked out to the place where pupils may be promoted to high school on test grades. Superintendent Flynn has given instructions to all his teachers that eighth grade pupils making an average of 80% will be exempt from the diploma examination. This same system was carried out last year with excellent results as shown by the grades of the freshmen in high school this year. All grade pupils making an average of 75% on the tests sent out each month are entitled to promotion to the next grade at the end of the term. These incentives have had a tendency to stimu-

KILLS FOUR BEAR

Arthur Townsend had a streak of luck Saturday, when he sighted a mother bear and three fine cubs while hunting in the vicinity of Middle Mt. Townsend was accompanied by McClelland Mullenax and a man from Charleston on the hunting trip; but was alone at the time he ran into the bear. He succeeded in killing all four; and generously divided the meat and pelts with his companions.

Townsend said the mother put up a stiff fight to protect the cubs; and that it took some quick thinking to get all four of them single handed.

COUNTY CORN AND POTATO SHOW HELD HERE LAST
SAT. PROVES BIG SUCCESS

The Pecos County Corn and Potato Show, Held Here Every Year, Is Proving Beneficial To Farmers

The annual county corn and potato show held in the High school gymnasium last Saturday, November 14th, was very much of a success. The potato show was much larger and better than it has ever been. The corn show, while not the largest ever held, was the best.

Mr. Friant and Dr. Pehlman from the College of Agriculture, judged the corn. Mr. Crane and Mr. Westover, also from the college, judged the potatoes. In the afternoon Mr. Westover gave a short talk on "Preparation of land for potatoes" emphasizing the fact that if we expect to really grow big crops of potatoes we must first get the ground in proper condition and this may take several years. He and Mr. Crane both advised the men present that they must not think of potatoes as a crop that they can grow for one year and get rich. If farmers are interested in growing potatoes they should start with the idea of staying with it for a long period of years. Mr. Pehlman gave an interesting talk on "Soil life or bacteria in the soil."

Tammany Hall has never represented anything but its own pocket. Pretending to be Democratic, it worked for years in corrupt alliance with a corrupt Republican party machine in New York. It was not until the old leadership of the Republicans was thrown out and new men placed in control of that organization, that there was a real chance to defeat Tammany.

Originally a social organization, founded in the very early days when the "Republicans" and "Democrats" were first introduced.

A hundred years ago it stood for all that was best in the social and political life of the city. "The Fall" was a meeting place for the artistic, literary and intellectual life of the city. But control of Tammany fell into corrupt hands, and it gradually became a mere instrument of graft and thievery.

It takes a good deal to stir up the people of New York City. Seven million persons, of diverse interests and many racial strains, have little in common. That made it easy for Tammany to carry on its campaign of public plunder. But even New Yorkers get tired, after a while, of being robbed.

DURBIN GETS PROJECT

Sixty five men who have been out of work for some time, were given a chance to earn a living once more, when work was begun Monday morning on sewage system in Durbin. The civil works appropriated by the administration, makes this possible, as the town has not had sufficient funds heretofore to put in an adequate sewerage system.

The men started working on the ditch leading from the main sewer to the Greenbrier River, where a drainage will be made at a point east of the C & O. Railroad bridge crossing the west fork of the river.

E.L. Fenton, Mayor, is suprintendent of the project, and it is mainly through his prompt action, that this work was secured for the town of Durbin. When it is completed, no real community will have a better water and sanitar system in the state, and they may well have cause to be proud of their progressive little municipality.

Drought Area Cattle May Be Pastured In Pocahontas County

The county agent has received information that the State Relief Administration is in a position to enter into agreements with farmers to pasture cattle from the drought stricken areas for a definite length of time. These cattle if brought in here will be taken up late next fall and killed and canned for relief distribution. While it is appreciated that Pocahontas County is very dry at this time, any farmer who could pasture some yearlings or two year old cattle at a reasonable rate per head is advised to get in touch with the county agent at once.

MONONGAHELA IS THE LARGEST FOREST IN EASTERN PART OF U. S.

With the approval of the purchase of 50,972 more acres by the National Forest Reservation Commission in Washington, recently, the Monongahela National Forest in West Virginia and Virginia, becomes the largest unit east of the Mississippi river.

This latest acquisition makes the total acreage of the Monongahela almost 650,000 acres and covers a wide range from Hardy county, in West Virginia, to Highland county in Virginia. At the same time 7,861 acres were added to the George Washington Forest which extends into both states.

Most of the additional grants to the Monongahela Forest are said to be located in Pocahontas and Webster counties and further increases the necessity of establishing a fourth Ranger District in the Monongahela. This is said to have been under consideration for some time, although no definite action has been approved. Marlinton was suggested as the headquarters for such a district, dividing the Greenbrier and Gauley districts and including much of the newly acquired land.

WHEN YOU HIRE A MAN, HIRE AN ENROLLEE!

The above slogan is intended for employes in West Virginia, to whom are heartily commended the 63 men who will leave Camp Seneca, June 30 after having served over a year as enrollees. A survey of the projects completed by the forestry department, as shown in Superintendent Griffith's report, will indicate that these men have the training to make them useful in any sort of business, particularly where outside work is to be done. Our enrollees have been hardened by exposure to mountain weather, and by thirty hours of hard work every week. They have shown an ability to "take it" which is much needed in modern industrial life.
Again, we urge you, "when you hire
a man, hire an enrollee."

BUCKEYE ALLIGATORS WIN SUNDAY 40 TO 6 OVER BRUSHY FLAT

TO PLAY CAMP SENECA SUNDAY

The Buckeye "Alligators" opened the gate to the hit and run field last Sunday and let themselves in for a big victory over the Brushy Flat "Sluggers" to the extent of forty seven hits, which netted them a 40 to 6 victory over the lads from up the river. The "port side" delivery of Marshall, Alligator hurler, kept the "sluggers" on the wagon at all times during the game. The big bats of Marshall, Palmer, Kenney, McGraw and McNeill kept the roads around the bases warm with hits that usually came when the bases were loaded.

The 'Gators' will play the C.C.C. Camp Seneca, Sunday June 17th. at the camp athletic field.

HEADLINES

As a candidate and as president of the United States Franklin D. Roosevelt has repeatedly promised the people of the nation "domestic tranquility" and "industrial recovery". In glancing over several daily papers within the few days our attention has been attracted by the following headlines:

Big strike threatens Industries; Pickets At Drilling Plant Defy Troops; Little Progress Made in Effort To Prevent Strike; Steel And Textile Immiment; Wagner acts To Prevent Wtlkout; To Strike If N. R. A. Order Curtailing Production Is Placed Into Effect; Troops Renew Toledo Vigil To Stop Riot; Cleveland Riot Center as Taxi Drivers Strike; Ohio Guardsmen Maintain Vigil; Fear New Riot.

Is this any indication that Mr. Roosevelt is succeeding in giving the people of this nation "Domestic Tranquility" and "Industrial Recovery"?

PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT

When President Roosevelt

giving the people of this nation "Domestic Tranquility" and "Industrial Recovery"?

PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT

When President Roosevelt signed the National Recovery Act he said: "The second part of this act gives employment to a vast program of work. Our studies show that we should be able to hire many men at once and step up to about 1,000,000 new jobs by October 1st."

On October first the total number of men employed on federal public works was 50,000; and these 50,000 were employed at Hoover day on private contracts and had been when the act was passed.

Consequently, in November the President issued a proclamation setting up a Civil Works Administration and directing the 4,000,000 men be put to work immediately and kept at the work until February.

This scurrying along to find something, anything for them to do, sending them out in huge crews without tools, the scandal, waste, graft, the political tools, the competition for workers with private industries and final determination of the administration to abandon the whole program as rapidly as possible and recent history.

Meanwhile the Public Works Administration had gradually begun to put men to work after its funds of $3,300,000,000 had been allocated. The Administration has finally learned by bitter experience what President Hoover knew without trying it - that reliance upon public works to provide emergency employment would be disappointing. In his first message in 1928 President Hoover declared that a public works program should be planned long in advance of need and urge that planning be started then. Con-

DILLINGER IS MOWED DOWN BY FEDERAL MEN IN CHICAGO. SUN.

John Dillinger, the Indiana desperado, ended his career Sunday night at the point of 15 department of justice guns in front of a small north side theatre.

The special detail of expert marksmen designated months ago to stop the depredations of Dillinger met him as he came out of the Biograph theatre and slew him on the sidewalk.

Their chief, Melvin H. Purvis, was there and immediately identified him as the outlaw.

The government men had laid in wait for Dillinger for two and one-half hours after receiving word that he had entered the movie house, a small affair.

A woman was shot and seriously wounded by the government guns and taken to the Grant hospital. She was said to have been struck by a stray bullet.

Government agents refused to let anyone look at the body of the dead man. It was taken to Alexian Brothers hospital. It was still in the ambulance and no one could get near it.

Neighbors of the place, suspicious of the actions of the non-uniformed government men, notified the Eshelby police station. A squad rushed to the theatre, but were soon advised of the authority of Purvis' men, that the raid was not a "stickup", but to hang around "and watch the fun."

Then the bank robber came out and was shot in his tracks.

The picture Dillinger had been watching was "Manhattan Melodrama," a story of New York gamblers and underworld characters.

The death of swashbuckling John Dillinger Sunday marked the journey for the most dangerous desperado of the decade.

The machine-gunning outlaw and his gang raided the country for banks, holding police officers at gunpoint with offwas a known—a leering man of 31 with a hatred for law engendered during his nine years of incarceration. A year later few world figures were more widely publicized.

Dillinger engineered the escape of 10 former fellow convicts from the Indiana state prison on Sep. 25, 1933. But they emerged to find him a prisoner himself—in the Lima, O., jail, where he was held for bank robbery. Four of the fellows, John Hamilton, Harry Pierpont, Charley Mackley and Russell Clark hurried to the lockup on Oct. 12 and demanded his liberty. Sheriff Jess Sarber resisted and was shot to death.

Picking up recruits, the liberated Dillinger and his thugs ranged ruthlessly through Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin, robbing and plundering. Authorities have estimated their booty in that swift campaign at $500,000—most of it carried out of banks in daring raids.

and Wisconsin, robbing and plundering. Authorities have estimated their booty in that swift campaign at $500,000—most of it carried out of banks in daring raids.

They established hideouts in Chicago but darted out periodically to increase their riches. Sergeant W. T. Shanley happened upon Hamilton in the gang's garage and was slain. A "Dillinger detail" was immediately formed by the Chicago police department and its 50 crackshot members set out to bring the outlaws in. They raided an apartment on Dec. 21, slaying Lewis Katzewitzn, Sam Ginsburg and Charles Tilden, ex-convicts, who they had been certain were Dillinger and two lieutenants. Still searching, officers slew "Handsome Jack" Klutas, a mob leader affiliated with Dill-

The gangsters, Dillinger in the van, swooped down on an East Chicago, Ind., bank on Jan. 14 and shot Patrolman William O'Malley to death. Aroused authorities massed their forces to strike, but the marauders evaded the blow by fleeing to the southwest. But Dillinger, Makley, Clark & Pierpont were caught in the bloodless coup carried out by police at Tucson, Ariz. Pierpont, Makley and Clark were sent to Ohio, and tried for the Sarber murder. The former pair were sentenced to death; Clark to life imprisonment. Dillinger was rushed to the jail at Crown Point, Ind.

While preparations went forward to try him for the O'Malley slaying, Dillinger whittled a wooden pistol. He whipped it out on March 3, cowed some 33 inmates and keepers, seized several machine guns and walked out. Accompanied by Herbert Youngblood, negro jail mate, he went to a nearby garage, commandeered Sheriff Lillian Holley's car and wheeled away. Deputy Sheriff Ernest Blunk and Edward Saagers, garage attendant, were carried along as far as Peotone, Ill., and there thrown out.

A nation-wide search was launched. Dillinger was reported to have been seen in uncounted places. Attorney General Cummins criticized Indiana officials; a special grand jury investigation of the break was begun.

Meanwhile, Dillinger was chased by the Chicago police on March 3, wounded in the shoulder while plundering the Mason City, Iowa, bank on March 14; and forced a physician to treat his hurts at St. Paul on March 14.

Youngblood engaged in a death duel with officers on March 16, at Port Huron, Mich. He slew Under-sheriff Charles Cavanaugh but was slain himself.

Government operatives trapped Dillinger, Eugene Green and a woman companion in a St. Paul apartment March 31. The outlaw bulled his way out behind a withering barrage of bullets. Green succumbed to his wounds on April 11, but Dillinger survived through the aid he compelled a Minneapolis doctor to administer.

INCOME TAX DRIVE STARTS AUGUST 1 BY FIELD AGENTS

The field agents of the State Tax Commissioner's office have been instructed to be prepared to make a thorough check-up on all persons who have not filed returns and paid their income tax under the Gross Income Tax Law.

For several weeks the force of the Income Division of the Revenue Department of the tax commissioner's office has been compiling a complete list of all persons who have filed returns and paid their tax. The returns of those who filed from May 27, 1933 to December 31, 1933 have been listed separately, and amended returns will be asked from all persons who filed such returns. The amended return must show the income from January 1, 1933 to December 31, 1933.

The taxpayer is authorized to deduct a full year's exemption from his gross income for the year, and take credit for the amount previously paid. State Tax Commissioner Fred L. Fox expressed the opinion that inasmuch as those who filed returns from May 27, were at that time acting in good faith, the penalty of $50 will not be imposed if the amended return is filed prior to August first.

The agents of the tax department have been instructed, however, to assess and collect a penalty of $50 on each person liable for the tax under the Gross Income Tax law, who has filed no return and on those who fail to file amended returns be-

THE FORGOTTEN TAXPAYERS

—O—

Frequently of late the taxpayer has been referred to as the "forgotten man" in America. Some evidence is coming to light, however, that he will not be content to remain forgotten much longer. If he intends to survive it will be well for him to do a little squirming in the near future. Certainly his prospect is not a rosy one. Federal income taxes have been raised considerably in the past few years and the old "nuisance" taxes are with us again with all their wartime fervor. But the end is not yet.

The public debt of the United States has reached a new peak and will soon be several billions higher than ever before. The New Deal costs more money and it is going to cost considerably more money as the months fly by. And in addition to income taxes and nuisance taxes, there are the new processing taxes which fall heavily on the consumers to the theoretical benefit of the farmer—although the farmer since his cost of living is rapidly mount-

One man was instantly killed and one seriously injured in an automobile accident at Campbelltown, one mile north of Marlinton, last Saturday night at about 11:50 o'clock, when their car, a new Chevrolet sedan, turned over several times on the highway.

Clifford Shrout of Stillwell, was killed instantly, while F. H. Kyer, of Parsons, the owner and driver of the car, was severely cut about the face. Clarence Shrout, a brother of Clifford, another occupant of the car, escaped with only a cut on the hand.

Kyer was driving north over the Seneca Trail and as he came upon the curve at Campbelltown,

Seneca Trail and as he came upon the curve at Campbelltown, he saw that the car was going off the road, when the car left the road it hit a telephone pole some few feet from the highway, the car glancing off the pole and running for a few feet before it turned over.

When the crash was heard, several men rushed to the scene and released Kyer and Clarence Shrout, and found Clifford Shrout dead. Kyer was rushed to the Pocahontas Memorial hospital for medical attention, where he is reported as resting nicely.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon for Shrout from the M. E. church, south, in Marlinton.

Miss Cleona Wilfong, aged 28 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilfong, of Bartow, died Friday evening, July 8, in the Marlinton Memorial hospital, following an illness of a week. A SWIMMING POOL FOR MARLINTON?

Marlinton's City Council could hardly take better advantage of the opportunities offered by the R. F. C. than to lay plans for a municipal swimming pool that would pay for itself from the small charges imposed upon those who use it.

The city now owns a plot of land known as the "Island" in the town and there never has been a better time to build the pool at a low cost and on favorable terms.

Under the terms of the Industrial Recovery Act, the City may borrow from the Federal Government for a public works project by giving surety in the form of revenue bonds or may have the Government construct the project on a rental basis.

A flat grant of 25 per cent is first made available by the Federal Government after administration costs and all other deductions have been made. The municipality then pays back the loan on the remaining 75 per cent at the rate of 8 per cent a year. Of the amount paid, 3½ per cent is invested and 2½ per

A flat grant of 25 per cent is first made available by the Federal Government after administration costs and all other deductions have been made. The municipality then pays back the loan on the remaining 75 per cent at the rate of 6 per cent a year. Of the amount paid, $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent is invested and $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent principal payment.

For example, if the City of Marlinton should borrow $100,000 for a project, it would be given outright $25,000. Interest of 6 per cent would be paid on $75,000 for 25 years, $4,500 a year or $112,500. This would mean the carrying charge for 25 years would be only $12,500 or $500 a year.

E. S. Tisdale, of Charleston, chief engineer of the state health department, made the following statement at a meeting of the West Virginia League of Municipalities held in Clarksburg last week.

"The National Industrial Recovery Act was enacted primarily to give immediate relief to the unemployed. The Federal Government is willing to give you outright 30 per cent of the money to build your water works or sewerage system if you will act promptly to end unemployment in your community.

"The other 70 per cent of the cost of the project, the city can borrow at $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent interest for 25 years and the Government will take revenue bonds issued by the town as security for the loan. Water works and sewerage are looked upon with favor by the administration because of the large percentage of material and labor in them.

"The early mayor gets the money. Many West Virginia mayors have started plans of person on the average for 25 years, $4,000 a year or $112,500. This would mean the carrying charge for 25 years would be only $12,500 or $500 a year.

RAYMOND MAY KILLED IN FIGHT ON JULY 4TH

Raymond May, aged 21 years, was stabbed to death in a fight on Gibson Knob, shortly after noon on July 4.

May, with a party of friends were spending the day on the high mountain picnicing, when, it is said, he and Max Gibson, engaged in a fight, which resulted in the death of young May.

May was cut under the left arm, severing the main artery, causing him to loose a great amount of blood which caused the death.

Immediately following the affair, Trooper C. E. Hawks, accompanied by Jailor Howard McElwee, were called and Gibson was found about eight o'clock Wednesday night walking along the highway near Slaty Fork. He was immediately brought to Marlinton and lodged in jail to await a hearing, which will be held Wednesday, July 11, before Justice of the Peace T. S. McNeel.

WORLD'S BIGGEST GAMBLER

Here's the world's biggest gambler, the American farmer! He gambles with the weather, with the soil, with grasshoppers, with army worms, with grubs, and a score of other offshoots of the plagues of ancient Egypt. Every spring he takes a chance—a desperate chance. If he wins, as he does occasionally, he comes off with a big stake; if he loses, which he does more frequently, he has a chance to try again. Happily, he is a good loser, else the world would starve.

MARLINTON TO HAVE AN AIRPORT IF PROJECT IS APPROVED BY CWA OFFICIALS

The town council for Marlinton, at a special meeting held last Tuesday, completed their part of the plans for the construction of an airport for Marlinton. The site, as selected by a survey made by a government aviation representative from Charleston, will be located above the fair grounds about two miles north of here on the lands of the late Uriah Bird, estate.

The field is to be 500 feet wide and 3000 feet long, and it is estimated that the project will involve an expenditure of approximately $20,000. The port, when completed, will be almost in a direct line with the Cincinnati to Washington route, and it is hoped that Marlinton may eventually get air mail service.

The project will be done with CWA labor and the council directed A. O. Baxter to proceed at once with the surveying and work will be started and it is hoped that Mrlinton may eventulaly get air mail service.

The project will be done with CWA labor and the countil directed A. O. Baxter to proceed at once with the surveying and work will be started as soon as it is approved in Charleston.

The council received an offer from F. P. King, administrator of the Bird estate, to lease approximately thirty-four acres for the field at $2.50 an acre for a period of five years, and an option to purchase this amount at $100.00 an acre, or to sell now at a price of $20.00 an acre if the council would take a tract involving approximately one hundred acres. The reason of the wide range in price is because it would seperate a tract of land, now adjoining the farm, and leave it by itself without a right-of-way.

Birth records were set in 1934 events.

FIRST NATIONAL ELECTS OFFICERS FOR THE YEAR

The shareholders of the First National Bank in Marlinton, held their annual meeting on Tuesday, January 9, 1934 with a very large representation of the stock.

A most satisfactory improvement in business was shown by the condition of the bank.

The following were elected directors:

F T. McClintic, W. H. Barlow, M. S. Wilson, A. O. Baxter, Richard Gibson, Andrew Moore and J. A. Sydenstricker. The officers elected by the board of directors, were: F. T. McClintic, chairman of the board, W. H. Barlow, president, M. S. Wilson, vice-president, J. A. Sydenstricker cashier, and Harper M. Smith, Assistant cashier.

HARDESTY'S RETIREMENT

Howard Hardesty, who came to Marlinton to assist the West Penn in the purchase of the local Municipal Electric plant three years ago, has resigned his position as vice-president of the corporation, according to an Associated Press dispatch from the headquarters at Fairmont. Mr. Hardesty's departure from the company will be felt in Marlinton where he held the esteem of everyone, despite the fact that it was his difficult task to come here frequently to settle matters of controversial nature.

Mr. Hardesty was a success because his intense company loyalty was tempered with a practical knowledge of the employee's and the consumers' ideas of public service. His constant endeavor was to be sincerely fair. His many civic activities in his native town forced upon him the fact that there were two sides to every question. His conclusions were always honest.

Mr. Hardesty's high character has done much to establish the favorable position the West Penn now occupies in the communities it serves.

No reason was given for Mr. Hardesty's retirement, nor have his future plans been announced.

MARLINTON JOURNAL COOKING SCHOOL TO OPEN ON FEB'Y 26

Kitchen work, cooking, washing dishes, sweeping and cleaning, and putting things away get mighty monotonous. That is especially true when the housewife has to do it day after day in the same old way.

That is one of the big reasons The Marlinton Journal is staging a free cooking school February 26 and 27.

The location has not been decided upon (announcement will be made within the next few days), but every housewife who can possibly come is invited to attend all of the sessions, which will be held from 2 until 4 o'clock each afternoon.

The home economics expert who is to conduct the school, is going to bring this community some new methods of doing things, new equipment to do it with, and new menus and receipes. It is her purpose to relieve the dull monotony of everyday house-keeping and everyday cooking.

Every woman, who is interested in her home and her family, will be interested in every minute in every session of The Marlinton Journal cooking school.

"I am not coming to Marlinton on the theory that you have no good cooks," our economist writes. I know there are excellent cooks in every community. "I am not coming to Marlinton on the theory that you have no good cooks," our economist writes. I know there are excellent cooks in every community. In fact, it's hard to find better cooking than you can find in a town of this size. My only object is to bring to the women of your community some new ideas in cooking, some new dishes they can surprise their families with, and some short cuts in housework."

A model kitchen in Detroit where experiments are held constantly with foods and with new equipment will constitute the foundation of this school.

It is the experience in this model kitchen that is being brought to Marlinton. Most housewives are too busy to experiment. They have to go too quickly from one meal into the pre-and lent the facilities to experiment.

Since the announcement of the free cookign school many housewives in this community have expressed gratification at the prospect of the two-day affair.

Aside from the education features of the school there is a social side as well. It will provide a place for friends to meet. "Gossip" sessions usually follow the regular "business" sessions of the school.

At least, after every session, practically every person in the audience gathers around to inspect the dishes that have been prepared. Nearly everybody asks questions about the methods of preparation.

TAX-EATERS

The army of tax-eaters all over the country is growing larger and more impudent in its assumption of special privilege. We are not referring to the millions who are subsisting on what amounts to a "dole" at public expense, the workers in the CCC, the men and women employed by the CWA and those vast armies who do not work at all for what they receive from the public funds, although the cost of maintaining them is a heavy enough burden on the taxpayers, in all conscience.

We have in mind the public employees who are supposed to be the public's servants but who too often assume they are the public's masters. Many of them are entrenched behind the security of civil service laws, originally designed to prevent the unfit and incompetent from finding places on the public payrolls but, latterly becoming a barrier to the removal from office of anyone, however unfit he or she may be for the post.

It seems to us that everyone should have a clear understanding of the undeniable fact that nobody has an unassailable title to any job for which the compensation comes from the taxpayers. It is all very well to say that these public employees work

OLD TIME WOOD CUTTING

The worry of wood cutting disappeared from the mind of Rev. D.R. Carder of Edray, when a group of enthusiastic men and boys gathered at the parsonage Thursday, January 18, with axes, cross cut saws and a wood saw, and marched to the pine oak forest on Mr. George Aldridges farm. With the love and Co-operative spirit that exists at Cameltown, Edray and the surrounding country, they cut a supply of wood which will keep the parsonage comfortable the balance of the winter.

Mr. Aldridge would like to have been present but illness prevented his coming.

Not only did the men show a spirit of co-operation but the women also. A number of them came to the parsonage and assisted Mrs. Carder in preparing a good dinner which they

CORN-HOG REDUCTION PROGRAM MEETING

A few meetings are being held over the county this week to acquaint farmers with the corn-hog reduction program, and the principles back of this work. To be eligible a farmer must have produced during 1932 and 1933 an average of more than ten acres of corn or during the same period an average of at least four litters of pigs.

Not very many farmers in this county are eligible. However, a few farmers indicate they want to take part. Anyone who wants further details should get in touch with the county agent.

CWA PROJECT IN COUNTY TO BUILD SANITARY LATRINES

CWA Project number 2 provides for a sanitary organization in each county of West Virginia, its immediate objective the building of a sanitary latrine, the only cost to the owner being a moderate one for materials, all labor and carpentry work being provided free of cost.

The County Court of Pocahontas County, at its meeting on Tuesday, endorsed by resolution the movement, which is in fact only carrying out the provisions of West Virginia laws which regulate sanitary disposal of human excreta. The County Board of Health at its meeting of the same day pledged support to the carrying out energetically the intent of the project.

It is an opportunity for every householder to secure a needed improvement at a very small cost, at the same time aiding in the forwarding of an important community sanitation.

All persons wishing to take advantage of the offer, address Federal Sanitation Project, CWA, Lewisburg, W. Va.,

Newton Lockridge, Minnehaha, is in charge of building operations in Pocahontas county.

danger and needs trimming is as yet a matter of opinion. Mr. Roosevelt's success as a practical politician is largely due to the fact that he does not come out of this session of Congress will be more and forceful leadership under which the opposition can be effectively organized.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS

The State Department of Health and the Federal Relief Agencies of West Virginia solicit your cooperation in the installation of a sanitary privy at such places on your property as sanitary improvements may be needed. This improvement is necessary for the protection of the health of those who reside on the premises as well as for the protection of the health of others who live in the community.

The labor necessary for the installation of a standard sanitary privy, to conform with specifications approved by the State Department of Health, may be furnished in part or in whole without cost to you. It will be necessary, however, that the material need for use on your property be furnished at your expense. In some instances it will be possible to make use of available sound lumber which may be reclaimed from abandoned buildings.

This notice is being given you by a representative of the State Department of Health who will be glad to advise with you as to the kind and quality of material needed. We shall appreciate your assistance and cooperation in our attempt to make West Virginia a cleaner and more healthy state in which to live.

SCHOOLS IN POCAHONTAS COUNTY CAN RUN 6½ MONTHS

The accompanying table shows just how much school each county can have, the state paying basic salaries for four months (as it now does) and the county boards of education levying the maximum amount for the support of schools under allocations of levies as provided in the new Enactment Act, House Bill number 234.

Assurances have been given from time to time that the schools will be taken care of, that they will not be allowed to close. However, it is apparent that if our schools are to operate for the regular term it will be necessary for the state to provide from direct sources additional funds.

Do you want your child to have nine months of schooling; do you not believe that it will be to the best interest of West Virginia to provide the opportunity for every child to have an equal term of school with

I estimate that approximately 7,000,000 men take out lion trophies each year, every year, while more than 100 million are interested in the game. If the New York Game Law is extended to the lion, it will produce the larger leisure for every man who has promised, together with a surplus income with which to enjoy that leisure, the number of hunters and trophy men will be greatly increased. That will make the movement for the conservation and protection of wild life even more important.

It is pointed out that many farmers because of their involved financial situation will require assistance from both the federal land bank and the farm loan commissioner's agent, and in order that this may be accomplished with the least possible inconvenience to the prospective borrower, the agent has selected the secretary treasurer of the Local National Farm Loan Association for his representative. A further reason is added to the fact that the federal land bank and the other land banks

While I should like to see our rich men who have evaded just income taxes thrown into jail with Mr. Al Capone, yet I find it difficult to prevent my sympathies from running out o Banker Mitchell. I haven't the least doubt but that there would be several hundred thousand put behind the bars if all who have evaded income taxes were made to suffer the penalty of thir misdeeds. Mitchell is probably no worse or better than the rest of them. The start has to be made somewhere. It is only on the assumption that his conviction will be followed by energetic efforts to catch others that I can excuse his prosecution. I don't believe in making examples of individuals, forcing them to suffer vicariously.

The result of the prohibition reveal election in New York and elsewhere leaves little room for speculation as to the outcome. Probably no state in the union will vote "dry,"
 if all states are given an opportunity to vote by reluctant legislatures. The unanimous vote for repeal in many New York precincts is not one of those things that just happen. Whether mistaken or not, this indicates the voters have decided convictions on this subject that no argument can shake. West Virginia will not go "wet" by any such percentage as has New York, but that it will go "wet"

as certain as the arrival of elec-shower cold water on sincere drys;

 in fact I should wish to commend them for the persistence with which they battle for a lost cause, although I am myself convinced, that the attempt to make this a dry country by influences that will make this a temperate nation.

A large number of business men seem to have discarded the notion that honesty is the best policy and have adopted another—skin 'em, while the skinning is good.

In the end it will be found that dishonesty does not pay. Our social order cannot be held together with a creed of that kind. More and more men will be allured by the apparent success of those who engage in dishonest business practices. After a time there will be no honest men left to skin—or not enough of them to sustain the dishonest horde. Then, of course, the whole economic fabric will go to pot.

Seeing how devious is the path and uncertain the result I wonder that more men do not voluntarily forsake dishonesty and turn to better standards, even when they have not been properly trained. I can imagine a man doing unlawful things, but I cannot imagine his deliberately doing a dishonest thing.

DURBIN NEWS

Conservation Corps Arrives:

The 521st company of the Civilian Conservation Corps, enroute to Camp Thornwood, arrived in Durbin at eight o'clock Saturday morning in a special train from Camp Knox. The boys were in charge of First Lieutenant R. A. Machle, First Lieutenant E. R. Sutton and Second Lieutenant J. W. B. Simmons.

Besides these officers, the company numbered 185 enrolled and four regular army enlisted men. Most of the men and boys headed for the work in the Monongahela forest, seemed in good spirits and went about the task of loading equipment and supplies in trucks for their final destination at Camp Thornwood, a few miles east of Durbin, after they had been served coffee and apples at the station.

Most of those enrolled, hailed from various parts of West Virginia with a few from Virginia, and were mere boys of high school age, judging from appearance, with a sprinkling of older men here and there in the company.

The tasks to which they will be allotted will be designated entirely by the forestry department, during their stay in the conservation camp.

THE TURN OF THE TIDE

Prices have begun to rise. That is the best news the country has had in three years. The rise has started where it ought to start, with the basic products of agriculture. Wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, tobacco, rice, dairy products, have all started upward. Some are raising faster than others, but all are showing an upward tendency.

We do not think that this is merely another "false alarm." We believe that factors have been brought into play which will put prices up still higher, until we reach somewhere near the level of 1926. That is what those in charge of the nation's destinies are aiming at we are told. That would mean that the average of commodity prices would be more than double present prices, in some instances, half to two-thirds higher in others.

Starting with the products of agriculture, the rise in prices is bound to extend to industrial products. For when the farmer begins to get a profit from his operations he can begin to pay up his back taxes and mortgage interest, to buy the commodities he and his family require. Money thus put into circulation enables others, in turn, to buy at prices which mean a profit to the seller. That means that manufacturers can start up their factories again.

We have never felt there was much to the argument that people have stopped wanting to buy things. The only reason they have stopped buying is lack of money to buy with. There is not and never has been "overproduction" in the sense that more commodities were produced than people wanted. Our whole social system is built upon multiplying wants and as money circulates again people will

The tax rate on money notes, bonds, bills and accounts receivable, stocks and other intangible personal property is 37½ cents on each $100.00 of valuation outside municipalities and 50 cents on each $100.00 of valuation of this class of property within municipalities. It is very important that the owners of this class of property return the same for taxation this year for the following reasons:

First—It is not subject to any forfeiture penalty arising prior to January 1, 1933.

Second—If not returned this year and subsequent years it is subject to a 5% forfeiture penalty which amounts to ten times the maximum annual tax.

Third—No suit can be brought in any court of record on any note, bond or account unless the same has been returned for taxation.

April brought something besides machines and "ramps" to Durbin. The thirsty can now wet their whistles with 3.2 in the restaurant of Hotel Durbin, along with a cheese sandwich and a plate of pretzels. So far, this is the only place which has been granted license, but rumor has it, there are others to follow suit. Lafayette Fitzpatrick Hled On Bond of $5,000 As Assailant—Shot Enters Chest—Dies Instantly

On last Sunday afternoon at about 6:45 p. m., Lafayette Fitzpatrick shot and killed Golden O. Williams, 26 years of age, at the home of Charley Simmons, near Slaty Fork.

Fitzpatrick and Williams got into an argument, which later ended in the death of Williams. It is said that Williams threatened to kill the Simmons family along with Fitzpatrick, and pile them on the floor together.

Immediately after the shooting, Fitzpatrick called the local state police to come and get him and told them what he had done. The local police brought him to Marlinton and placed him in jail for a hearing on Wednesday, where he pleaded self defense and was returned to jail in default of $5,000 bond.

Williams' people were notified of the shooting but no word was received from them and burial was made today (Thursday) at Marlinton.

COUNTY VOTES WET ALONG WITH THE REST OF STATE

Twenty Precincts of Thirty in County Vote Wet—West Marlinton Has Largest Dry Vote With Thornwood Having the Largest Majority

Pocahontas county, along with the state, last Tuesday, voted down prohibition, which has been in force in the state for a number of years.

Pocahontas county's vote was not as large as was expected for the wet side of the ballot, and the dries were able to hold the wets to the small margin of 352 vote lead at the final count. Of the 7048 voters registered in Pocahontas county, only 2930 went to the polls to vote, or forty-one and a fraction percent of the entire registration.

Thornwood in Greenbank district gave the largest majority wet votes as that of any other precinct in the county with a seven to one majority. Loxalia gave the largest majority for the dries, with approximately two and a half to one.

State Results

Although the rural folk of West Virginia stood staunchly by their prohibition principles, their votes were lost Tuesday in a smother of ballots that indicated West Virginia will be the fifteenth state to ratify national repeal.

More than half of the state's 2334 precincts gave the twenty-first amendment a majority of 68,061. In 1211 precincts the vote was 128,943 for repeal and 73,982 against.

Seventeen counties, most of them sparsely populated and all of them rural, turned in varying majorities for retention of the eighteenth amendment. The larger counties where the mines, steel mills, glass plants and other industries are located offered wet leads that rang as high as four to one.

Voting on prohibition for the first time since 1912 when it gave 97 per cent majority for the state bone dry amendment, the panhandle state appeared headed for a complete right-about-face. The election, however, will have no effect on the state prohibition law.

Not a county listed as industrial or as a large mining center was reported as a dry stronghold. Some of them are timber counties, others are located in the agricultural Ohio valley and the others are largely rural with a few mines in some of them. Lewis, Gilmer and Boone, in the heart of the oil and gas fields, also gave dry majorities.

West Virginia is the first state below the Mason-Dixon line to vote on repeal. Most of those counties that border on southern states voted wet, although Monroe was dry and there was a fairly close race in Mercer. Both of them border on Virginia. "The Old Dominion."

Second C. C. C. Camp Established.

A special train carrying the boys enrolled in the civilian conservation camp, located on Cheat Mountain, arrived early Friday morning from Camp Knox, Ky. This is the second camp to be established in this vicinity, the first being located at Thornwood, seven miles east of Durbin. The 224 boys making up Co. 1536 on Cheat, are from Portsmouth, Iron- ton, and other parts of Ohio, with a few from West Virginia, and are in charge of Captain G. Cronander. Captain Cronander is assisted by Captain Page, camp physician.

The newly located camp had a number of local visitors, Sunday, and those who talked with the boys said the enrollees were delighted with the prospects of spending the summer on the mountain project, which will be clearing a 100 foot right-of-way for fire protection, on the W. Maryland R. R. branch from Bemis to Bergon. They are well pleased with the army crew, and one youngster from Portsmouth said this was the first time he had eaten square meals, three times a day, for many a moon.

Sunday evening a number of the boys from both camps attended the M. E. church south, where they were addressed by Woodrow Herold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Locke Herold. Attended Alumni Reunion.

Leon Czolgoz, murderer of President William McKinley, was electrocuted in the state prison at Auburn, N. Y., October 29, 1901. After an autopsy his body was buried in quicklime in the prison lot in an Auburn cemetery. Charles Guiteau, who killed President Garfield, drew up a will shortly before he was hanged on June 30, 1882, in which he left the disposition of his body to Rev. Joe Sharp, of Stamping Creek, was in town the other day, full of a panther story to tell me. I was out of town. However, he told a neighbor to bring me the news, and I think I can get it straight.

At the beginning of the open season on deer, Joe took his party to his old hunting ground on Middle Fork of the Williams. He lined his drivers out and went ahead to put the standers. When everything was set, the time up for the beater to begin his walk and his noise to drive the deer from cover and out of the run ways. Joe heard his driver make a lot of awful screams. After a while he came up but he had stirred no deer. Upon being asked what his screams meant, he said he had stirred up a panther and was answering it regular to bring it out of cover, in hopes of getting a shot. The panther would

getting a shot. The panther would converse with him but would not come in shooting distance in the thick cover. It did come close enough once for to see the brush shake as it walked along.

The hunting party gathered together and went back to see what was what. Looking around they came upon the remains of a yearling deer
the panther had killed and almost eaten up. There were tracks of two sizes around the carcass. One about the bigness of a yearling bear, and the others much smaller. The hunters read the sign to be that of a big mother panther and her young.

Being in deer woods, Joe had left his pack of bear dogs at home, and there was no snow to track up the varments by hand and foot.

Then they began to take notice of the deer sign. They found all the tracks leading in one direction. The deer were leaving out from that country.

In the course of a year, that panther family will kill and eat more deer—mostly small ones—than all the thousands of hunters killed in Pecos County this deer season. These dangerous animals should be and must be wiped out. I will talk to the State Game Commission about offering a sizable bounty for panther scalps.

Our commission is doing a good work in planting deer in various parts of the state, at a cost of $50 and more per head. A panther will require from twenty to forty deer a year to keep him going, and more if a family is raised. That makes him a pretty expensive proposition. I know the panther had a place in nature's economy scheme to eat the surplus deer and assist the wolf in keeping them on the move and spread them over the country. But man is tending to that chore more or less effectively now. There may be a few places in Pocahontas where deer have become sufficiently plentiful to be in danger of a plague coming on them, but where these panthers range, the country is so wild and big that there are no deer to spare to the panthers for years to come.

For the past several years, panthers and panther also have been reported

For the past several years, panthers and panther sign have been reported from various parts of the black forest. I never gave up the idea that these animals had ever entirely left this country. As deer increase in number, the panther will sooner or later reappear.

Three or four years ago Dr. Paul H. Price, of the University, Ed C. Moore and Walter Mason of Marlinton, were sitting on the big rock at the John Beverage hole on the North Fork of Cranberry. It was the cool of the evening. They had been engaged in some sort of geological research work. They had a small rifle, but it was safe on the far side of the creek, while the men took their ease after a hard day. They heard a noise and saw that an able, twelve stone cat had come down the creek and approached within a few paces. The panther looked deliberately at them, went slowly back up stream, leaped to the top of a great rock, looked again, and then disappeared in the forest. There was a scramble for the gun, but it could not be had in time. This place was not over a dozen miles from the place Mr. Sharp saw the panther sign this month.

They tell a tale on a party of hunters who followed a hog track a while far around Elk Knob, thinking it was one powerful buck deer. This is the big white bear belonging to Willie Gibson, which turned native and went wild a few years ago. The last time I talked to Will, he was buying ammunition with the expectation of going out the first snow and shooting down his hog.

The killing of two wild hogs on Laurel and one on Beaver Lick Mountain has been reported. It has been years since there were wild hogs in these mountains. They had been pretty well killed out, and the string winter of 1901 seemed to freeze and starve the remnant out. In Marlinton and Hackley Mountain, Wellington and Warlick Halliday got the last ones that I knew about.

LINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, THURSD

One of these was a powerful old big boar that was really dangerous. He had reverted to type, long snout, six inch tusks, high at the shoulders, low in the hams, with bristles like finishing nails. An Englishman came on to him in a pine patch, rooting deep for pine tree roots. The hunter let the hog have a load of bird shot to make him get out of and away from there. The hog came out all right, but he did not go. He came for the hunter, charging in the ancient wild boar style. The man had to drop his gun in his hurry to climb a tree. The hog champed around all day, until some other hunters came up with a pack of hounds and drove the beast away.

Years ago there was a monster of a wild boar in the Buckley Mountain. It could run like a deer. One time hounds brought him into Marlin Bottom, and the story is that he cleared stake and rider fences like a jumping horse. It was said that Joshua Kee saw the hog coming and got in front of him to head him back from the woods. That hog ran over him like a mad bull. I never could figure out how the man escaped being cut to pieces by the slashing tusks.

In hunting wild hogs the idea in the old days was not to shoot them down in the woods unless they were real fat and fine. The procedure was to run them down with dogs, tie them up and sled them home. A few week's own feeding to a great week's corn feeding in a pen took the

My uncle Andrew McLaughlin with the help of neighbors and their hounds, finally ran the big Buckley Mountain boar down, and penned him in a strong log barn. They took the precaution to saw off his long, sharp tusks. That hog was so mean and mad and wild that it never ate a bite after being penned. He went on a hunger strike and finally died.
The carcass was dragged away to the back side of the farm, and it dried up. They told me that it was so tough the buzzards would not eat it.

owned more than two square miles of land, and could hunt all day on his own land. He was an expert gunsmith and his guns were noted for accuracy and hard shooting. Since the destruction of my Uncle Calvin Price's rifle in the fire that burned his residence, I do not know where I could place my hand on a Josh Kee rifle gun. Mr. Kee was also a stiller. Still House Run was on his land. They used to tell the tale that the old man called his product garter snake. He said it bit, but did not poison!

James Fowler was in from Williams River the other day, and brought me a willow stick the beavers had clipped off and trimmed. They had carried away the small branches to eat or to build with. They have commenced to build a house.

Things looked only tolerable like for his big dog, and Mr McCoy took out his hunting knife and went in to save the dog. He took hold of an antler with one hand and attempted to use the knife with the other. The deer left off paying attention to the dog and attempted to kill the man. He jumped around to bring the man in front of him, and the hunter would stay by his side. The deer would raise both man and dog from the ground with every jump. It was a busy time for a while. Finally the hunter got in his deadly work with his knife. If the dog had let go, the man's life would have been greatly in danger.

MINNETAHA SPRINGS

The present owners of Minnetaha Springs, Messrs. Richter and Johnson of Washington, D. C., realize the nature of its pure, healing waters; see the future demand for it; and are planning to make it a watering place worthy to bear the name of the beautiful Indian maiden, Minnehaha, bride of the brave Hiawatha. Beside the work of improvement on the spring and bathing pool, repairs to the hotel; they expect to erect a number of cottages.

Among the many prominent people who have recently visited Minnetaha Springs was Dr. Joseph Morgan, a native of Virginia, a graduate of the University of Virginia, and an eminent surgeon. Dr. Morgan expressed his delight in our beautiful country, and the wonderful spring. He said he expected to be a frequent visitor here.

The suggestion has been made that this would be an ideal place for a sanitarium.

If the owners realize their expectations in the development of this good property it will be a good investment for them and a big asset to our Minnetonka county.

That bird, Fred Hofner, sure has his 'taters. Passing a store advertising certified seed potatoes, he stopped and said to his companion, "Those potatoes are diseased."

— ALC —

Drawing his pocket knife he opened one up, and upon cutting it open found the potato black and showing signs of being dangerous to plant.

— ALC —

Mr. Hofner notified the extension agent of Nicholas county, and feel sure said store keeper will be careful in the future concerning seed he offers farmers.

— ALC —

Fred is a member of the extension board of West Virginia and are trying hard to protect the farmers of the state from merchants who buy second grade potatoes from Maine growers and pass them off as certified seed.

— ALC —

We are informed farmers demand seed potatoes that be certified by the Department of Agriculture of a state university or the State Department of Agriculture.

with their presence today, in behalf of the citizens of Marlinton and Pocahontas County.

We realize that much good will come from a better relationship between your organization and the Pocahontas County Board of Trade, and will do everything within our power to strengthen this rela-

many such gatherings between the two great organi-

Therefore, in my official capacity as mayor of the Town of Marlinton, I extend you an official

Here some of the best inland fishing in the universe is to be found, trout and bass being plentiful and a swim in the sparkling and cool waters of the mountain always is refreshing and enjoyable.

Approximately 360,000 acres of our forests have been purchased by the state and national government for parks and recreational centers and in near future this will reach the 400,000 mark. So as time goes on Poughkeepsie county will become the largest play ground in the world, with thousands of tourists visiting it each month.

With lakes having been constructed on Watoga State Park and at Camp Seneca, and cabins having been built by both the state and federal authorities, tourists will find conditions ideal. The cabins are rented for a small weekly fee by the State Conservation Commission.

vested here. According to authorities over 1,500 acres of potatoes have been planted this year and the estimated yield has been set as over 187,000 bushels. Along with livestock, potatoes form the largest part of the county's income.

Did you ever try a Pocahontas county "tater"? Augusta county produces much that Pocahontas county does not and we must purchase those commodities. Pocahontas county must depend on money from her potatoes to be able to buy what you have for sale. Wouldn't it be nice if a plan could be worked out whereby we could aid each other?

So in behalf of the Pocahontas County Board of Trade, merchants and citizens of the county, we welcome you and hope that you will visit us often.

And thanks for the meal!

Dr. Herold was born at Mill Gap, Va., June 4, 1858, a son of the late Horace F. Herold and Mrs. Milly Gilmore Herold.

He was united in marriage to Miss Ethel Lockridge of Minnehaha who with the following survive, the mother, a son, E. G., Jr., and a daughter, Miss Mary Margaret Herold.

Samuel Herold, a brother passed away a few days ago in Washington, D. C.

Dr. Herold graduated from Ohio College of Dental Surgery, Cincinnati, and had practiced his profession in Marlinton for the past twenty years.

PICNIC WILL BE HELD SATURDAY, JULY 24

Saturday, July 24, has been set as the day for the Marlinton Richwood road picnic, and the place was set as the Pocahontas county fair grounds.

At the request of the Greater Richwood Federation the Saturday date was set by the Pocahontas County Board of Trade's executive committee meeting last night.

At least five counties will be represented at this all day gathering and a crowd of three or four thousand people will be on hand.

The Richwood high school band will be here to furnish music from 9 o'clock in the morning until late that night. This beautifully uniform organization is the best school band in the state and draws large crowds to where ever it appears. Don't miss that it hearing them.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Dean attended the festival at Elkins last week. Accompanying them was Mr. Dean's mother, Mrs. Dora Dean, of Watoga.

Harrison and Denver Underwood of Beaver Creek, were business visitors on the mountain Sunday.

Mike Donn, of Watoga, spent Saturday on the mountain squirrel hunting with his brother-in-law, Raymond Dean. There is not very many squirrels this season so their luck was poor. The season is yet to early despite all the talk of what the one done to them last year. I have had reports of several mother squirrels and that were milking heavy. We have sure got some game law makers that are wise.

Woods, Lillian May, Mary Jane and Cecil Gaylor, Raymond Dean and Mrs. Lynn Kuter all attended the morning that is going on now at Cummings Creek at the Church of Feeder and Breeders in Virginia.

J. F. Gaylor was a visitor on Bear Creek one day last week.

Mrs. Dallas Stacy, of Cass, spent last week on the mountain as the guest of Mrs. Florence Gaylor. While here she and Mrs. Gaylor spent two days visiting over on Cummings Creek at the home of Lea Syms, who is her uncle and Mrs. Gaylor's father. This was Mrs. Stacy's first visit to the mountain in 10 years and she spoke of the change in things during the passing years.

Verdon Dean has returned after a months employment in and around Hillsboro in the harvest.

Miss Nettie Gaylor, who is employed in Huntersville, spent the week end at home on the mountain.

FEEDER CALF SALE WAS SUCCESSFUL

The annual Potomac Calf Sale held at the fair Wednesday, Sept. 30, was successful. There were 100 calves sold. Eighty four calves were from this county from Monroe, seven from four from Greenbrier and Fayette county.

The steer calves averaged $22 per head and the heifer calves $12 per head. Four purebred calves were sold that averaged $22 per head and three registered calves averaged $12 per head. Thirty six of these calves were purchased by men who live in the county. The other calves were sold to men in other States. Greenbrier and Monroe counties, and a number of men in Virginia.

Many farmers in the mountain range farmers in the better grade of cattle and to encourage them to produce more calves for sale, also to advertise cattle to other sections of the region. We feel that this sale has helped very greatly with this work.

Only a few lots of the best calves were shown for premiums. Below is a list of the prize winners.

GREENBANK BOWS TO LOCAL GRIDMEN FOR COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

The Marlinton high school "Copperheads" stepped out to place themselves once again in the winning column by taking the measure of the Greenbank high "Golden Eagles" to the tune of 25 to 7. The game was a thriller all the way. The "Copperheads" attack featured almost everything that was legal in football.

A passing attack featuring Evans and Simmons was the big show of the day. Out of twelve passes thrown, ten were completed.

On the offense, as well as the defense, the foe had to face the stellar playing of Simmons, "Copperhead's" right end. Simmons was one of the outstanding players of the day. Sharp and Evans of the local backfield showed the spectators just what was meant by the expression, "lugging the leather."

After summing up the game and giving all due credit to every player that deserves it the best way to express it would be of one hundred percent cooperation within the team itself.

such a fine game. At the time of

The Marlinton high school "Cop-

last week after drubbing at the hands
of Coach Sam Rice's "Green Devils"
to whip the "Fighting Senators" of Lewisburg high seven to nothing.

The game was listless for three quarters but in the last period the "Copperheads" started a march feat-

netted the lone marker of the game.

The Miles coached machine looked in every way to be superior but only

SHAFFER IN TOWN

Walter Shaffer, of Greenbank, the popular young man who is carrying the Republican banner for sheriff, was in town Monday evening. It is almost impossible to get a private talk with Walter, for everyone who passes stops and shakes hands with him, promising their undivided support in the election Nov. 3.

...any named the man as Mr. Barlow, "one of the largest landowners in Pocahontas county," who is drawing pay as a WPA timekeeper.

In writing his defense, Mr. Barlow mentions some personal experiences which, but for one distorted fact, would elicit considerable sympathy. He explains that he was the "non-salaried" president of the bank "during" more than three months after accepting the WPA employment, "makes a breast of personal losses sustained by himself, which, though a story common to every propertyed person the past several years, nonetheless call for sympathetic understanding rather than unbridled criticism and censure. Then he says he was one of the victims of "what happened to the banks and their innocent stockholders under the Hoover Administration."

This is the point of particular interest to us, and from personal knowledge, we would put a pertinent question or two to Mr. Barlow —

First, inasmuch as Mr. Barlow's bank is a national bank, we are informed that it was open, solvent and doing business when the Hoover Administration went out. Isn't that true?

What, if anything, then did Mr. Hoover do to it?

Wasn't it Mr. Roosevelt who closed it?

Wasn't it Mr. Roosevelt who did not allow it to re-open properly?

Wasn't it under Mr. Roosevelt's banking plans that its stockholders, including Mr. Barlow, were ruthlessly wrung out and victimized?

Did not all State banks without exception, open at the end of the holiday? The coincidence couldn't have been that they were touched less by the ravages of greed and professional forces than national banks. It was, of course, the direct result of the control of Mr. Roosevelt's administration.

What about Mr. Barlow's own designation of himself as a victim, yet we vigorously disagree that the Hoover Administration had anything to do with the victimizing, and Mr. Barlow's own knowledge cannot agree with the words which apparently have been put into his mouth. The Hoover Administration was supporting all banks which could be supported. It was not demanding unreasonable write-downs of securities of banks.

its stockholders, including Mr. Barlow, were ruthless, we dig out and victimize!"

Did not all State banks, without exception, open at the end of the holiday? The coincidence couldn't be been that the very banks which the managers of great and powerful trusts and corporations had been in the control of Mr. Roosevelt's agents had been the ones to open.

When Mr. Barlow's statement of the fact as to the opening of the banks is that the Hoover Administration had anything to do with the victimizing, and Mr. Barlow's own knowledge cannot agree with the words which apparently have been put into his mouth. The Hoover Administration was supporting all banks which could be supported. It was not demanding unreasonable write-downs of securities of intrinsic worth at the bottom of an almost bottomless spiral of deflation even before that spiral was accelerated by the banking holiday. Re-discounting was available to honestly-managed and reasonably solvent and liquid banks to an almost unlimited extent and we know to know this bank was and is both honestly and well managed.

There are thousands of other "victims" of the Roosevelt banking conspiracy, who are better able to locate the true source of their woes than Mr. Barlow, and who have not had the WPA to fall back on, as Mr. Barlow has, and haven't the same incentive perhaps to put the blame where it DOES NOT belong.

As to the other points involved, we find they are stated by the Wheeling Intelligencer, which we quote:

"On the showing Mr. Barlow himself makes, it would seem to this power and that he very clearly is not a proper relief case. Even if he is telling the exact truth, it is submitted that a man who owns a 600-acre farm doesn't rate a place on the relief payroll. If we have reached the point in this country where the government is supposed to take care of a man who owns a 600-acre farm, the day of national disintegration is not far away.

"But there is a portion of Mr. Barlow's letter which makes out an even stronger case against the WPA.

Before that shutout was accelerated by the banking holiday. Re-discounting was still available to honestly-managed and reasonably solvent and liquid banks to an almost unlimited extent, and we happened to know this bank was and is both honestly and well managed.

There are thousands of other "victims" of the Roosevelt banking conspiracy, who are better able to locate the true source of their woes than Mr. Barlow, and who have not had the WPA to fall back on, as Mr. Barlow has, and haven't the same incentive perhaps to put the blame where it DOES NOT belong.

As to the other points involved, we find they are stated by the Wheeling Intelligencer, which we quote:

"On the showing Mr. Barlow himself makes, it would seem to this newspaper that he very clearly is not a proper relief case. Even if he is telling the exact truth, it is submitted that a man who owns a 600-acre farm doesn't rate a place on the relief payroll. If we have reached the point in this country where the government is supposed to take care of a man who owns a 600-acre farm, the day of national disintegration is not far away.

"But there is a portion of Mr. Barlow's letter which makes out an even stronger case against the WPA, which proves the very point which Mr. Hallanan was making—that millions of dollars are going to political favorites instead of to those actually in need. Here are Mr. Barlow's own words:

"It is significant that you have had nothing to say in your attacks upon the Works Progress Administration concerning the employment of Senator (Robert D.) Hall's brother-in-law, Mr. Hall's former wife, Mr. Hall's son-in-law, Mr. Hall's daughter-in-law, and Mr. Hall's daughter-in-law, during the past year, in the employ of the WPA. It is also significant that you have had nothing to say in your attacks upon the WPA concerning the employment of Mr. Hall's brother-in-law, Mr. Hall's former wife, Mr. Hall's son-in-law, Mr. Hall's daughter-in-law, and Mr. Hall's daughter-in-law, during the past year, in the employ of the WPA.

INFORMATION ASKED

The county superintendent's office is preparing a record for each school in the county. When complete this will make up part of the permanent record system now being instituted by the Board of Education. The present record begins with 1910, and when completed will show each teacher for the school until 1961. So far it has been possible in many cases to list all of the teachers for many of the schools. A list of teachers for each school in the county will be published in The Journal, and where blanks occur or where the teacher is listed as unknown, people will assist materially by furnishing the information to the county superintendent of schools. If the office is successful in getting a complete record since 1910, it may be that an effort will be made to carry the record back to 1900 for each building. Available school records are listed below:

KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

Peter M. Adkins, aged about 83, was struck by a car driven, it is said, by Earley Porter, of Wytheville, Va., about 3 o'clock last Sunday afternoon. He was rushed to the Pocahontas Memorial hospital, but lived only a few minutes.

Officers who investigated the accident say that Mr. Adkison, who lives in a house built near the road in the Riverside addition, apparently started across the road to get water at a spring. He stepped directly in the path of the car.

Porter, who was enroute to Kingwood, where he is employed on a road construction job, reported the accident to Deputy Sheriff Frank McLaughlin.

DURBIN WINS 8-0

The Durbin Moose moved into a tie for second place in the Green Mountain League race by defeating Bellington A. O., on the Durbin diamond Sunday. "Buck" Harper, on the mound for Durbin, limited the visitors to 4 hits and struck out 14.

The Moose scored in the second when P. Ginter singled, Harper walked, Hull walked and Blanton singled. Three runs came in as the three on the plate ran with Durbin taking two more runs in the third as L. Ott was hit by a pitched ball. P. Ginter doubled, scoring him. Ott was hit by a pitched ball. That completed bringing in P. Ginter.

The county superintendent's office is preparing a record for each
school in the county. When complete this will make up part of the permanent record system now being instituted by the Board of Education.
The present record begins with 1910,
and when completed will show each teacher for the school until 1961. So far it has been possible in many cases
to list all of the teachers for many of the schools. A list of teachers
for each school in the county will be published in The Journal, and where blanks occur or where the teacher is listed as unknown, people will assist
materially by furnishing the information to the county superintendent of schools. If the office is successful
in getting a complete record since 1910, it may be that an effort will be made to carry the record back to 1900 for each building. Available school records are listed below.

Boyd Ferrell, about 40, assistant head of the state gasoline tax bureau, shot and killed himself in a lavatory—Room 13—of the main capitol unit Monday night after state police had arrested him in connection with the alleged larceny of between $6,000 and $10,000 from the state.

Two other state employees—Frank Horn, director of the budget, and J. C. Little, head of the gasoline tax bureau, were arraigned before Justice of the Peace E. S. Watson Monday night and held under $5,000 bail each.

the justice by state police. Horn appeared voluntarily.

The fraud, according to a statement, issued by the tax commission took place within the past 18 months.

The Fox statement:

"Recent investigation in the gasoline tax department of this office discloses that, through the fraudulent handling of gasoline tax refunds, on the part of certain employees, aided by various persons outside the department, the state has been defrauded to the extent of from six to ten thousand dollars within the last 18 months. It has not been possible to ascertain the exact amount involved
but this will be done immediately.

"These frauds were effected by the passing for payment of fraudulent claims for gasoline tax refunds, made out in the names of confederates outside the department, in some cases, and by the use of fictitious names in others. Little and Ferrell were the two employees whose duty it was to check all claims for refunds, and upon their recommendation requisitions were issued on which warrents were drawn by the auditor.
Checks issued for these fraudulent claims were handled at different points in the state and the cash was

HANDLE FACTORY STARTS WORK

The new handle factory on Camden avenue began making handles last Friday and expect to have sufficient logs to make a permanent home here

Twelve men are employed at the local factory and approximately 35 more in the woods getting out ash logs. The plant is driven by two portable motors and is housed in a large building above the Williams & Pifer saw mill, with the Barker shop erected.

The capacity of the plant will be 3000 handles daily. As all of those employed in the plant are new men and must learn the operation of the machinery it will be a week or so before the full capacity will be reached.

Curry & Harper have the contract for furnishing ash logs and whether the factory remains here permanently depends on the supply they are able to furnish. Anyone having ash logs for sale should get in touch with this firm.

JUDGE SHARP IS HONORED

(From the Greenbrier Ind.)

Judge Summers H. Sharp, who for nearly 20 years has presided on the bench of the 11th judicial circuit, of which Greenbrier county is a part, was the guest of honor on Monday night, Dec. 7, at a dinner given him by the members of the Greenbrier county bar and the Greenbrier county officials. The dinner was held in the dining room of the Masonic temple and was a delightful affair thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The dinner was served by the ladies of the Lewisburg chapter of the Eastern Star. The menu was appetizing, the service perfect and the company about the festival board most congenial.

Judge Sharp occupied the place of honor at the head of the table and was seated between Samuel Price and Mark J. ...

The Star The menu was appetizing, the service perfect and the company about the festival board most congenial.

Judge Sharp occupied the place of honor at the head of the table and was seated between Samuel Price and Mark Jarrett. Mr. Price was toastmaster.

Mr. Price in announcing the speakers spoke of the sterling character of Judge Sharp and the courtesy and fairneess he had always shown the attorneys practicing before him. He dwelt on the record of a number of distinguished lawyers who had preceded Judge Sharp on the bench and said that in his opinion the office of judge of the 11th judicial circuit was the most desirable office in the state. He then called on Charles McWhorter, whose father, the late Joseph M. McWhorter, had once occupied the bench in the circuit. Mr. McWhorter expressed his pleasure that "we have an opportunity to express our appreciation of Judge Sharp," and said his association with Judge Sharp as a practicing attorney in the judge's court had always been most pleasant.

H. L. Van Sickler in his remarks said Judge Sharp had shown ability, courtesy and friendliness and he was glad to be present at the dinner to testify to Judge Sharp's standing as a man and a judge.

Mr. Price in a few remarks spoke to the same effect, and was followed by several others. All the speakers were eulogistic of the judge as a man and as a judge, and some of them recalled many pleasant and humorous reminiscences of the past.

All united in expressing the ardent wish that Judge Sharp's remaining years would be happy and prosperous and that he might live long to render such service as he had in the nearly 20 years he had served as judge. It was said that while at times attorneys might be disappointed at rulings he had made and decisions he had reendered at no time was his integrity questioned, nor was it intimated in any way that he had acted from other than conscientious motives.

Judge Sharp was the last speaker and when he arose he was hailed with applause and the diners arose to their feet in greeting. Judge Sharp was

A. E. COOPER

Citizens of Pocahontas county need no introduction to the ability to A. E. Cooper, brilliant, young lawyer of this city, for he is truly a home county boy, having been born in this county and graduated from its home high school. But he has shown the exception to the old rule that a boy cannot win success in his own back yard. For he has won on who has heard him speak at a case in the local court.

NEW FACTORY

A large handle factory of Parkersburg, has promised to locate a branch here in Pocahontas county if they are able to obtain sufficient ash logs to make it paying proposition.

Curry & Harper have been negotiating with this firm for several and through their efforts the deal is advanced far enough that it now depends upon the land holders of the county who have ash for sale. The firm will pay a good price for the logs and employ between 15 and 20 men each day. For further particulars turn to Curry & Harper's ad on another page of this paper.

The Bartow Trail Blazers 4-H club held their regular meeting Friday night Feb. 28 at the home of Howard Kramer. The meeting was called to order by our president, after which everyone stood and sang "West Virginia Boys and Girls." The roll was called by the secretary with each member responding with "What I Have Done On My Project." It was decided that the news reporter would enter the contest.

An interesting play was given entitled, "George Washington and Abraham Lincoln Learn About Club Work." The characters were: Geo. Washington—Wallace Beverage; Abraham Lincoln—Charles Matheny; Boy—Richard Snyder; Girl—Bonnie Hoover.

An interesting demonstration was given by Bessie Beverage on clothing. Two interesting picture studies were given by Mary Beverage and Doris Snyder. A social meeting was held after which refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held March 27 but on account of weather conditions we do not know where.

Happy Workers Club

On last Friday evening, February 21st, while washing the supper dishes I received an unexpected telephone call. Upon reaching the phone, much to my surprise, and delight, I heard the voice of our club secretary telling me it was the night for our regular monthly meeting. Thanking her very much I rushed back to my work. Eight o'clock found me at the schoolhouse where the Huntersville Happy Workers 4-H Club was to meet. Who should I see there? None other than our club leader and Mr. Fetty the assistant county agent. The president called the meeting to order and a short program was given in which several of the members took part. Mr. Fetty also gave an interesting talk on our projects and club work.

Games and songs were enjoyed by all.

Merry Mohawks Club

As I left my home Wednesday evening, Feb 12th, I was met by an industrious 4-H club member named Frank Pezzulli. He addressed me in the usual high toned way, asking me if I was going to attend the 4-H club meeting of the Merry Mohawks to be held in the Durbin graded school that night at 7 15. I was unprepared but my friend persuaded me to go like I was. I walked up to the school house on the hill to see my well known fellow members. Miss Moore, our leader, led us perfectly on a few practice songs as John Townsend, our song leader, was absent. After a while "Ike" Fetty came and later delivered a short talk on "The Making of a Good Club." An unusually interesting program was given concerning Lincoln and Washington also St. Valentine. The whole club was disappointed at the astounding news that a few club members had failed to try out a demonstration on corn testers. On account of us all having a good appetite, well deserved refreshments were served. "Ike" introduced many unknown games. I am sure that the entire club had a very pleasant evening.

ELECTRIFICATION SURVEY IS STARTED IN THE STATE

William N. Beehler, administrator of the West Virginia relief administration announced recently that the works division of that organization has been asked by the federal emergency relief administration to make a comprehensive rural electrification survey in West Virginia.

The purpose of this survey is to determine the possibilities of extending present electric service lines to farms and rural communities throughout the state. It will show the actual physical location of each farmhouse, school, church, store, filling station, garage, repair shop, industry and other business or building where electric current for any purpose can be used, and the practicability of extending present electric lines to give the necessary service.

Detail maps will be prepared showing ding present electric lines to give the necessary service.

Detail maps will be prepared showing the proximity and availability of service from existing electric systems.

Where it is not feasible to extend existing distribution lines, a further study will be made to determine the practicability of other means of electrification of such rural areas.

This is believed to be a part of a nation-wide survey, and reflects one of the plans mentioned by the president in his recent message to congress as a part of the national recovery program, the fulfillment of which would make available the comforts, convenience and labor saving advantages of electric service to every rural area which it can be demonstrated to be economically feasible, resulting in improved living conditions on farms and in rural areas.

In connection with this survey, a person representing the F. E. R. A. will call at private homes and places necessary upon which the federal report will be based.

The enumerators will have proper credentials with which to identify themselves, and proper instructions will be given them in regard to respecting the private rights of individuals so that no one need fear giving the information requested. This information will only be of such a nature as will enable the F. E. K. A. to make an intelligent report to Washington as to the possibilities of rural electrification, looking towards the mutual benefit of everyone.

It is, therefore, highly desirable that everyone whom the enumerators call upon will co-operate to the fullest extent in giving the information requested.

IR TOUR MAY IT MARLINTON IN DEDICATION

As Aeronautics Board Schedules Visit Here With Governor and Officials

Plans for a gala dedication ceremony for Marlinton Airport as the completion of the state wide airway by Governor Luy Kamp, Secretary of Aeronautics, and other state officials were put in motion this week. Interested Marlinton business men have become known that Capt. W. E. Gilman, chief of the West Virginia Aeronautics Division has extremely scheduled Marlinton as one of the airports to be dedicated. The proposed airways laws.

According to Capt. Gilman, the visit will probably leave Charleston October 4th and 5th, with tent-camp at Beckley, Princeton, Hinton, Marlinton, Elkins, Weston, Parkersburg, Ravenswood, Spencer, and return to Charleston.

Extensive work is being rushed by the F. E. R. A. authorities to complete the completion of the airport project of the W. A. P. R. in as limited time as possible.

The work will include clearing and leveling of the field, marking and erecting of a wind sock and the organization of public and voluntary testimony.

POCAHONTAS COUNTY MOTORISTS ORGANIZING

Believing that the taxation of gasoline and other petroleum products should be left to the voters, state local car owners are organizing to oppose the continuation of the Federal Tax on these commodities and for the further purpose of opposing any possible legislative proposals either to increase gasoline taxes or to divert the funds derived from increases in any other use than road construction and maintenance. The movement is being sponsored by the associated producers of gasoline and other petroleum products, doing business in West Virginia. Hence there are no dues, no fees, no expenses to the members of these County Motorist Protective Associations. It is simply a part of the producers and refiners service to their customers, the car-owners of West Virginia.

Any legal voter or any resident car owner may become a member simply by filling out an enrollment card. Properly organized West Virginia motorists may be kept informed on legislative proposals adversely affecting their best interests and have a real voice in registration fees, gasoline taxes and other kindred matters.

The first day of organization activities in Pocahontas county last Friday, resulted in the enrollment of delightfully over one hundred members, including many Marlinton business men.

It may be of interest to West Virginia motorists to know that 275,000 Virginians have signed a petition to the legislature of that state for a constitutional limit of three cents on gasoline tax.

FIND BELL'S BODY

A ten day's search for Rodney Bell, 42 years old, of Clover Creek, ended Sunday morning with the finding of his badly decomposed body about 300 yards up the mountain side from his home.

Bell, a bachelor, who resided alone on his father's farm on Clover Creek, was last seen alive, Friday, August 30 on his way home. Sheriff Rodney Buzzard, Trooper Warren and a crew of twenty-five men were badly hampered in their search last week by the rain.

Early Sunday morning Cameron Bell, a brother of the dead man, and Herbert Baker of Harrisonburg, Va. took up the search and soon located the body, which was in a horrible condition. They notified local authorities who immediately went to the Clover Creek section, where T.S. McNeel swore in a coroners jury which returned a verdict of suicide, and set the probable date as a week or ten days ago.

Mr. Bell had killed his dog and pre-then blown the left side of his face off with a Winchester pump gun. He had forty-seven dollars on his person when found.

Mr. Bell was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bell of Bridgewater, Virginia.

Ronceverte, W. Va.

Feb. 12, 1936.

To the Republican Party of West Virginia

We, the Republicans of Greenbrier and Monroe counties, in meeting assembled at Ronceverte West Virginia, Wednesday, Feb. 12, 1936, in commemoration of the anniversary of the Great Abraham Lincoln, founder of the Republican party, propose unanimously that the party offer to the service of the State in the coming campaign men of unquestioned worth, of the highest integrity, of conscientiousness broad enough to serve all of the people, and of ability to fully discharge the duties of public office; so,

Therefore, be it Resolved: That among the splendid citizens of our party who have or will offer themselves as candidates for public office, the call to public service be now issued to the Hon. Summers H. Sharp, Judge of the 11th Judicial Circuit, to offer himself as a Candidate for Governor of West Virginia in the forthcoming Republican Primary Election, and

Be it Further Resolved: That a committee from this meeting be appointed to urge upon Judge Sharp the acceptance of this proposal, and that the said committee will pledge its utmost endeavors to strengthen the call from all sections of West Virginia.

Republicans of Greenbrier county, gathered at a Lincoln day rally in Ronceverte Wednesday, adopted a resolution endorsing and urging Judge Summers H. Sharp, of Marlinton, to become a candidate for the republican nomination for governor.

HOBGOBLIN HOUSE

On Thursday evening, April 2, at 8 o'clock, the mystery play "Hobgoblin House" by Jay Tobias, will be presented in the Marlinton high school auditorium by members of the junior class.

Miss Priscilla Carter has an old haunted house in the Ozarks for a summer home in an effort to keep her two nieces from marrying two silly young nincompoops. The house is invaded by a headless phantom, a wailing skull, a lunatic, a kidnapped heiress, and a band of Chicago gangsters. The deserted suitors come to the rescue and a struggle between sane, sensible people and a house full of supernatural beings ensues. The outcome is quite thrilling.

The cast includes Misses Milly Brill, Margie Alderman, Sue Hiner, Betsy Barnette, Cora Lee Harris, and Aileen Waugh, Emory Adkison, George Adkison, Jacob Webster, George Sharp, Bill de Kraft and Paul Hubank.

The economic depression has deprived many of the help of the American of the strongest of the nation that far more could be done upon to far a shelter.

Pep To Win

The Hillsboro Pep To Win 4-H club met at the high school building, Thursday, March 19, at 7:30 p. m. The theme of our program was "Sports." The meeting was called to order by the president and we sang, "The Plowing Song," Lamb-ricks, and "Witch Craft." The club repeated in unison the 4-H Pledge followed by minutes of last meeting and roll call. Each member gave his favorite sport in response to roll call.

During the business session we decided to postpone the party already planned until later. Each member gave a report on his project.

The regular program opened by singing "I'm Going to Leave Old Texas Now."

"Twenty-eight Points for Good Sportsman-ship"—Elizabeth Hook.

"Basket Ball"—William Moore.

"Hockey"—Lillian Hook.

"Athletics and Health"—Kathleen Hill.

"Wanted a Girl"—(Poem)—Roy McCoy.

After the meeting recreation was held in the hall. The next P.T.A., the of heavy debt incurred. It was more profitable on the one cash crop plan. Rural catastrophes which had homes and farms.

For two years a million dollars were kept from government relief. After the farmer pay off plan the week's crop of interest for himself. The amount of relief of the family was the minimum he could manage to get.

No one could seriously anticipate of a system hundreds of thousands would be forced to stand of being on, the level.

Too, farmers who relief measures had the darkest day of the year and waited to stand on their own.

Remembering the call from farmer to ask Re-ettlement Administration took a rehabilitation of such farmers with and order that they might be self supporting.

THE WPA SCANDAL

There can be but one conclusion, and that is that the WPA is the rottenest political organization that has ever been formed in West Virginia. It already smells to the heavens and the end is yet in sight.

While the investigations are now centered in West Virginia, there are plenty of signs to indicate that WPA scandals exist in other states. For instance, Governor Landon of Kansas called upon Republicans to purge federal relief of partisanship, of waste and incompetence. He then declared:

"When a national administration takes millions and millions paid in taxes by the American people to build up a partisan political machine out of want and misery, that administration does an indefensible thing."

Surely the situation in West Virginia as already uncovered in the WPA proves his statements are correct.—

THE YOUNG REPUBLICAN CLUB

The Pocahontas Young Republican Club under the present officers is developing into the most active club in the state of West Virginia.

President McNeil, of the county club plans to hold a meeting every week from now until the general election in November. The club already has held two meetings, one at the courthouse here in Marlinton, and at Hillsboro
 the high school last Friday night.

Good crowds are attending these meetings and much interest is being shown in the coming campaign. This spirit shows that the majority of the voters of the county are ready to wash their hands of the few political overboard who have been running the affairs of the county for the few loyal citizens who are their rivals. I would like to see some of the hangers-on will do after the November

JUDGE SHARP—THE CALL IS CLEAR FOR HIM

(From the West Virginia News Feb. 20)

Judge Summers H. Sharp has not yet decided to become a candidate for governor in response to a loud, clear call which has quickly become state-wide. The News can get no word that he will—only that he is considering it with a deep appreciation of the interest friends and even strangers to him personally are showing, and will make up his mind soon.

In the meantime, Sam T. Mallison, Wheeling Intelligence staff writer and political observer, has sensed somewhat the strength and fitness of this able jurist. Mr. Mallison writes to his papers:

When daylight had come and other men began to walk about the streets, I returned up town. The dogs had disappeared.

Editor Cottle of the Morgantown Post is undecided whether Governor Rolph of California acted wisely when he directed that a man about to hang should be given a supply of good liquor to cheer him through the last hours on earth. He seems to labor under the impression that men are hanged as a punishment and that supplying the victim with liquor smacks of making a holiday of it. The state does not hang or electrocute men to punish them but to put them out of the way so they can do society no farther harm. If punishment were the aim, it were well to hark back to some of the torments invented by the Inquisition, such as burning alive, boiling in oil, flaying, or any one of a hundred other cleverly contrived means of assuring that the victim was tortured beyond further endurance. I have always suspected that the guillotine was the surest means of inflicting the greatest pain the human body could endure; but, having been a spectator along this line, I have never seen it to be so taken

A LIBEL TO BE PUBLISHED

Two hundred years ago Peter Zenger, publisher of the New York Gazette, was imprisoned by the Royal Governor of the Colony of New York because he dared to criticize the Governor's actions in his newspaper.

A jury set Zenger free after he had lain in jail for several days, and declared it to be right of every free man to speak and write his opinions freely on any subject, even the Royal Governor.

From that day on the freedom of the press has been one of America's most cherished traditions. Numerous attempts have been made to place the newspapers of the nation under Governmental control. Under the infamous Alien and Sedition Act, at the beginning of the last century, many editors were imprisoned for saying what they thought of those in authority and their actions. But no greatly was public opinion aroused by these high-handed proceedings, that they were first amendment to the Constitution of the United States was the one guaranteeing the right for free speech and a free press.

The Marlinton high school "Copperheads" returned to the native den
 last week after drubbing at the hands
 of Coach Sam Rice's "Green Devils"
 to whip the "Fighting Senators" of Lewisburg high seven to nothing

The game was hollow for three quarters but in the last period the "Copperheads" started a march foot-using Evans and Sharp that finally netted the lone marker of the game.

The Mills coached machine looked
 in every way to be superior but only in one occasion was the goal line of the locals seriously threatened. The defense of the Senators was cracking

 but the offense was unable to gain ground against the stellar playing of McFerrin and Simmons.

The game as a whole was not spectacular, but to the "Copperhead" fans the score indicated a better scoring machine than the one that appeared against Penick in the game. The Marlinton team had Hillsboro from Hillsboro and become on the same field this Saturday, October 24th. Fans of the locals are urged to come and see a battle

FRANK BENICK HUNTER IS LAID TO REST AT LEWISBURG

Frank Benick Hunter, aged 73 years, died at the home of his mother, Catherine B. Hunter, a Street City, Iowa Springs, Tuesday morning, November 7, 1933. He had been in poor health for some time, but only a week before his passing he was about his business as usual. The cause of his death was heart disease and kidney complications.

Mr. Hunter was the second son of Mr. Henry Hunter and Caroline Rea, a Hunter. He was born and reared at the Hunter homestead on Green River at North Laurel. Of his father's family there remains one son, Carter B. Hunter, and two daughters, Mrs. Marie Lane and Mrs. R. L. Tranham. Twenty-nine years ago Mr. Hunter married Miss Anna V. Price of Marion, and she and their two daughters, Mrs. Rachel M. Vains and Frances R. Hunter survive.

In religion Mr. Hunter adhered to the faith of his father and was a member of the Marion Presbyterian church.

Nearly 33 years ago Mr. Hunter came to Marion as the cashier of the first county organized Bank of Marion. From that time on he was a prominent part in the business affairs of the county and its development.

His funeral services were held at 3 o'clock on Wednesday morning at the home of the Hunter family at the Old Methodist church at Lewisburg. The funeral was conducted by the Hunter family and the Rev. J. H. Hunter, pastor of the church.

ANNOUNCEMENT

DURBIN NEWS

DURBIN GETS PROJECT

Sixty five men who have been out of work for some time, were given a chance to earn a living once more, when work was begun Monday morning on sewerage system in Durbin. The civil works appropriated by the administration, makes this possible, as the town has not had sufficient funds heretofore to put in an adequate sewerage system.

The men started working on the ditch leading from the main sewer to the Greenbrier River, where a drainage will be made at a point east of the C & O. Railroad bridge crossing the west fork of the river.

E. L. Fenton, Mayor, is superintendent of the project, and it is mainly through his prompt action, that this work was secured for the town of Durbin. When it is completed, no rural community will have a better watered sanitary system in the state, and the may well have cause to be proud of their progressive little municipality.

The school children of Durbin and Frank, were dressed to represent periods in our history and drew a great round of applause as they marched down the street. They were under the direction of Mrs. S. A. Wilhite, Mrs. B. C. Townsend, Mrs. Max Peckover and Miss Mary Wilson.

Immediately after the parade the band entertained with several numbers and were followed by a group of singers composed of B. J. Snyder, of Bartow, leader; R. R. Dodd, J. D. Wilmoth, Mrs. A. E. Bunner, Mrs. B. J. Snyder, Kenna Rexrode, Woodrow Shumate, Mrs. B. C. Townsend, Warder Rose, Mrs. George Hull, C. Forrest Hull and E. L. Fenton. This group entertained all day and deserve a great amount of credit for the success of the celebration.

Dr. George Hull introduced Mayor C. F. Hull, who after a few brief remarks of welcome introduced the speaker of the morning, Clarence Maxwell of Elkins, who gave several pointers as to what Durbin could expect from tourist trade of the future and suggested a change of the name of Durbin to Travelers Repose.

Durbin defeated Bartow two out of three at tug of war. Ray Sheets, of Greenbank, was victor in the bicycle race; Tommy Herold won the sack race with Victor Reda, second; and Dick Redda was the first to climb th greased pole.

The largest family award went to Mr. and Mrs. Austin Nottingham and their eleven children; John Hively, and wife, were tied with Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Galford and nine children, for second.

The afternoon address was delivered by W. Berlin Simmons, county superintendent of schools in Morgan county, who despite the down pour of rain, held nearly a thousand people in the street with a stirring patriotic discourse. Mr. Simmons claims Pocahontas county as his home.

in the street with a general discourse. Mr. Simmons claims Pocahontas county as his home.

To this writer's way of thinking two features of the celebration were far above anything that we have ever witnessed, we refer to the quartet composed of Warden Rose, R. J. Snyder, R. R. Dillard and Woodrow Shumate. Here are four young men whose voices blend perfectly and we predict that they will make a great name for themselves if they care to take the trouble to do so. Another was the Durbin band, here we heard a seventeen piece organization that really knew what it was all about. They have a fine musical organization and a great leader, and we hoped to have the pleasure of hearing them again. The members are J. F. and R. C. Leader, R. L. Wagner, J. L. and J. D. Mullenax, Del Slater, Richard Carpenter, Clyde Carpenter, Keith and Sammy Jennings, Paul Wilmoth all of Durbin; Roy De-lente, H. F. White, J. Briggs, Jack Wilson, Walter Dobbins, S. Beck and Joe Campbell, of Elkins.

Little had been brought before the justice by state police. Horn appeared voluntarily.

The fraud, according to a statement issued by the tax commission took place within the past 18 months.

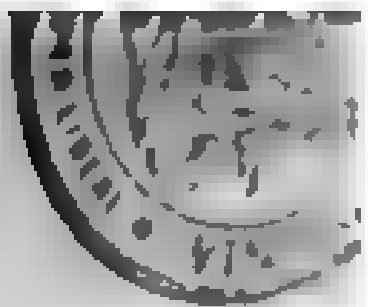

The Fox statement:

"Recent investigation in the gasoline tax department of this office discloses that, through the fraudulent handling of gasoline tax refunds, on the part of certain employes, aided by various persons outside the department, the state has been defrauded to the extent of from six to ten thousand dollars within the last 18 months. department, the state has been defrauded to the extent of from six to ten thousand dollars within the last 18 months. It has not been possible to ascertain the exact amount involved but this will be done immediately.

"These frauds were effected by the passing for payment of fraudulent claims for gasoline tax refunds, made out in the names of confederates outside the department, in some cases, and by the use of fictitious names in others. Little and Ferrell were the two employes whose duty it was to check all claims for refunds, and upon their recommendation requisitions were issued on which warrants were drawn by the auditor. Checks issued for these fraudulent claims were handled at different points in the state and the cash realized therefrom divided among the conspirators.

ONE THING AND ANOTHER

By Craig Friel

Let's start off by wishing each other "A Scrappy New Year." Not that our wishing will have anything much to do with the scrap, but there's an election coming this fall that will turn the trick.

You see, there are two grand and (more or less) glorious old parties who have pledged their lives, their (or the taxpayers) fortunes and their (own) sacred honor to the cause of saving the Constitution.

I don't know much about the constitution, or why they make so much fuss about saving it as they don't seem to make much use of it, and if you have the money you can have any part of it that you don't like de-

Maybe they figure that if they keep it long enough it will, like all other antiques, be worth something some day, and Wall Street will buy it for a relic to show the younger generations what they had to put up with back when the people really had a hand in running the government.

One never can tell just when the constitution may become valuable, so like a football, each side wants to keep it in their own possession. Right now, Mr. Roosevelt has it under his arm hotfooting it down the field—3rd down and 1 to go, but here is a stiff line and a lot of interference, and the wind seems to be blowing—A lot can happen in the fourth quarter. My guess is, a lot will happen, and we should be thankful that we live in a country that has a free press that can give us all sides that we live in a country that has a free press that can give us all sides of the many questions that are bound to come up.

It seems to me that this year of 1988 into which we are just now entering is packed with more dynamite than any year within my brief memory, and that it is the duty of every taxpayer and voter to lay aside party regard, read and study both sides of each question with an open mind,
and then taking plain commonsense
business principles as our guide, make up our minds as to what is best for our county, state and nation, and stick up OUR convictions with our pence and influence. In spite of what we are told, we really do rule

some may tell us, we really do rule
this country by our vote. No matter what wild ideas that some of our prominent leaders advance, it is our vote that accepts or rejects when the how-down comes. It would be going pretty far to say that it is always an intelligent vote that decides all of our questions. We are too apt to be swayed by party prejudice, lack of facts or by leaders who are being paid to lead us astray, but no leader can lead us from the "Straight and Narrow" if we use our own head instead of his.

Leadership is absolutely necessary.
What I am trying to get at is, that we should keep ourselves sufficiently informed that we can distinguish good leadership from bad. For inst-

to have that demonstrated to us pretty soon when we start trying to pay back the billions that we have borrowed while trying to make a business man out of Uncle Sam. Uncle Samuel is a swell old guy but he ain't got no business in business according to my ideas of business. You see, Uncle Sam in business is everybody's business, and everybody's business is nobody's business, but at the same time keeps private capital out of business because private capital can't issue a bond levy to cover up their mistakes and shortages. If Uncle Samuel takes over all of the business, where is he going to raise the taxes to pay back that thirty million that he now owes, and have enough left over to save the constitution?

Oh well, let's see what 1936 will do about it.

The ever growing burden of taxes, the inevitable result of increased governmental spending, is awakening the American people to a realization of the far-reaching economic and social consequences involved in piling up national debts and deficits, and the methods used to influence extravagant expenditure by state and local taxing bodies. With the largest peace-time government payroll in the history of the nation, and with our government spending at the rate of approximately $12,000,000 a day in excess of income, it is evident that even present exorbitant taxes cannot be stretched out to cover the vast expenditures.

The cost of government today—national, state and local—is equal to approximately one-third of the total income of all of our citizens. Brookings Institution has repeatedly stated that those engaged in gainful occupation receive about 85 per cent of the national income in wages, so it is seen that the heaviest burden of government spending falls upon the

Tax Collectors Everywhere

Nearly every person whom you encounter in business exacts from you a portion of the huge tax bill you are required to pay. The butcher, the baker, and every other merchant is on the job, reluctantly to be sure, day in and day out gathering in the pennies and the dollars for the multitude of taxing agencies. Every time you spend $5 for your family, taxes take $1.30 out of that five dollars. When you pay for food, for clothing, for rent, for gas—or everything you buy—you pay the taxes that the government lays on the miner, the farmer, the processor, the manufacturer, the storekeeper, and the landlord. All their taxes are lumped together in the final selling price to you. And you pay them!

Automobile taxes in 1934, including taxes on personal property and in the form of license fees and gasoline tax, exceeded $1,200,000,000 which is actually greater than the $1,147,000,000 received by automobile tax alone for the cars they

Taxes Five Times Earnings

The net earnings of the petroleum industry in 1934 were $204,000,000. That industry paid $1,000,000,000 in taxes, or nearly five times its net earnings.

It is estimated that approximately 34 per cent of the rental bill for residential property and 28 per cent of the rental bill for business property is made up of taxes.

The per capita cost of local, state, and national governments rose from $33.84 in 1915 to the enormous sum of $122.52 per person in 1934.

The "hidden tax," an insidious form of collecting revenue, is being resorted to more and more by the politicians, who shrink from imposing additional direct tax burdens on their already grumbling constituents.

A compilation by the New York Trust company in June, 1935, shows that the principal sources of revenue for the United States in the fiscal year 1933-34 were distributed as follows: Income taxes, 26%; customs 10%; indirect taxes, 59%; other rev-

For the years 1923-30, the costs of government were provided by the following revenues: Income taxes, 58%; customs 14%; indirect taxes only 15%; and other revenues 13%.

Government Money is the People's Present tax rates are already producing larger revenues than the government received in any year from 1923 to 1928. Taxes were 80 per cent higher last year than in 1932. And yet, they fall far short of meeting the demands of the government expenditures.

It is a fact not clearly understood, that government—national, state, or local—has no money except what it takes from the people in some form of taxation. When the government spends more than it raises from taxes, it borrows money from the people and goes in debt to the people. It gives its notes or bonds to the people from whom it borrows and promises to pay these off from funds collected later from the people in some form of taxes.

It is the people's money always.

The honeyed efforts to lure business back into a new NRA remind one of the cunning invitation of the spider to the fly. But, with bitter memories of regimentation under the old NRA and hopeful that the supreme court decision ended that form of government dictatorship for all time in the United States, the American business man isn't going to be deceived again by designing collectivists who seek to accomplish by subterfuge what they are prevented by the constitution from doing.

Approximately 9,000,000 are on the Federal payrolls, and they receive more than $5,000,000,000 a year.

It is conservatively estimated that more than 3,000,000 persons are on the payrolls of states, cities and counties.

And the writing of government checks has become a gigantic task. Thousands of employees do nothing else. Batteries of check-writing machines are being installed to expedite the work.

G. O. Barnes, executive assistant to the treasurer of the United States, estimates that the total number of individual checks drawn on the U. S. treasury during the fiscal year ending last June 30, reached the astounding total of 50,000,000. This does not include about 1,000,000 government employees who are paid cash. During the World war with 5,000,000 men under arms, the number of individual checks drawn on the U. S. treasury never exceeded 40,000,000 in one year.

With 3,500,000 persons now on work relief, and paid twice a month, (that is when McCollough and Allen can stop fighting long enough), there are added 84,000,000 checks a year, for a total of 134,000,000 checks!

More Taxes Under Social Security Act

The significance of the Social Security Act has not been fully realized by investors. The law undoubtedly will have far-reaching effect upon American industry. With its pay roll tax for future unemployment compensation already operative, and the old age benefit provisions becoming effective Jan. 1, 1937, the burden upon business will grow as the taxes automatically increase. All employers coming under the unemployment provisions of the act are now paying a tax of one percent of the annual wages paid to all employees. This will increase to two per cent next year and three per cent the following year, after which it remains at three per cent. Under the old age provisions, both employer and employee share in the taxes. Beginning Jan. 1, 1937, each is taxed one per cent of the annual wages (up to $3,000) of the employee, and this percentage increases one-half per cent each three year interval until 1949, when each will be paying three per cent. The total taxes under the act will then have reached nine per cent of the annual payroll involved. Within a single generation, it has been estimated, the government will be custodian of a thirty-five billion dollar fund.

The new paper has it on dependable authority that Governor Kump will call an extraordinary session of the legislature on or about Feb. 1, but it is the governor's wish that the lawmakers consider only relief and social security matters on that occasion.

It will be recalled that a legislative committee considering a state security act recently recommended a session, but Kump made no comment at that time, other than to say he would call the lawmakers if congress provides funds to place the federal act in operation and the security board prepare regulations, adding:

"I hope that the scope of matters as for consideration by the legislature will in such extraordinary session may be confined to federal-state relations and kindred remedial, enabling and relief measures."

The extraordinary session will be called. Congress will provide funds to place social security laws in operation, but it is very unlikely that the lawmakers will concede to the governor's wish, adjourn and go home after disposing of this problem. Rather, it is believed that the session will be a long, drawn out one, and many things will come up to embarrass the administration of Governor Kump.

One of the things that is likely to embarrass the governor on that occasion is his refusal to grant the Charleston Chamber of Commerce's recent request that he ask the legislators to consider the appropriation of $2,000,000 to purchase rights-of-way for highways. That body, a powerful and influential one, is particularly interested in improvement of the Midland Trail near Charleston. In a letter to the governor the chamber asserted that lack of funds to lateral, particularly interested in improvement of the Midland Trail near Charlottton. In a letter to the governor the chamber asserted that lack of funds to purchase rights-of-way is delaying construction for which federal funds are available. Gov. Kump rejected his proposal because he said "private interests" are being allowed to encroach upon the rights-of-way.

This is just one of the many knotty problems that will face Kump, once the legislature convenes, and it is known by one and all that he would never in the world call an extraordinary session if it were not literally being forced on him by the fact that emergency laws must be passed.

Farm Bureau Takes Action to Provide Line for Farmers.

Plans to Establish $200,000 Cooperative Plant to Cut Costs Approximately in Half

Plans for the establishment of a $200,000 cooperative line plant to sell the "copperheads" in central West Virginia were launched at Jackson, W. Va. on Tuesday of last week, September 14, when the committee organized by the West Virginia Farm Bureau at its annual meeting in August at Jackson, Mo. met to consider ways and means of solving the line problem.

The establishment of such a plant to provide an adequate supply of line at reasonable cost for counties not already having solved this problem was one of the major objectives included in the program of activities adopted by the Farm Bureau at its annual meeting. The committee composed of J. L. Sheets, J. E. Long, P. McMahon, W. Ruckman, H. L. Sheets, McMillon and Frazer.

Resolutions passed at the meeting last week stating that farmers throughout the state, West Virginia can supply a small part of the line needed by the farmers due to its high cost to produce by members of the state.

Locals Boast 20 Straight Wins. Seven Lettermen On 1937 Squad

The Marlinton Copperheads, defeated once in seven years by Hillsboro, will start their annual football season Saturday by meeting Franklin here.

With a record of twenty straight games without a defeat, Frank Harrison, left, hopes to take his team through another undefeated season.

The Copperheads, one of the four undefeated high school teams of West Virginia last year, were runner-up in the Valley in 1936. Greenbrier Valley changed to 1936 and Greenbrier Valley to champions in 1936.

Among the gridiron players this year are seven lettermen, all seniors, namely J. Sheets, E. Long, P. McMahon, W. Ruckman, H. L. Sheets, McMillon and Frazer.

The probable lineup for the Franklin game is the following:

Chickens Rather

Scarce; Higher Prices Foreseen

Cold Storage Eggs Moving Slowly; Egg Prices Not Expected to Exceed Those of 1936

Higher prices for chickens but egg prices probably not as high as during the fall months of last year are foreseen by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture in a report on the poultry and egg situation issued on September 9. Chickens for the country as a whole made a sharp rise in price during August, but egg prices rose less than is usual at this season.

Records of the ten highest producing flocks in West Virginia on an egg-per-bird basis for August 1936 and August 1937, however, show that the owners of the ten high flocks this year received an average of 26.172 cents per dozen as compared to an average of 24.04 cents per dozen received by the owners of the ten high flocks in August, 1937.

Market receipts of poultry last month did not increase as usual at this time of year and as a result the price of chickens rose to its highest point in 1937 at a time when such prices usually decline. Prices of chickens, during the remainder of 1937, are expected to continue higher than those that prevailed during the corresponding period of 1936.

because of an unusual rush of work the past two weeks we were forced to give away to something interesting to read.

— ALC —

Noticed in "The March of Time" this week where a Rochester, N. Y., judge says all convicted drunken drivers MUST go to jail.

He is to be highly praised for the stand against this type of criminal. For surely a jail sentence is the only method that will remove the danger-

Tuesday Will Mark Marlinton's Largest Mass Bargain Day; Look Over the Ads Appearing In This Issue and See the Truth of This Statement.

BOARD OF MET AT

With sixteen of Marlinton's leading merchants united to participate in the Marlinton Journal's first Mass Dollar Day Bargain Sale Tuesday March 30 the citizens of Pocahontas county are assured of greater bargains than ever before offered by local merchants.

Other local business men have said they will offer bargains for this day and a local factory promises to be the red letter sale day in the history of this county.

As proof of this we only have to quote from ads appearing in The Journal today.

30 Bars of toilet soap for $1.00. Can you match it?

10 yards of unbleached muslin for a dollar, less than the present wholesale price.

12 Pairs of Men's work or dress socks for $1.00.

7 Yards of print material for $1.00.

4 Genuine Cannon Towels for a dollar, regular 39c each.

Men's Dress Hats for $1.00.

10 Yards curtain material for a dollar.

Ladies' wash Dresses, 2 for $1.00.

Ladies' Hats reduced to $1.00.

The Marlinton Journal will offer for the one day only, a subscription for $1.00. We will also allow the discount on paper on subscription accounts. A 20% discount will be allowed on all job printing orders received on Tuesday, March 30.

And many other bargains as startling. Read these ads and see the money you can save. Also compare these prices with your mail order catalog and see that they are as low, if not lower.

The merchants, in cooperation with The Marlinton Journal, have made plans to hold this great clearance sale twice a year, each March and September. In the future. Therefore you are assured that you will never be overcharged.

The Marlinton Journal has the honor to announce that the first Mass Dollar Day Bargain Sale will be held on Tuesday, March 30, 1934. The merchants of this county are united in offering the best bargains ever before offered. The Marlinton Journal will also offer a subscription for $1.00. We will also allow the discount on paper on subscription accounts. A 20% discount will be allowed on all job printing orders received on Tuesday, March 30. And many other bargains as startling. Read these ads and see the money you can save. Also compare these prices with your mail order catalog and see that they are as low, if not lower. The merchants, in cooperation with The Marlinton Journal, have made plans to hold this great clearance sale twice a year, each March and September. In the future. Therefore you are assured that you will never be overcharged.

The sale prices are for one day only with no exchanges allowed. You will realize after seeing the great bargains, that merchants could not possibly conduct the sale under any other plan.

In the following list of Marlinton merchants you will see that by calling at their stores, you will be able to purchase anything needed by the family at a startling low price. But, to be guaranteed that you will receive real bargains, be sure that the merchant's name appears in this list, or that he has an official "Door Day Sale" sign displayed in his store. It is possible that several other merchants will agree to the plan before next Tuesday and should they, a card will be furnished.

DEAN-SCOTT

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Dean, of Pyles Mountain, makes announcement of the marriage of their son, Vernon C. Scott, to Mrs Devada Scott, of Hillsboro, W. Va.

The marriage ceremony was performed on Sunday, March 7th, at the home of Rev. Howard Underwood, on Beaver Creek, with Rev. Underwood as the officiating minister. Mrs. Underwood and Mrs. Elsie Dean were witnesses. The groom has been a resident of the Mountain all of his life where he is well known by everyone. The bride is a daughter of Mr. Cammie Scott, of Hillsboro and is well known in the Levels district where she resided before her marriage. The young couple are at the home of the grooms parents at present, but plan to set up housekeeping on the mountain this spring. Their many friends wish them a happy and successful voyage on the sea of matrimony.—Contributed

TRUCK CRASHES BRIDGE

A truck belonging to the Charleston Tractor and Equipment Co., of Charleston, broke through the bridge over Knapps creek, about a half mile above Hamlet, N.C., shortly after noon, Wednesday, March 24.

The truck was loaded with a tractor being taken to the upper end of the county for demonstration purposes. The driver was about midway of the bridge when he heard it crack. Seeing his vehicle he was able to get within a few feet of the opposite side when the bridge broke loose from both foundations and crashed to the river bed.

The weight of the tractor forced the front end of the truck straight down. The front wheels were held down with the top of the foundation, but the truck standing straight up in the air, the tractor being the only thing to escape.

James W. Carpenter, aged 76 years passed away Saturday evening, Mar.
20, after a brief illness. He was a widely known person, having followed the lumber business since his early manhood, and had worked in many of the southern states. His profession was saw filing, and his ready humor made a favorite where-ever he chanced to travel, and his friends were countless.

For the past year he has made his home with Ted Kerr, of Dunmore,
where his death occurred. His remains were interred at the Warwick cemetery.

Thus passes one more of the pioneers in the white pine lumber industry. His only living relative is a nephew, Ward Lowe, of Covington.

Dear Sir:-

On April 6th, (Next Tuesday) we have the right to cast our vote for or against the Air-Port. Which are we going to do? Vote to bond our little town to purchase real estate for a landing field for the use of aircraft. Now just how many acres of real estate are we being bonded to purchase. If I understand this bond we are supposed to pay for 52 acres of which then is maintained as 22 acres. The cost being $5,500 and 19.7 acres in another tract at $100 per acre. They also propose the purchasing of other real estate that may be needed to be used as a landing field for use of aircraft. Just how are we to figure on our tax to pay for purchase of land? Just how are we to figure on our tax to pay for purchase of land? And are we to be taxed to complete the project or is it to be a free will offering?

Where and what income do the taxpayers derive from the airport? If the taxpayer can stand the bond, WHY not bond our town and improve it, (no tgo out here for 2 miles to an airport) when we need lights in dark places, streets and alleys that need completed. The county superintendent of
school in the county. When complete this will make up part of the permanent record system now being
instituted by the Board of Education.
The present record begins with 1910,
and when completed will show each
teacher for the school until 1931. So far it has been possible in many cases
to list all of the teachers for many of the schools. A list of teachers
for each school in the county will be published in The Journal, and where blanks occur or where the teacher is listed as unknown, people will assist
materially by furnishing the information to the county superintendent of schools. If the office is successful
in getting a complete record since 1910, it may be that an effort will be made to carry the record back to 1900 for each building. Available

NOTICE

Postal Regulations Make it Necessary that we discontinue mailing papers to persons who are behind with their subscriptions to The Marlinton Journal. During the past several years we were allowed by the authorities to continue sending papers to those who could not afford to pay, we are now faced with the necessity of dropping many who could pay, but have neglected to do so.

L Through an agreement the date for dropping delinquent subscribers has been set for April 1. We are not asking full settlement from those on whom it would work a hardship, but merely requesting that you pay whatever amount possibly at the present time

About is a view of the vast potato field on the up-to-date farm of G. M. Sharp, above Minneapolis Springs. Mr. Sharp is one of the leading potato growers of the Greenbrier Valley.

For several years the fact has been known that the potato is the most important product of the State, and the product of this State is a far better variety than that of the Southern States.

This year approximately 2,000 acres of potatoes have been planted in the county and from the yield of the early season it is estimated that the total yield will be far over the 1,000,000 bushels mark. Under the supervision of C. P. James, county agent, the farmers of Washington county have started raising their own potatoes, and it is expected that within a few years the county will be producing its own supply.

The Fair Association has recognized the importance of this farm product and have designated a special Potato Show for the last day of the year and are offering the following prices:

Answer: "These are a fair business profit." That miners engaged in this type of operation can make a profit is not only true, but it is also a fact that the state and federal government are not the only ones who can make a profit from the sale of minerals.

The voice of the individual in this highly organized world, is, as the small voice crying in the wilderness.
It goes unheard and unanswered. That voice must be united with thousands of others to command attention. The combined influence of many can drive justice into the administration, equalize the tax burden, and secure fair returns for the most essential member of society the producer of food. It would be difficult for the individual farmer to confront the government and the

Donald Carter. Mrs. McCrory will be remembered as Miss Ethel Livesay.

LEO BAXTER CALLISON DIES

Leo Baxter Callison, aged 7 years, died at the Pocahontas Memorial hospital at Marlinton, Saturday morning after a short illness. Recently the child ran a splinter in his hand but the wound had practically healed when Tetanus set in, causing his death. He was the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Callison of Beard, and was a sweet lovable youngster.

Funeral services were conducted from the home Monday afternoon by Rev John Light, assisted by Rev. Curry. Interment in the Old Droop church cemetery.

Surviving are his parents, one sister, Virginia Callison of Berea, Ky., and three brothers, Harry Hubert and

The county superintendent of free is preparing a record for each school in the county. When complete this will make up part of the permanent record system now being initiated by the Board of Education.
The present record begins with 1910,
and when completed will show each
teacher for the school until 1961. So far this has been done in many cases for all of the teachers for many of the schools. A list of teachers
for each school in the county will be published in The Journal, and where teacher cannot be found the teacher is listed as unknown. Parents will assist materially by furnishing the information to the county superintendent.

The present record is from 1910, and when completed each teacher for the school year 1911. So far this has been a successful record for all of the teachers for many of the schools. A record of teachers for each school in the county will be furnished in The Journal and where blank space is wanted the teacher is listed as a member of the school and a record is kept by furnishing the information to the county superintendent of schools. If the school is successful in getting a complete record since 1910, it may be that an effort will be made to carry the record back to 1880 for each building. HAYSLETT'S LAST PLEA

By John Hayslett, Jr.

I have been reading much lately about the $10,000 Airport and the Marlinton Richwood Road. The Board of Trade is strong for both of these. The Council is more in favor of the $10,000 Airport. Let me make a few suggestions before the town makes a move to buy an airport outside the municipality. It should further its own utility up-keep before thinking of anything else. A few examples of bad up-keep are on North Camden Avenue. The largest corporation taxpayers are located there, to-wit: The Union Tanning Co., The Chemstrand & Ohio Railway Co., The Axe Handle Factory, and Williams Saw Mill. These firms, along with the residential section, are not served satisfactorily with road, light, water building in the Alley (is OK).

I want to make the voters, the Board of Trade consider The $10,000 You Would Think to Remodel Upper

Here are a few things that North Camden Avenue needs: First, one fire hydrant to be located at the Railroad Crossing. The present location of the Fire Department are not long enough to reach the C. & O. houses, much less the residential district on the upper row. Second, one alarm box to be located on the upper C. & O. Crossing. The present one is three blocks away, located at the Sam Hinch residence. Third, we need at least three more street lights. At present there are two on the Upper Tannery Row, and four from the Newell Hotel to the Coal

Peter M. Adkins, aged about 83, was struck by a car driven, it is said, by Earley Porter, of Wytheville, Va., about 3 o'clock last Sunday afternoon. He was rushed to the Pocahontas Memorial hospital, but lived only a few minutes.

Officers who investigated the accident say that Mr. Adkison, who lives in a house built near the road in the Riverside addition, apparently started across the road to get water at a spring. He stepped directly in the path of the car.

Porter, who was enroute to Kingwood, where he is employed on a road construction job, reported the accident to Deputy Sheriff Frank McLaughlin.

There were 140 persons at the church. The evangelists were M. and Mrs. Thomas Stewart of Thompsons, Ohio. A. M. Smith, of Michigan, assisted in singing and Mrs. Stewart acted as pastor.

1. Study the following text and answer the questions that follow.

Local farm women had their annual picnic at Drop Mountain park. After the social hour in the afternoon a prayer service was held. Mrs. Anna Cutlip was in charge. Her theme was "A Successful Life." Jeanie McCutcheon Tells Of Pacific Experiences

(The following story is from a recent issue of the Beckley Post-Herald. Miss McCutcheon is a niece of Mrs. L. C. McCutcheon and the late Dr. McCutcheon of Greenbank, Pocahontas county. They formerly lived in Webster Springs where Dr. McCutcheon served as mayor at one time.)

Miss Eugenia A. (Jeanie) McCutcheon of Summersville, daughter of Dr. L. N. McCutcheon, of Richwood, has seen much of the worst of the Pacific war first hand having served as an American Red Cross recreational director for many months in the South Pacific.

Now home on a month's leave, Miss McCutcheon recalls that life with the 4th Central Postal Directory at Milne Bay.

Miss McCutcheon recalls that life with the 80th Central Hospital at Milne Bay, New Guinea, was pretty nightmarish during the 10 months she spent there, needed to provide recreational entertainment for the hundreds of wounded American troops brought back from the fighting fronts.

There were a few Japs to keep things exciting around Milne Bay, too.

"A few times a Jap managed to slip inside the movie theater, or got through our lines to steal rations," she recalled.

When Miss McCutcheon first went to Milne Bay with the 80th hospital unit, no buildings had been erected, and for the most part, the workers moved about in a sea of mud. The Red Cross workers attached to the unit, five in number, had to sleep in tents without floors.

"Once it rained continuously for 36 hours and nights and that was a rather terrible experience," said the Red Cross worker.

The first buildings put up after the 8th hospital unit arrived at Milne
Bay was nothing more than a native hut—100 feet long and built of coccanut palm. The Red Cross building and chapel were built of the same materials. "all built in a sea of mud," Miss McCutcheon said.

The hospital there opened up with 200 patients, and at one time they had as many as 1,500 sick and wounded.

"Our first duty was to look after the wounded," she explained. "We tried to provide recreational facilities for the 500
detached service men with the unit...
Sometimes the men got pretty blue,"
he reflected.

The unit was virtually shut off from the world. Magazines and newspapers reached them three months late.

"The good old American spirit, a sense of humor, and our ingenuity was what pulled us all through," she stated.

The "old old American spirit, a sense of humor, and our ingenuity was what pulled us all through," she stated. Miss McCutcheon, showing no ill effects of her rugged life in the Pacific, went through the whole experience without serious illness and without contracting malaria.

"I met a large number of boys from this section of West Virginia and it was always a treat to meet up with anybody from back home," she said.

Miss McCutcheon was on temporary duty for a time at Biak, and on April 1 she was sent to Manila, while furious fighting was still going on in the islands.

During her service in the South Pacific, she often looked out and saw the artillery fire of our forces and once, at Biak, the Japs made a sneak raid on the air strip there, killing several.

At Manila, where the Quezon Institute, a sanatorium, was taken over for use as a hospital, as many as 2,000 wounded were treated at one time. During two months the hospital handled 10,000 patients, she said.

Mrs. McCutcheon is a former Rich-

Red Cross for the past 11 months as a

She left Manila on July 26, flying back to San Francisco. After her 30-

Strawberry Plants

Be sure strawberry plants are set so that only half of the crown is in the soil. Deeper planting will smother the plant, while shallower planting will permit it to dry out. Strawberries planted in hills should be 9
to 18 inches apart in each direction, and no runner plants should be allowed to start. For a matted row, set plants about two feet apart in rows and allow runners to de-

to have the bad tire fixed before another good one went flat, get gas, oil, and I puffed half up a steep hill to see a big white castle. Half way up we discovered a cog wheel cable car running straight up the side of the mountain. We rode back to the bottom of the hill with two GIs whom we stopped, and started all over again in the tiny little car. It's so funny a single cog track going up, spreading out to a double right in the center so the two cars, one on either end of the cable, can pass. You see the one going down and the other one up and they pass on the double track in the center. To cars, one on either end of the cable, can pass. You see the one going down pulls the other one up and they pass on the double track in the center. To add weight to the one going down, a big tank is filled with water at the top and as soon as that car gets to the bottom it lets the water out and goes back up much lighter.

After lunch at Salzberg in the transit zone we drove straight to the small town of Berchtesgaden at the foot of these huge mountains, then started up the mountain to "Hitler's home" or "Hitler's Hideout" as the signs called. We climbed along the steep, winding mountain road in our very small car for about four miles. Then we had to descend to reach the grade and parking in town. It was my first experience with a steep, winding road. I was nervous, but I did it. I was very happy to see the car at the bottom of the road.

car with Doreen debating what to do from every possible angle. (I got tired of it.) Jan and I started thumbing and the second jeep that came along stopped—a medical colonel and two GI's. We explained our plight and they were glad to take us up, so we kept on winding around and up this steep mountain for three or four miles until we came to Hitler's house (not the Eagle's Nest), a big hotel where his guests stayed, and several other buildings he used for something. S. S. billets, etc., hideous affairs all bombed to pieces. Several pictures I've seen of Hitler (you, too, I expect) show him standing at this huge glass window (only the opening there now) looking out over the mountains and valley below. The building was all concrete, painted the hideous camouflage colors of brown, tan, and black splotches and it was 10 stories high, but one room is "kaput" now with two direct hits (British work) and the rest burned out by fire.

This was the waiting place for every one to get his vehicle in convoy to do the remaining five miles together at a given time. The place is bulging with sightseers—must have been 30 or 40 vehicles in the convoy, with a one-star and a three-star general. Then began the steepest climb I've ever seen. The top was only about 3,000 feet higher, but we wound around and around the mountain of practically solid rock. Some of it had tunnels cut through it for the road. I had an awfully eerie feeling. One could look straight down for thousands of feet, but the view was positively magnificent. There are lots of peaks very close together, solid rock some with snow still on in patches. We heard Hitler had 60,000 men working on this road for

The other was a huge living room with a lovely stone fire place and the most comfortable extra large sofa in front, and gobs and gobs of soft chairs lined up around the largest round table I've ever seen, and around the wall GIs have carved and written their names all over this. The room is rather round and has lots and lots of windows. The other rooms were bedrooms, a kitchen, etc.

It's not the building but the scenery around that is so breath-taking. One can see for hundreds and hundreds of miles in all directions, over mountain tops and down into valleys. No wonder the old fool got the idea he could rule the entire world by looking into this distance for it does seem as if one is sitting right on top of the world. No one except a completely mad person would think of doing something like this. It's so inaccessible. Some one said it was up there only five times. No wonder it takes a heck of a lot of time to travel over the roads. I'd never seen a winter. An RC girl was killed in the spring.

A little magazine had pictures of this place. I'll save it for Mr. and this. It's so dangerous. Some one said wonder—it takes a heck of a lot of A Life magazine had pictures of this in it. If you can, save it for me, and I'll explain more when I get home.

We had dinner in the town at Berchtesgaden and drove home by 10 o'clock tonight. We leave for Bushlog

I wouldn't have missed today for

Sgt. Estel C. Weston Receives Bronze Star

With the 16th Armored Field Artillery Battalion in Germany—Sgt. Estel C. Weston, of the 16th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, Third Army, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal.

He is the husband of Mrs. Estel C. Weston, of Hillsboro.

Sgt. Weston was a member of the 16th Armored Field Artillery Battalion when the battalion was a part of Combat Command "B," Ninth Armored Division, giving artillery support to that unit when it was the first Allied force across the Rhine. The division made the spectacular seizure of the bridge at Remagen, Germany, March 7, after a lightning dash from the Roer.

Further, the battalion distinguished itself as a unit of the Ninth Armored Division at St. Vith during the Battle of the Bulge.

The citation for the award reads as follows: "Awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious achievement in connection with military operations against the enemy from March 6, 1945 to March 14, 1945, in Germany. For distinguished service from March 6, 1945 to March 14, 1945, in Germany."

William Gibson Participates In Flag-Raising Ceremony

On the USS Wingfield at Jaluit Atoll, Sept. 5 (Delayed)—William S. Gibson, electrician's mate, third class, Marlinton, W. Va., today participated in flag-raising ceremonies on this island in the Marshall group after it had been surrendered by the Japanese.

As the flag went up a 21-gun salute boomed from the guns of the Wingfield, the USS McConnell, on which the terms had just been signed, and the USS Baron, all destroyer escorts.

Jaluit, by passed as other islands in the group were captured, was reduced to impotency by air-sea bombardments the past 18 months. The atoll was pockmarked with craters from end to end.

Even worse was the iron blockade the Navy threw about the place. Not one ship reached the garrison in more than a year and the Japs, half-naked and poorly fed, subsisted on what they could grow. Of the original garrison of 2,000 men, about 2,000 survive.

Have Found In Mountains Are Happy Hunters

Doroud. Iran — Two soldiers and roaders of the U. S. Army's Third Military Railway Service in the Persian Gulf Command have found the mountains near Doroud, Iran, a hunter's paradise.

Several times a week, T-4 Carl W. McDonald, of Arizona, N. M., and Pfc Lee F. Sharp, of Slatyfork, W. Va., tramp the nearby mountains for everything from bear to bear.

Up and down the Iranian State Railway, over which the bulk of more than 5,000,000 tons of lend-lease war material had rolled to the USSR, McDonald and Sharp are known for their ability to bring down game. They probably have supplied Camp Gilles, the headquarters, with more fresh meat than any half-dozen of their fellow soldiers.

They probably have supplied Camp Gilles, the headquarters, with more fresh meat than any half-dozen of their fellow soldiers.

Both are crack shots. They have yet to leave the camp and return empty-handed. They take the mountains in their stride. Long ago, they lost count of the number of times they have been over them.

Sharp, who learned to stalk game in the West Virginia hills, has a strong claim to being the command's best hunter. To date, he has brought down 20 bear, 43 boar, and even a larger number of gazelle, mountain sheep and ibex.

Sharp, who learned to stalk game in the West Virginia hills, has a strong claim to being the command's best hunter. To date, he has brought down 20 bear, 43 boar, and even a larger number of gazelle, mountain sheep and ibex.

He and his hunting companion have had some uneasy moments on their expeditions.

Recently, they tracked down and killed a 200-pound boar, a vicious animal that will turn upon its attacker without warning. Without transportation, they immersed the boar in a nearby river, tying it securely so that it would not be easy prey for vultures and bear.

The next morning, after completing their midnight to 8 a. m. shift at the railroad roundhouse, Sharp and McDonald went after their prize in a ВЕРИЖКА. 11 Лист-поздравление.

"We soon found out the reason," said Sharp. "There were fresh bear tracks and we could tell he was a big fellow."

He and McDonald set out after Mr. Babin. By noon the hunt was ended, but not after Sharp had some uneasy moments.

"We tracked him up the mountains to some rocks. We knew the bear was hiding, but we were unable to find him. Just as I was about to go over some rocks I spotted him. He had been watching me.

"The first shot, in the head, seemed enough to stop him. He shook his head.
The second shot and he dropped in his tracks."

Sgt. McDonald, Donald P. Booth, commanding the PGC, and Frank S. Bessen, director and general manager of the 3d MRS.

McDonald has had his share of experiences, too. Once a wounded boar took after him. Unable to find a secure spot, he turned his gun around and fired from the hip while on the run.

"Down went the boar," said McDonald. "Boy, that was the luckiest shot I ever made!"

Sgt. McDonald is foreman of the third shift of the Doroud roundhouse where light repairs are made to steam and Diesel-electric locomotives that play over the mountains between Andromethk and Arak. He is a former fuel foreman for the Atchison, Topoka and Santa Fe at Belen, N. M.

McDonald was a section hand for the Western Maryland R. R. prior to joining the Army. He is a mechanic at the roundhouse.

Stewart Collins Boggs

Stewart Carleton Boggs was born on June 21, 1915 near Frankford, Greenbrier county and died at a hospital in Oakland, Calif., on the morning of March 30, 1945. Most of his boyhood days were spent at Boyer, Pocahontas county. He graduated with honors at Greenbank high school in 1933.

Following this, he served in the C. C. Headquarters camp near Kane, Pa., where he worked as a medical assistant in the hospital. While there, he preached to the boys many times. When he left camp, he continued preaching for seven years and was an ordained minister in the Church of God. He held pastorates in three states, conducting successful revivals in many more, and preached over the radio in several western states as he traveled between the eastern and western coasts. In 1936, he was a candidate for the West Virginia Legislature from Greenbrier county. Early in 1942, he entered the employ of the Marine Dry Dock company at Oakland, California. There he became a skilled shipworker and was soon promoted to a shipwright receiving recognition for his skilled workmanship.

Our county has more than subscribed its quota in all ~~years~~ we have been asked to take in the prosecution of the war or the comfort of our armed forces.

Our President Truman has said: "We have won the military victory fight in Europe and the Pacific, but we are virtually just beginning the fight on famine, pestilence, and general distress. And I say to you, will full knowledge of everything that can be done by agencies financed by public funds, that the private agencies of the National War Fund have a special task to do that is indispensable."

the National War Fund have a special task to do that is indispensable."

The end of America's wars has brought the most critical period in the history of the National War Fund.

The war is over but its effects and responsibilities are not. For many the war goes on. Millions of American soldiers scattered throughout the world are now relieved of combat duty. The need to maintain their morale and strengthen their spiritual outlook on life has never been greater. Men who are physically fit may become casualties before they return unless our concern for them expresses itself in maintaining the USO and other agencies concerned with their welfare. As never before victory must be won on the home front in the coming War Fund Campaign.

The climax in the Pacific and coming morale problems of an occupational army, and convalescence, mean a peak load for the USO with no chance of a let up till spring.

The stricken of formally enemy occupied countries look

It's time in the Pacific and coming morale problems of a successful army, and convalescence, men in Japan for the USO with no chance of a let up this spring.

I am stricken of formerly enemy occupied countries look to us—for whom else can they look but to you and me for help. Let's do our part.

This is the time to show that we on the Home Front can take a hard task with a reflection of the courage of our men and women in the service. Let us, let nothing discourage or let down our efforts in Pocahontas County to win a Victory for peace in the October War Fund Campaign. Chairman, District Chairman and fellow workers in Pocahontas County, let's resolve to carry on until Pocahontas County has met its quota in this humanitarian cause. The men and women who have fought to a well earned victory would not want to believe that our county had failed to follow their example of victory.

1000 men and women of Pocahontas in the armed forces want nothing less than total victory. Organize to and all earned victor, would not want to bequeath our country, had failed to follow the example of victory.

Men and women of Pocahontas in the armed forces want nothing less than total victory. Organize to reach every river. The giving is never better than the asking. Let those who know we love them well enough to fight for welfare as they have for our preservation.
We are all very busy at this time of year and giving our time and expense for this very worthy cause. When the scholar call on you be cooperative with them, contribuute as liberally as you can. Lets put Pocahontas County over the top.

Very sincerely,

Pocahontas County War Fund Committee

Marlinion, Served on Navy's "Fightingest" Battleship

Bainbridge, Md., Dec. 20 — George Dempsey Allen, 81c, former member of the crew of the fightingest battleship in the Navy — the USS Pennsylvania — returned to civilian life this week via an honorable discharge from the Navy at the Bainbridge Separation Center.

Although a "veteran" of World War I, the Pennsylvania fired more rounds of ammunition at the Japs in this war than any other ship in the fleet. She was renowned far and wide as the luckiest battleship afloat, surviving many months of the heaviest action without suffering a major enemy hit. That is, she was lucky until the closing days of the war when a Japanese aerial torpedo caught up with her at Buckner Bay in Okinawa. But she remained afloat, was towed to Guam for repairs, and returned to fight again in short order.

Previous to this, the "Pennay" carried its crew and material through all the operations from Attu to the Philippines without loss or injury to crew. In all, she participated in 17 major invasions and one major sea battle.

Members of the crew of the Pennsylvania were awarded the Navy Commendation for their splendid teamwork. In addition, Allen received the American Legion Pacific and Atlantic Service ribbons and the American Legion bar.

Preston County Leads In Number of Deer Killed

Charleston, Dec. 27.—Deer killed during the season that closed December 8 totalled 2,367, according to figures which Game Technician W. R. DeGarmo said he believes are virtually complete. The total compared with 2,051 for the 1944 season.

Preston again led the counties, with 336 bucks being taken within its borders. In 1944 the Preston kill was 389.

Complete figures for Pocahontas county were set at 196; last year the total for this county was 207.

In the belief of conservation officials, the kill would have been much higher if the weather had been better. Veteran game protectors reported that the weather in the northern area was the worst in their experience. Bitter cold, heavy snow and low visibility combined to handicap hunters, and so severe were conditions that many hunters left the woods.

He has wonderful fur that is combed and groomed with a so-called "louse comb" on his hind feet. The fur is so fine and dense that his skin never gets wet. He can close both his nose and ears to the entrance of water. Also, he can close his lips watertight and still cut and gnaw under the water. Cutting is done with incisor teeth which are long, curved and razor sharp. If one gets lost or broken he is doomed to starvation. The opposing incisor as result of lack of use and wear will continue to grow from the root and may even penetrate the opposite jaw. More than

Universal Military Training Favored By Pocahontas Post

At the meeting of the Pocahontas Post No. 30, American Legion, held last Monday, June 11th, it was unanimously voted to support the Curney-May Universal Training Bill Senate 100, House bill 515, now before Congress.

This bill provides that all physically fit youth be required to undergo one year of peace-time training in the armed forces between their 18th and 22nd years, and thereafter be enrolled for six years as reservists. They are not, however, to be subject to call except upon war or other emergency declared by Congress. A boy of 17 may elect to take training at that age with the consent of his parents.

If a youth who completes his training follows it by one year of satisfactory volunteer service in the armed forces he will be exempt from the six year reserve enrollment. He may also obtain the reserve exemption by serving in the National Guard or Naval Reserve for two years or in an organized reserve unit for three years.

This bill is something that the Legion has fought hard for 15 years. It is the overwhelming endorsement of the men who are fighting this war and who know all too well how necessary it is to have adequate training. It is not a war measure but a peace measure. The opponents lately labeled "pacifists" but who could be called anything but youth because their minds could not be turned up under a peacetime system is the same way

Food Conferences Given In This Distr

Food handlers' conferences conducted in this district Department of Health at 2 of the local Health Departments have already 2 Durbin, Marlinton and Springs. Two meetings for today at Leesburg p. m. and two more scheduled at the same hour East Rutherford.

West Virginia regulation the sanitation of food establishments provides for attendance of all food handlers at conferences wherever they are made available. Conferences will be held in the future and attendance necessary in order to qualify for renewal card.

These conferences are for the definite purpose of handing a fundamentals of the basic rules of food handling necessary for the themselves and those of respective establishments and oral instructions. Handling methods will be discussed and the proper use of the equipment will be discussed. The proper use of food establishments, fly, rodent, food inspection, and the storage of food and personal cleanliness.

This bill is something that the Legion has fought hard for 25 years. It has the overwhelming endorsement of the men who are fighting this war and who know, all too well, how necessary it is to have adequate training.
It is not a war measure but a peace program. Its opponents falsely label it conscription, but nothing could be further from the truth, because trainees could not be called up under a selective service system in the same way
as all other men.

The opposition to this bill is the same as those who have opposed all preparedness programs of our country. It is always their plea that the matter be delayed for some reason or other, or be thrown out completely. In 1914 and 1916 they were against preparedness and how many lives can be charged against this opposition because of our unpreparedness in the first World War. In 1920 they opposed the National Defense Act. In 1923 and subsequent years they raised their voices against appropriations for the Army and Navy. In 1924 they fought against support of R O T and C M T C. In 1925 they waged war against appropriations for National Guard and Reserve Officers Training. In 1937 they were against enrollment in the C C C.
In 1938 they opposed conscrip-

In 1943 the same groups were fighting the induction of 18-year-old boys, and today we find these same groups combating the Universal Military Training and asking that action be postponed, knowing that it will be adopted if action is being taken today.

If you believe in Universal Military Training as a post-war peace program, as a real insurance policy to insure future peace, as a protection against aggression, as a means of having our youth prepared for emergencies and being able to protect themselves and our nation, then write your senators and congressmen to hasten the passage of this bill as a post-war peace program.

You believe in insurance on your property, your car, your person and your life. Why not insure our nation's future freedom and peace?

Bronze Star Awarded To Lieutenant (j. g.) Walter Jett Of The U. S. Naval Reserve

For distinguishing himself by heroic and meritorious service in the line of his profession while serving as machine gun control officer and recognition officer aboard a ship in the Southwest Pacific area during a period when his ship was subjected to many attacks by Japanese aircraft Lt (jg) Jett controlled the fire of his battery so skillfully that the enemy planes were either destroyed or driven off before they could inflict damage. By his own splendid example under the attack of enemy aircraft, he inspired the men of his battery to such a state of alertness that they were able to pick up, identify and take under fire, enemy planes which had escaped detection by other means. His courage and devotion to duty have distinguished him among those performing duties of the same character.

By virtue of the power delegated me, I take pleasure in awarding in the name of the President of the United States the Bronze Star to Lt Walter Earl Jett.

Pfc. Jerry S. Gray, of Cass, Awarded Bronze Star Medal For Heroic Action in France

Under the provisions of AR 600-45, dated 22 September 1943, as amended, the Bronze Star Medal has been awarded to Private First Class (then Private) Jerry S. Gray, Company M, 291st Infantry, for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against the enemy on February 4, 1945, in France, it is announced by the War Department.

Private Gray volunteered to carry mortar ammunition on foot in the fighting in progress in the Colmar Pocket. He traversed a route over which the enemy had perfect observation and subjected to heavy fire from enemy mortars and self propelled guns. During a barrage he was knocked to the ground from the concussion of a shell bursting nearby and several of the members of the carrying party could not continue because of wounds sustained from this bursting shell. Private Gray picked up the ammunition of his wounded comrades and continued upon his mission, making several trips to the ammunition dump.

Private First Class Gray is a resident of Cass, W. Va.

The "Copperheads" of Marlinton high school were poison to Greenbrier Military School Reserves last Saturday afternoon on the local grid-iron. The final score was 15-6 and thanks to several fumbles it was not 30-6. That was about the correct margin between the two teams. Coach Lord had his boys following the ball and tackling hard and Greenbrier never really made a threat at their goal line, the lone score was the result of a 40 yard pass which a Marlinton boy failed to play correctly.

The first downs were 11 for Marlinton to 1 for G. M. S.

GRAND JURY RETURNS SEVERAL INDICTMENTS

Mr. The Pocahontas grand jury Tuesday afternoon returned three indictments against Clyde Sharp 19, of Elkins. Two of the charges are for murder in the first degree, one for killing his grandmother, Mrs. Clark Sharp, and the other for the killing of his uncle, William Sharp, at their home on Dry Fork, on the night of July 29. The third indictment is for stealing a horse.

Brown Wiley, local CCC enrollee, is charged with driving while under the influence of liquor in connection with the fatal crash which claimed the life of William Jarrett.

James H. Smith, clerk of this city court, is the clerk for the grand jury.

SMITH SPEAKS AT CAMP SENECA

Today night, at Camp Seneca, gathered perhaps the greatest and most colorful group of people ever to hear an address on patriotism in Pockhonias county. Camp officials estimate that the attendance was well over 1,000, composed of CCC boys from all nearby camps and about 250 veterans and friends.

Deep in the beautiful hills of this country, and situated in a small pine forest, is a small valley, where the people of the nation, the Indians, live. The name of the valley is "Sereva," and the people are called "Sereva."
The people of the nation are very kind and friendly to the white people, and they are very happy and contented.

erected on the rows of benches and benches for bleachers, and erected a speakers platform in the center of the "Pine Bowl", as the boys refer to it. The entrance to camp and the speakers platform were decorated with the Stars and Stripes. This setting was dramatical enough to thrill the heart of any one who paid
the camp a visit, then into this picture stepped the greatest speaker with the greatest message, in the state of West Virginia, Hon. Claude Smith, of St. Albans, immediate past commander of the American Legion, speaking on the subject of "Americanism."

The writer stood with L. M. Witham, of Lewisburg, District No. 7 commander, and G. W. Livesay, most commander of the Lewisburg Legion,

Causes and Prevention of the Problem

Mr. Fletcher is a graduate of the Forest Hill High School and is employed as a Machinist.

SONG SERVICE AT SLATY FORK

A very enjoyable Song Service was held at the Sats. Park Church Sunday afternoon, September 15, with a large crowd in attendance.

Splendid singing and string music was furnished by Misses Pauline and Dorcas Moses, and Mr. Davis, of Marlinton, Ray Horned and two sons from Hurricane. Several selections were rendered by each group.

Congregational services were led by John Waugh of Marlinton and Charles Reiter of Lenoir. Mrs. A. E. Lewis of Marlinton sang two solos, playing her own accompaniment on the piano. Three young ladies from a nearby town, Misses Frances Horbach, Virginia Green and Jean White sang two hymns. The church ladies have been holding a song service on a regular basis.

1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.

2. Next, it is important to gather relevant information and data. This can be done through research, consultation with experts, or by analyzing existing data sets.

3. Once the information is gathered, the next step is to develop a plan or strategy to address the problem. This often involves breaking the problem down into smaller, more manageable parts.

4. The fourth step is to implement the plan. This involves putting the strategy into action and monitoring progress as you go.

5. Finally, it is essential to evaluate the results of the process. This involves comparing the outcomes against the original goals and objectives to determine if the problem has been effectively solved.

I have before me a copy of the Journal dated August 18th, in which the estimate of the levy proposed to be laid by the county board of education is published. In this estimate I have found the following proposed expenditures to be raised by direct taxation levied on my property and my neighbor's property and every other man's property within this county for the following purposes:

CASS 4-H NEWS

The Red Hawks 4-H Club met at the Cass school. A very interesting program was held as follows.

After the meeting was called to order by Miss Ann Hannah, the president, we sang, "Come All Ye Club Folks". Katherine Talerman read the scripture reading and Jannette Hilde led us in prayer.

The roll call was answered by a favorite color.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Most of our program was taken from 4-H suggestions. Maggie Cross gave a talk about trees. Then Sayings of Sanitary Sam were read by Minnie Valentine. Business was discussed by Miss Hannah, our leader.

We then sang "West Virginia". We then sang, "West Virginia Boys and Girls".

The Club then adjourned to meet January 20th, 1974 at the Cass School House.

ITS SNAKE KILLING CONTEST CAME TO CLOSE ON LAST MONDAY IN COUNTY

The snake and waterdog killing contest, which started in Pocahontas county June 1st, came to a close on last Monday, July 31st.

It is estimated that several hundred snakes and other vermis listed in the contest, have been killed during this period. In former contests, the dates have been from May 1st to July 31st, but owing to the late start this year, it was held only during the months of June and July.

The prize list this year surpassed any other to be offered in a contest of this kind in the county, which was

tance ahead the gulch turned to the right and the road rose out of it by another incline. At the bottom of this cut in the bank sat a small black dog.

"Dog!" announced David, squirming about in his mother's arms. As far as he was concerned, all was again well with the world. Something of this feeling came to the parents. With a backward glance, which now held wonder instead of blind fear, they went forward with quickened step.

When they were quite near, the dog—one of whose remote ancestors had undoubtedly been part Spanish—moved out of sight at the side of the incline. A few more strides again brought the man and girl to a rigid halt in the path.

approved their part of the plans for the construction of an airport for Marlinton. The project is directed by a committee headed by a government agent in charge of the project. The airport is to be located on the east grounds about 10 miles north of here on the road to the new high school estate.
The runway is to be 500 feet wide and 1000 feet long and it is estimated that the project will involve an expenditure of approximately $100,000. The project when completed, will be almost in a direct line with the Cincinnati to Washington route, and it is hoped that Marlinton may eventually get air mail service.

The project will be done with CWA labor and the council directed A. O.
Baxter to proceed at once with the surveying and work will be started as soon as it is approved in Charleston.

The council received an offer from F. P. A. administrator of the Bird estate to lease approximately thirty-four acres for the field at $2.60 an acre for a period of five years, and an option to purchase this amount at $100.00 an acre, or to sell now at a price of $20.00 an acre if the con-sell would take a tract involving approximately one hundred acres. The reason of the wide range in price is because it would separate a tract of land, now adjoining the farm, and move it by itself without a right-of-way.

GOLDEN WILLIAMS IS SHOT AND KILLED ON ELK LAST SUNDAY

Lafayette Fitzpatrick Hled On Bond of $5,000 As Assailant—Shot Enters Chest—Dies Instantly

On last Sunday afternoon at about 6:45 p. m., Lafayette Fitzpatrick shot and killed Golden O. Williams, 26 years of age, at the home of Charley Simmons, near Slaty Fork.

Fitzpatrick and Williams got into an argument, which later ended in the death of Williams. It is said that Williams threatened to kill the Simmons family along with Fitzpatrick, and pile them on the floor together.

Immediately after the shooting, Fitzpatrick called the local state police to come and get him and told them what he had done. The local police brought him to Marlinton and placed him in jail for a hearing on Wednesday, where he pleaded self defense and was returned to jail in default of $5,000 bond.

Williams' people were notified of the shooting but no word was received from them and burial was made today (Thursday) at Marlinton.

TODAY (Thursday) at Matineon.

methods is responsible for the present deplorable state of our highways. That and nothing else. The Democratic administration has used the State Road Department for building up a political machine without regard for efficiency. When they got through not a single experienced road engineer was left in the Road Department. They were dismissed for the high crime of having served under a Republican administration, and when they went their long years of experience went with them. They were replaced by Democratic ward heelers who, for the most part, do not know the first principals of road building. Now, as a result of this "axe reform," it will cost the taxpayers of West Virginia two million dollars to put the highways in condition again.

What price political machine?

—O—

THE SAME OLD REMEDY

The Roosevelt Administration has a single remedy for every public problem—Spend more money.

It now is proposed to toss $2,000,000 into the pot for a foray of crime, to be spent in arming and deploying two hundred or three hundred more federal agents.

Despite all the money that is being used, we leaern that the Attorney General's men have been chasing Dillinger and others in automobiles confiscated in liquor raids, and are armed in part with weapons taken from bandits. And so, we are told, some armored cars and modern arms are needed.

Why it hasn't been proposed to press some of the army equipment and perhaps personnel into service, hasn't been explained. Even with the sad experience of Army flying so fresh in mind, it might be worth while to give the Army a try at gangland.

Apparently, there is plenty of work to be done. The gang war is only part of it. The alcohol tax unit, a modest little aggregation of 3,600 men, is being well put into shape. Its job is to fight bootleggers—bootleggers who were put out of existence with repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. They seem not to have done so. Indeed, the force the Government now is prepared to throw against the bootlegger is fifty per cent larger than that operating before repeal.

It is a very comforting, but part of the New Deal. The theory seems to be that if enough money is sent the sheer weight of dollars will correct any condition, no matter how sour the advance analysis may have proven. Already the Government is spending money at the rate of more than $19,000,000 a day. To meet this outlay, it has been collecting a little over $4 a second. In other words, we are running in debt at the rate of nearly $11 a second a day in this mud-gooing scramble for "relief."

How long it will take the American people to recover from this sort of "recovery" is a most disturbing thought.

WORK STARTED IN CO. ON NEW WORKS PROGRAM

George H. Williams, of Romney, district supervisor of the National Reemployment Service, made a hurried visit to Marlinton on last Thursday night to organize a county reemployment board of five members and to see that they employed a manager and an interviewer; to instruct the two elective officers in their duties. Mr. Williams left early Friday morning for Elkins.

The committee was to be composed of five members, not more than three of whom could belong to the same political party and at least one of them from the county welfare board. The manager must be an ex-service man with executive ability; mature judgment; initiative and ability; well tempered, with experience to fit him for the position; without physical defects; experience in industrial, commercial or educational fields de-

On Saturday Mr Bear and Miss

about December 4th.

to put four millions of men to work

Pocahontas County, Monday morning with 140 men on ten approved projects, as follows:

Cass to Greenbank road, 14 men;
Back Mtn. road, Durbin to Cass, 17 men.

Hillsboro to Denmar road, 13 men.

Lobelia to Jacox road, 14 men.

Edray to Woodrow road, 13 men.

Marlinton, 10th street, 13 men.

State road project 73 through Marlinton and route 43, 13 men.

Edray to Cloverlick road, 13 men.

Browns Creek road, 15 men.

State rock quarry at Edray, 14 men.

Men will be put to work on other projects as they are approved at Charleston and Washington.

It is understood that any unemployed person, whether on the R. P. C. work list as of November or

... is required to come before the reemployment office to be registered.
After December 4th, any person without employment, and makes application, will be put on the list. Workers will be supplied to all projects of a public nature, even to contractors on public roads. On the work projects carried on with national funds, the wage will be 35 cents per hour with a 40 hour week.

Employers of labor are requested to get into communication with the local office whenever they need em-

The county welfare board will continue to take care of direct re-

to work through physical inability,
but the caring for projects with per-

be cared for hereafter by the re-

The Sound Money Boys are put-of Secretary Woodin and two of his able assistants has stirred the country to thought. For the first time in months, there is apparent a disposition to cease being sheplike.

I have seen the statement made recently that the United States is the first country to desert the gold standard when not compelled to do so.
We should not have done that for the very simple, but powerful, reason that no government should abrogate its contracts unless it is unable to fulfil them.

I suspect that our government will not be able to meet its obligations;
that many of its subdivisions are hopelessly involved; that millions of its citizens are bankrupt: In view of these facts, if it would do any good,
I have thought a revaluation of the dollar in gold might be the best way out of a bad situation.

Whether such a course would do any good is doubtful in the extreme.
But, if the dollar is to be revalued,
it should be done and got over with.

Although the civil folk of West Virginia stand staunchly by their principles, their votes were long Tuesday in a smother of the 4th of July that indicated West Virginia will be the fifteenth state to ratify the national proposal.

More than half of the state's 2304 precincts gave the twenty first vote. The voters selected the vote was 128,943 for the repeal and 71,982 against.

June 23, Seventeen counties, most of them, however, sparsely populated and all of them, turned in varying majorities for retention of the eighteenth amendment. The larger counties which have iron, coal, steel mills, glass plants and other industries are located on the leading road and hence that carry as high as 100,000 votes to one.

A long on prohibition for the first time since 1912 when it gave 9,000 votes.

Miss Patricia daughter, Katie, and her family, Mrs. A. C. Pifer and Miss Helen throughout spent a few days in the mountains, last week. Mrs. J. J. Pifer has returned home after visiting in Rochester a week.

Not a county listed as industrial or as a large mining center was returned as a dry stronghold. Some of them are timber counties, others are located in the agricultural (the valley and the others are large) rural with a few mines in some of them. Lewis, Culmer and Raleigh in the heart of the oil and gas belt, also gave dry majorities.

West Virginia is the first state to lose the Mason Dixon line (1912) in the repeal. Most of those counties that border on southern states voted wet, although Monroe was dry and there was a fairly close race in West Virginia. Both of them border on Virginia (old Dominion).

Miss Mary Foster and Mrs. A. C. McMahon of Staten Island, N. Y., are guests at Clark's Hotel this week.

Judge and Mrs. George N. Pifer and their family of Baltimore, Md., are at their summer camp, "Island Point" on the Chesapeake Bay.

DURBIN NEWS

Second C. C. C. Camp Established:

A special train carrying the boys enrolled in the civilian conservation camp, located on Cheat Mountain, arrived early Friday morning from Camp Knox, Ky. This is the second camp to be established in this vicinity, the first being located at Thornwood, seven miles east of Durbin. The 226 boys making up Co. 1536 on Cheat, are from Port mouth, Iron-ton, and other parts of Ohio, with a few from West Virginia, and are in charge of Captain G. Cronander. Captain Cronander is assisted by Captain Page, camp physician.

The newly located camp had a number of local visitors, Sunday. Many of those who talked with the boys said the enrollees were delighted with the prospects of spending the summer on the mountain.

The newly located camp had a number of local visitors, Sunday, and those who talked with the boys, said the enrollees were delighted with the prospects of spending the summer on the mountain project, which will be clearing a 100 foot right-of-way for fire protection, on the W. Maryland R. R. branch from Bemis to Bergoo. They are well pleased with the army crew, and one youngster from Portsmouth said this was the first time he had eaten square meals, three times a day, for many a moon.

Sunday evening a number of the boys from both camps attended the M. E. church south, where they were addressed by Woodrow Herold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loche Herold.

Pocahontas County Four-H Clubs Hold Annual Achievement Banquet

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear Father, Daniel Ryder, who passed away 3 years ago.

Just three years ago today, you so quickly passed away.

And so sudden was the call
To the one we loved by all.

Ever since you have left us
every time it is hard to smile,
For our hearts are sad and lonely and we miss you all the while.

The moon and stars are shining upon a lonely grave.

Where sleeps the darling Father we loved but could not save.

We often sit and think of you and wonder how you died.

To think you could not

Farewell Dinner at Cass for Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Thompson

The office and store personnel of the Mower Lumber Co. in Cass, honored Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Thompson at a turkey dinner, Friday evening, October 12. The dinner was served at 7:30 p. m. in Mrs. Maggie Vint's restaurant, and the occasion was an appreciation and farewell to Mr. Thompson, who has resigned as manager of the Mower store.

Mr. Thompson has acted in that capacity since December 7, 1943, when he replaced R. L. Wright, former manager, who was called into the armed services.

During the period of almost two years as manager of this extensive commercial business, Mr. Thompson gave his best efforts to its success and made many friends throughout the community who will regret to see him go.

He has accepted a position with another company, but has not definitely decided where he and Mrs. Thompson will reside in the future. For the pres-

Only the difficulties involved in assembling trains to carry the men to their proper Reception Stations holds the men at Camp Blanding for more than a few hours. In the maximum of 36 hours which they may spend here, the men receive summer uniforms if they returned to this country without one, get $10 pay advance to pay immediate expenses, and are told the details of redeployment process.

At the Reception Stations the men are classified for discharge or redeployment for further duty. Those being discharged go to Separation Centers and return home as civilians, while the men remaining in service get "temporary duty at home" before going on to their new assignment. Jeanne McCutcheon

Writes Home of Travels

An entertaining letter received by Mrs. L. C. McCutcheon from her daughter, Jeanne, a nurse, who is with the 106th Station Hospital and was transferred from Naples, Italy, to Okinawa, is published here as follows:

Okinawa, September 21, 1945

Dear Mother,

Three months from the day we left Naples and at last we are on land again. We are on Okinawa, that's about all I know—except that it's raining and muddy. I was getting mighty tired of living out of a suitcase and soon would have had to appear in my birthday suit and then when we open our bed rolls—they are quite wet and mildewed. (You know we roll our uniforms and other things in our bed roll). But I am better off than some.

long, hot trip. We were on a nice large transport, the Admiral R. Coonty, and our food was excellent. It would taste wonderful now after a couple of days of C rations. I don't know how much longer we will have to eat rations and drink warm, chlorinated water (ice is unheard of).

We were in the staging area at Marseilles, France, for two weeks. Left there on July 21st and came through the Panama Canal on August 2nd. Docked at Panama City for a day and how we did want to go ashore—but no one was allowed off the boat. Three days out of Pearl Harbor we got the first false report of peace and of course everyone started to celebrate—but our spirits soon fell. We arrived at Pearl Harbor early Sunday morning, August 12th, and had another false report, but we did not get so excited that time. Harbor early Sunday morning, August 12th, and had another false report, but we did not get so excited that time. Finally on Monday night at 7.30 we were all sitting on deck watching a show the USO was staging on the dock for our benefit when all hell broke loose—anyway that's just what it reminded me of. It was the real thing this time—and here we were when the war ended, tied up right at Hickam Field where it all started.

I certainly shall never forget the celebration. There were hundreds of ships in the harbor and of course the horns were blowing, the bells were ringing and about all night flares were shot from boats and Hickam Field and all the boats and air field too had their search lights on. It was wonderful to see it all and really know that the war was over. We sat there until Wednesday noon but were not allowed off the boat. I would certainly like to visit Honolulu and the area.

since it was all over, but evidently they think they need us yet. Our next stop was at Eniwetok where we went ashore for a short time. Then on to Saipan where we also went ashore. I have never seen such a large officers' club, nor so many officers in all my life—and to think that brother Roose was right there and I didn't know it until I got here and got my mail. I was sure I was going to see Bob there. So many LST's were there and I saw 1012 and thought surely 1013 would be there too, but one of the naval officers inquired for me and said it was at Okinawa.

From Saipan we went to Guam where we went ashore for a few hours—and, oh my, the heat! I can't understand how people live there. Then we went on to the Ulithi Islands where we sat for two weeks. We had shore privileges and spent every afternoon on the beach. Our officers and enlisted have everything ready and we passed their returning ship, the "Sea Star," after leaving Saipan and knew they had arrived.

We pulled into Okinawa on the 15th of September and expected to go ashore on the 16th when this typhoon came along. So they took us back to sea and we went halfway to the China Coast—but don't think we missed the typhoon. It was terrible and for the first time in all my traveling I got sea sick and so did everyone else. But it was a good thing we were at sea as our camping area. It was hardest hit of any area on the island. Our men had worked so hard and had our tents all fixed with floors and electric lights, and then had everything to do over again. We are living 12 to a tent and not doing much now (this is a staging area). We are supposed to go into Japan on October 15 and I must see Roosevelt before I go on. We are not allowed out of our area unless we are area). We are supposed to go into Japan on October 15 and I must see Roose before I go on. We are not allowed out of our area unless we are armed and we must also have two armed escorts. So I feel like her royal highness. I have several people watching for Bob's boat and inquiring for Roose and the happiest day of my life will be when I see them.

I forgot to tell you that two days out of Eniwetok we celebrated our two years overseas. The Navy gave us a nice dinner.

When we docked here a couple of our officers brought our mail on board to us, and how glad we were to get it. I had only one letter from you since June 6th and I got it in Panama. I have read and reread all my letters.

Now Colosel Fisher tells us that all of us who have been overseas over two years will probably be going home soon—so "California, Here I Come."

We might even leave before going on to Japan. I will write again as soon as I find out anything.

1. The first step is to identify the problem. In this case, the problem is that the company is not meeting its sales targets.

The first step in the process of creating a new product is to identify a market need. This is often done through market research, which involves gathering information about the target market and its needs. Once a market need has been identified, the next step is to develop a concept for a product that meets that need. This is often done through brainstorming and prototyping. Once a concept has been developed, the next step is to create a business plan. This plan should outline the costs of production, the pricing strategy, and the marketing strategy. Once a business plan has been created, the next step is to secure funding. This can be done through a variety of methods, including bank loans, venture capital, and crowdfunding. Once funding has been secured, the next step is to manufacture the product. This is often done through a contract manufacturer. Once the product has been manufactured, the next step is to distribute it. This can be done through a variety of methods, including direct sales, retail stores, and online sales. Finally, the last step in the process is to evaluate the product's performance. This is often done through customer feedback and sales data.

The first step in the process of creating a new product is to identify a market need. This involves conducting market research to understand the current market landscape, identify gaps, and determine the target audience. Once a market need is identified, the next step is to develop a concept or prototype. This stage involves brainstorming ideas, creating sketches, and building a functional model of the product. The third step is to conduct a feasibility study, which assesses the technical, financial, and market viability of the product. This study helps to identify potential risks and opportunities, and provides a basis for decision-making. The fourth step is to develop a business plan, which outlines the company's goals, strategies, and financial projections. This plan is essential for securing funding and guiding the company's operations. The final step is to launch the product and monitor its performance. This involves marketing the product, distributing it, and gathering feedback from customers to inform future improvements.

Lee's Tree Gone, But Site Is Mecca

By ANIRINY DONNELLY

The Mountaineer Travel Club of N. Y. which promotes the scenic southern section of the Mountain State and is headed by Oliver B. Porterfield of Adams as managing director has requested visitors who see Lee's Tree and the old stone tower.

The request came a week ago but only now has the mail worked down to where response can be made.

LEE'S TREE. State sugar maple which stood for years at Big Swamp Mountain highest point on the Mount Zion as you head out of Asheville on R. R. near the road that runs to the mountain summit there is a site a historic marker.

It was under that spreading sugar maple tree that Gen. Robert E. Lee's tent was pitched during the Seven Mountain campaign.

The tree which was large even in old days and standing as a landmark for many years, died last year because of a disease which was spreading from the base and killing the leaves.

When you go to the new day camp and picnic area where the fallen tree stood as reported by a hiker, you will find the hollowed out trunk of the tree at the base of the stone tower which was built in 1880.

When the tent of the general was pitched under the tree, the soldiers were camped in the hollowed out trunk of the tree.

Today the famous sugar maple is no more but the site still stands as a landmark. The spot was used for 10 years as the residence of a general. It was just 10 years ago that Lee was on his way to the Seven Mountains.

During the cold winter and summer months the year his command was in the area. He was a general of the army and he was the only one who was not killed in the war. He was the only one who was not killed in the war.

When camped on Big Swamp under the sugar maple tree Lee received some news which was a big Lee's tree and sent to the general. He gave them to soldiers who were in the area when their general died.

IT WAS WHILE Lee's men were struck with measles and diphtheria pneumonia that a housing in the area was used for hospital care. It was at that time that the old stone house then in its 10th year of existence was put into use as a hospital and quarters.

It was in the year 1880 when the stone house was at hand to shelter them.

Now it is a beautiful view of the mountain foot of Big Swamp Mountain in Western Carolina. This famous landmark was one of the first signs of the road between the North and South.

When the Lee's tent was pitched under the tree, the soldiers were camped in the hollowed out trunk of the tree. The soldiers were camped in the hollowed out trunk of the tree.

And Lee told Lee of the accommodations afforded by the Lee's tent and the stone house. The soldiers were camped in the hollowed out trunk of the tree. The soldiers were camped in the hollowed out trunk of the tree.

IT WAS WHILE Robert E. Lee was camped under the sugar maple tree he got his first glimpse of Transylvania. The soldiers were camped in the hollowed out trunk of the tree.

At first sight of the horse Lee heard him and decided about the general. Transylvania had been named as the Andrew Johnson farm in the western country and was owned by a man in Lee's command. Lee decided if the soldiers were Lee's but it did not pass into the general's possession until a year later when it was one of the Lee's.

Lee then paid in gold when he bought the general's horse refusing to accept him as a gift.

Early Irish Of Greenbrier County-I

By SHIRLEY BOONWELL

A letter says that when this section was settled it was the sons of Irish who came in through the mountains and built the first homes. The Irish who found homes in Greenbrier County.

And in the days at hand on the Irish and Irish American descendants of Greenbrier County. I don't think I am full of the descendants of the sons of the Irish.

There was a settlement of Irish in the mountains of western Greenbrier County. The first settlers were Michael Sullivan, Mr. John Sullivan, Pat Sullivan, Michael Sullivan, Pat Sullivan, James Fleming, the Sullivan, the Sullivan, and others. These came from the old country, the Emerald Isle.

There is a tradition that they moved to the mountains of western Greenbrier County because it was close to the land in Ireland. It was the land of the Irish.

And another primary consideration was that it was close to the land in Ireland. It was the land of the Irish.

A well known story of the Irish in the mountains of western Greenbrier County. The first settlers were Michael Sullivan, Mr. John Sullivan, Pat Sullivan, Michael Sullivan, Pat Sullivan, James Fleming, the Sullivan, the Sullivan, and others. These came from the old country, the Emerald Isle.

The Government has been very active in the past few years in the field of health care. It has established a number of new agencies and programs to improve the quality of health care and to make it more accessible to all Americans. The Government has also been working to reduce the costs of health care, which is one of the most important issues facing the country today.

34 Carat Diamond To Be Shown At Fair

By THORNTON DONNELLY

One of the cornerstones of the exhibition at the 1944 State Fair of Texas will be the second Punch Jones diamond which weighs 34.44 metric carats or 4.40 grams.

This second stone was found in April, 1934, when William F. Punch, 17 years and his father, Thomas C. Jones were picking horse shoes about 100 ft. from their home at Palestine, Moore County.

The picked stone had worn a hole like one to a foot deep at the stake. When Punch picked up one of the horse shoes, it struck an object that rang. He picked it up and remarked with a sort of boyish glee that he carved it how that he had found himself a diamond.

And he had.

BUT IT WAS about 15 years before the boy knew for sure this "big bright object" that he picked up was a small, round, white, as nearly an actual diamond as Mar 1, 1941, when was then a student at U. P. I. in Austin, he turned over the stone to R. J. London, professor of geology at the famed school for identification.

After Dr. London received the stone, more or less he began to work on it about making a careful examination of it in some of his time. He worked on it for weeks. After a while he found it to be very different from a diamond.

It is a very different stone from a diamond. It is a very different stone from a diamond. It is a very different stone from a diamond. It is a very different stone from a diamond.

It is of good color and appears to be a perfect stone from its imperfections. A more detailed discussion is being prepared which with your approval will offer for publication.

IN VOLUME 27 No. 4 of the Bulletin of the U. S. Geological Survey, last issue of February, 1944, there was printed the story by Dr. R. J. London of "The Punch Jones and Other Aquatic Diamonds."

This 22 page publication is of a very interesting nature and deals at length with the Punch Jones stone and its showing various illustrations and pictures of it.

A copy of Dr. London's book let on the subject of this gem stone was sent me some years ago for the story and is on the desk as this is being typed.

The "Punch Jones diamond" was on display in the Smithsonian Institution for use at Washington for a number of years.

WHENCE CAME this huge stone, largest natural diamond ever found on this continent? How did it get to Petersburg?

Dr. London believes the stone may have had three possible histories.

It may have been derived from a local igneous rock. It may have come from a conglomerate with no little or much transport after release. It might have been transported from its point of origin to point of discovery through a conventional transport so long and so intricate that it is useless to speculate on anything except its origin.

The first seems the least probable of the three because there are no known local igneous rocks and because the surface markings indicate a long journey.

The second was equally unlikely in that the other two gem stones were found in the same place as the diamond was in Petersburg.

NOW FOR A WORD about the "Punch Jones" diamond. It was found in the winter of 1934 in the Punch Jones mine. It was a very rare stone and important.

It had a large hole in one side and was an octahedron with eight rounded faces. It was the Punch Jones diamond in its natural form is a hexahedron with eight faces.

After the "Punch Jones" was cut, it weighed 34.44 carats. It originally was for 31.40 carats but was raised to only a fraction of what it cost for the stone.

In 1934 a diamond was found in Petersburg, Va. by Frank Brewster, owner of a mine near Petersburg, Va. It was the second diamond found by him in his mine.

"PUNCH" JONES never tried to profit from the big diamond he discovered. He went into the army in World War II and was killed in action in the Rhine campaign of late 1944 and early 1945.

It was after Kaiser's death that he as a non-commissioned officer and his lieutenant were out on an armed patrol when they stumbled onto a German machine gun nest which saved them both.

It was while we were there at Kaiser's death that I did hear of the young man's death. At the time I was at Petersburg shortly after my return from the war. A trip was made to Petersburg to call on the 12-foot round soldier's portrait.

The first step in the process of creating a new product is to identify a market need. This involves conducting market research to understand the preferences and behaviors of potential customers. Once a need is identified, the next step is to develop a concept that addresses this need. This concept should be unique, valuable, and feasible. The third step is to create a prototype, which is a preliminary model of the product. This allows the team to test the concept and make necessary adjustments. The fourth step is to conduct a feasibility study, which evaluates the technical, financial, and operational aspects of the product. Finally, the product is launched into the market, and the team monitors its performance and customer feedback to make further improvements.

Things have been rather quiet and peaceful out Richlands way this spring so perhaps I shouldn't bring the subject up. It might break the spell.

On the other hand, so many of you seemed interested in reading about and even in seeing Richlands famous infamous captured critters, more commonly known as "the Varmints," that I thought perhaps you'd like to know that the subject is not dead although the varmints are.

Dr. Barbara Lawrence of Harvard University, who for years has been studying a new species of animals called "canid" which means it's related to dogs, wolves and coyotes, has become interested in the skulls, photos and information of our Greenbrier varmints.

First, a brief review: from the summer of 1965 until February 11, 1967 when Sam Jarrell trapped and shot the first were offered. Coyote, Red Wolf and Sus seemed to no one was sure.

Meanwhile, C. J. Ley, Jr. whose recently retired had become interested in the subject is Curator in Charge of Mammals of the Institution. He is the one trap to Dr. Barbara Lawrence of the Museum of Zoology, Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

killed more than 200 sheep in the Richlands area. Late spring to mid-summer saw more than 100 more killed by an unusual method of kill. In all of the sheep killed there was no evidence that they had moved or kicked at all. They were killed instantly with one grab under the ear and only a little of the meat eaten.

On July 24, Roy Scott of Lewisburg, shot a pup of the variety. Later four pups were shot by Hadley Withrow, Jim Holiday, Joe Jarrett and Jarrett's nephew.

On December 10, Okey Crone and Jess Jones discovered an old one trapped in a blind set beaver snare which had been set by Paul "Jake" Hilleary on the E. A. Tuckwiller farm. Hilleary, a trapper for the State Department of Natural Resources, had been called in on the cast last summer. He spent twenty-two days in the area on his first visit and ten days later. The Department called off official trapping when word came back from Washington that the head of the first varmint killed was "just a dog."

Hilleary disagreed with the verdict. So did Dr. James F. Mann, a local veterinarian, and most of the farmers and sportsmen who had become interested, so Hilleary began trapping in his free time. A few days after the one was trapped in December, another one was trapped which had different color fur and slightly different physical features, but the same viciousness.

The animals were kept in a cage for a while in the shop at E. A. Tuckwiller, Jr.'s farm and for almost a week hundreds of cars and trucks were parked along the driveway and road as men, women and children came to look at them.
